His Name Rouses Persistent Boos in the Assembly's Closing Hours.

TO MEET AGAIN ON MAY 11

Anti-Bucket Shop Bill Goes Through—Grady in Tearful Speech Intimates He Will Not Return.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 23.—The Legislature adjourned sine die to-day, after defeating or failing to act upon the most important of Gov. Hughes's reforms, including the anti-race-track gambling bills, the plan to extend the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commissions to the telephone and telegraph companies, and his comprehensive scheme of ballot reform.

Three hours after the final fall of the gavel, the Governor issued a proclamation for an extraordinary session of the Legislature, to convene on May 11, when he expects to renew his recommendations for the enactment of those reforms which were ignored at the regular session which closed to-day. The proclamation is as follows:

"Pursuant to the power vested in me by Section 4 of Article IV. of the Constitution, I hereby convene the Legislature in extraordinary session at the Capitol in the City of Albany, on Monday, the 11th day of May, 1908, at 8:30 o'clock, post meridian.

Hughes Hissed in Assembly.

Bitter discourtesy and open hostility to Gov. Hughes were manifested during the closing hours in both houses in a manner which stands without precedent in the history of the State. In the Assembly his name was repeatedly hissed and booed. In the upper house the same spirit was shown, though the dignity of Senate procedure prevented an open outbreak.

The extraordinary scene of hostility in the Assembly, which shocked many of the guests, came during a recess. The legislative business of the day was thus divided to permit the Committee of Rules to dispose of some eleventh-hour bills. The recess was enlivened by the usual rough-house and horseplay, while the Catholic Protectory Band, which came up from New York, played many lively airs for the entertainment of the Assemblymen and their guests.

It was while this jollification was at its height that Speaker Wadsworth was cheered repeatedly as "Our next Governor." One member then proposed three cheers for Gov. Hughes. A dead silence followed. Then another member proposed the courtesy again, and immediately there were long-sustained hisses and loud and persistent boos throughout the Assembly Chamber.

An inkling of how many of the Senators felt, some of whom are of the Governor's party, was given when the Governor's manifesto in relation to an extra session was read by Lafayette B. Gleason, Clerk of the Senate, to a group of Senators and others. Senator Armstrong of Rochester, one of the Governor's friends and the chief advocate of his reforms on the floor of the Senate, turned around and remarked: "I suggest the sending of a message to the Governor telling him to go to hell."

Close of Session Dull.

The close of the session was dull and spiritless. The calendars of both houses had been cleared yesterday of all important bills. In the final hours of the Senate's session there was a memorial service for Senator Franchot, and speeches complimentary to Lieut.-Gov. Chanler and Senators Raines and Grady, the majority and minority leaders, were read.

Mr. Chanler received a handsome silver flower dish as a token of the esteem of the members of the Senate, while other pieces of silver service were given to Senators Raines, Grady, White, and Armstrong.

Senator Grady, whose legislative career has extended over a period of twenty-six years, intimated in his speech that he would not return to the Senate next year. His speech was a tearful effort, and some of those on the minority side of the Senate wept as the veteran leader delivered what was interpreted by some as his valedictory.

The attitude of the Governor toward the Legislature was indicated in his response to the committees of the Senate and Assembly sent to him to formally communicate that they "had performed their duty" and were about to adjourn. Gov. Hughes replied:

"I congratulate your honorable body upon the measures of value which have been passed, and I regret that other measures which are of great importance to the people of the State have failed to pass. In view of your action with regard to adjournment, I have no further recommendations to make at this time."

Anti-Bucket Shop Bill Passes.

The most important feature of the legislative work to-day was the passage in the Assembly of the Cassidy Anti-Bucket Shop bill. It was adopted by a party vote and it now goes to the Governor. The bill makes it a felony on the part of either party to a transaction to assume to buy or sell when there is to be no actual transfer of securities or commodity dealt in. The crime is punishable by a heavy fine or imprisonment, or both. It is generally expected here to-night that Gov. Hughes will approve the bill.

By a vote of 84 to 30 the Assembly rejected the proposed constitutional amendment which would give Spanish war veterans an advantage of 10 per cent. in examinations for positions under civil service regulations. The amendment was passed by the Senate.

At the last moment the Raines amendment to the liquor tax law was passed by both Houses. It makes the owner of premises, as well as the liquor dealer, liable for violations of the law.

The Assembly to-day also passed the Page bill, providing for an investigation of the condition of alien poor, in accordance with a recommendation of the Governor.

In the Senate the Francis Three-Platoon Police bill for cities of the first and second class was passed by a small margin. But the bill to give a State pension of $12 a month to civil war veterans was lost.

Park for Fire Island.

The bill authorizing an appropriation to make a park of Fire Island was passed.

A blow was directed at foreign mutual fire insurance companies, when both houses passed a bill, which, if signed, will force them to pay a tax upon their gross

CRANK ALARMS SENATE.

Proclaims Himself Head of That Body and Doorkeepers Overpower Him.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Standing on a chair in the gallery directly opposite the Vice President's chair, a crank to-day pointed a threatening finger at the President of the Senate, and dramatically asserted his rights to direct the deliberations of the Senate. A moment later he was seized by a valorous one-armed doortender, who dragged him into the aisle, where a half dozen police and other attendants fell upon him. He is now being held for examination as to his sanity.

The stranger entered the gallery early in the session. In the course of the debate on the Naval Appropriation bill, at the close of a heated attack on the provision for armor plate, he arose.

"Mr. Fairbanks and gentlemen," he declaimed, at the same time mounting a chair, "I proclaim myself head of this house."

He would have said more but the one-armed doorkeeper and six or eight Capitol police and doortenders poured through the gallery door, falling over each other in their anxiety to get their hands on the disturber. When they had surrounded him the stranger was hustled at a lively pace to the office of the Captain of police.

At first the stranger declined to talk. When he did he went to the other extreme and became voluble.

"My name?" he repeated, "why, you ought to know that; I'm George Washington, and I live at the White House. I've lived there for some time."

"What made you interrupt the Senate?" he was asked.

"Interrupt the Senate?" he said excitedly, "why shouldn't I interrupt the Senate? I'm the rightful head of it, ain't I? What harm is there in announcing my rights?"

DIVORCE, THEN DUAL WEDDING

Mrs. Goring Got Decree and in Three Hours Remarries.

Three hours after Mrs. Mary A. Nally Goring received an absolute divorce from her husband, Charles Goring, a seafaring man, of 416 Prospect Avenue, Brooklyn, on Wednesday, the couple figured in a double wedding in the office of a lawyer in Jersey City, N. J., the other bride and bridegroom being brother and sister, and the latter also being a sister-in-law of her husband's ex-wife.

The former Mrs. Goring's new husband is Herbert Hazel Newton of 93 Milton Street, Brooklyn, and the latter's sister, Mrs. Josephine Newton Nally, widow of the brother of her own brother's wife, is now the wife of her sister-in-law's ex-husband, Mr. Goring.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton and the new Mr. and Mrs. Goring mutually acted as witnesses for the weddings. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Edward A. Ransom, Jr., of Jersey City, and until he had concluded the ceremony he did not know of the peculiar relations of the quartet. Mr. Ransom imagined that both couples were brothers and sisters.

The decree was granted yesterday and the two couples went together to the office of a lawyer in Jersey City, where Mr. Ransom was summoned. After the ceremony the newly assorted couples left the office together to start on a honeymoon trip.

The present Mrs. Goring and she who is now Mrs. Newton have been living together at 36 Mott Street, Newark, N. J.

INJURED, NOT MAD.

But a Broadway Crowd Was Merciless to a Poor Bull Terrier.

"Bob," the bull terrier friend of Richard Hunter of Philadelphia, was killed in Times Square yesterday as a "mad dog," and he was not mad. He had been run over by an automobile and so badly hurt that his frantic staggerings through the Square caused the cry to be raised against him.

"Bob" left the Knickerbocker Hotel in leash with his master for exercise. He plunged forward across Broadway in the belief that there was a cat across the street, and the leash was torn from Mr. Hunter's hand. A ring at the end of the leash slipped into the trolley slot and "Bob" was brought up with a jerk just as an automobile came around Forty-second Street. The dog was run over. Then the ring slipped out of the slot and "Bob" began running in circles, blind with pain, barking for friend and master.

Immediately the cry of "Mad dog!" was raised. When "Bob" sought the sidewalk he was kicked off the curb. He tried to get into a Subway kiosk and the crowd shoved him away with kicks.

"Bob" turned into the comparative quiet of Forty-first Street and threw his aching body between the curb and the street paving. Policeman Russo found him there and ended his sufferings with one well-aimed shot.

AMMONIA FUMES FILL HOTEL.

Gauge of Tank Explodes and Alarms Lodgers at the Seymour.

While workmen under the supervision of Engineer Charles Day were overhauling the refrigerating plant in the basement of the Hotel Seymour, 43 West Forty-fourth Street, early last evening a gauge connected with the ammonia tank blew up, allowing volumes of the fumes to escape. The engineer and workmen were barely able to escape from the basement.

The fumes of the ammonia rapidly rising from the basement began to spread to the upper floors of the hotel, and because of the fear that the guests might become unduly alarmed, a call for the fire apparatus was sent in from the box at Forty-third Street and Sixth Avenue. Manager Elmer R. Jenkins went among the guests and explained to them what had happened to allay their fears.

Engineer Day, as soon as he had recovered from the effect of the ammonia he inhaled when the gauge exploded, wrapped wet towels about his face, ran into the basement, and turned the stopcock on the ammonia pipe leading into the tank. By the time the firemen arrived the fumes were already beginning to disappear.

Mrs. Ethel Katz has appealed to the police to help her find her husband, Dr. Oswald W. Katz of 120 East Eighty-fifth Street. The doctor disappeared on the morning of April 16, and at the same time, his wife charges, went some jewelry and $397 of her money.

Dr. Katz is described as 37 years old, of slim build, and wearing chin whiskers and gold-rimmed eyeglasses.

JEROME LETS FLY AT THE NEWSPAPERS

Declares That They Voice Public Opinion That Is Dictated by Advertisers.

SPREAD USELESS SCANDAL

And Intimidate Lawmakers—District Attorney's Speech a Surprise at Dinner of St. George's Society.

The members and guests of the St. George's Society who attended the annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria on the natal day of its patron saint had an unexpected and interesting feature added to the list of toasts last night in the shape of a remarkable speech from William Travers Jerome, who, after alluding to "Merrie England and its roast beef," made a scathing attack on the newspapers of this city, which he charged with falsifying and suppressing news for pecuniary reasons.

In proposing the health of the District Attorney, J. E. Grote Higgens, President of the St. George's Society, who acted as toastmaster, said:

"There is one man here to-night who has done more than any other man in New York toward keeping law and order among the mixed masses in the city, William Travers Jerome, the District Attorney."

The District Attorney, who sat at Table 3, immediately facing Gen. Bingham, who occupied a seat on the dais, after a few remarks personal to certain of the guests, said:

"You cannot assimilate and drill into line the mixed element there is to deal with in this country unless you men of education and culture take more interest in public affairs than you have done hitherto. They say, 'God bless the Irish,' but we do not want to see America in the hands of four such men as 'Pat' McCarren, 'Fingy' Conners, 'Packy' McCabe, and 'Charley' Murphy. I hope that things will work out by and by, but it will not come while you stand idly by and see others do what you ought to do.

"You can't make government right by statutes; it must be made right by men alone. Remember, that all men are human, and the man who says that he does not care for public admiration is a fool or a liar. Our democratic institutions will not work out so long as we have government by the newspapers for the newspapers. Public opinion is not dictated by the newspapers themselves, but in the counting rooms of R. H. Macy & Co., Siegel-Cooper, and John Wanamaker.

Scandal of a Banker's Life.

"A great banker failed in business in this city some months ago," said Mr. Jerome, in tones that rang through the big dining hall, "and I am not here to say whether he was guilty or not, but whatever he may have done he atoned for it and paid the debt.

"One of the great New York newspapers that preaches purity of thought in its editorials and claims to be working for the welfare of the people of America, printed a whole page containing what it claimed were the scandals in this man's private life. He left two beautiful daughters and grandchildren who will have to bear the stigma of that page of scandal throughout their lives.

"What good could it have done to the people of this country to have all these skeletons laid bare?

A Story That Wrecked a Home.

"It was done for what? It was for cash. And yet we read it, and take in every detail that was spread before us. A large advertiser in Philadelphia, guilty of a crime, committed suicide here. Not a paper in Philadelphia chronicled it. A great and enterprising newspaper in New York, owned by a great and enterprising citizen, sent a special edition to Philadelphia, with the fearful story blazing forth to wreck that home.

"Another instance: A prominent man in this city was shot dead in a department store. Not a paper in the city said where it was done. If I want a paper controlled, where do I go?"

Mr. Jerome here again mentioned many of the department stores.

"The leading publications of this city are dictated to by the counting rooms. A great paper in this city, that on its editorial page pleaded for virtue a year ago, printed 80 per cent. of the advertisements of an illegal calling. Another of our great papers investigated ice. One of its men went up to Maine and returned and went to the President of the company and he said to him: 'I have got an option on a little ice; don't you want to buy it?' That was in 1906, when ice was scarce. They might have been glad to get it. At any rate they put a price on that ice that netted the young man $5,000.

"These papers lead us by the glamour of their headlines and trail into the dust the good name of a public officer trying to do his sworn duty—and they do it for personal reasons. You read the headlines in the newspapers and it makes no impression upon you. You read them again—the same headlines—for a few weeks and then you have a decided opinion without a single fact to substantiate it.

Jerome and the Judiciary.

"And I have been accused of attacking the judiciary—awfully impolitic I know. I went to lunch recently with a gentleman who asked me, speaking of my criticism of the Judges, if any Judge had asked me for a bill of particulars. And I replied that none had. I told him that no newspaper had asked for a bill of particulars, but just let them ask me for it and I promise you they will get it if they will publish it.

"I recently sat next to a great critic at a musical performance. I am not much of a musician, but I can sing. This great critic told me that his criticisms were blue-penciled in the office because of the advertising end of the paper. Ask any publisher and he will tell you that the literary criticism of books is determined by the space of his advertising, and this is what is supposed to be public opinion, while it isn't, but it does lead us on to what we think is public opinion. It creeps into our minds unconsciously, and we find that we have settled beliefs with no settled reasons to

ROOSEVELT WANTS AIR TRIP.

Son's Account of His Balloon Ascension Fires Father's Desire.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—"Bully," was the word used by Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., to-day in describing his voyage in an army balloon, which carried him, Capt. Fitzhugh Lee, Military Aide to the President, and Capt. Charles Chandler of the Signal Corps, from Washington to Delaware City on Delaware Bay, landing them there late yesterday afternoon. The young man's glowing account of the trip is said to have fired his father's desire for a similar experience.

The President has gone down in a submarine, but he has not yet explored the mysteries of the upper air.

DOLLAR MODEL DESTITUTE.

Woman in Almshouse Who Says Her Face Appears on Silver Coins.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., April 23.—Destitute and 80 years old, Mrs. Caroline Williams, whose face, according to her assertion, appears on all the silver dollars, has been taken to the Broome County Almshouse. She says that she not only has never received a cent for her portrait in silver, but that she has been robbed of the honor due her.

Mrs. Williams says that her maiden name was Caroline Scott. Married at 18 to George Snyder of Albany, her husband went to the civil war and did not come back. The widow had to make her own living, and peddled notions in Philadelphia.

There she had a daguerreotype taken, and one day a man from the Mint found her picture in the artist's studio and selected it as a model for the new silver dollars.

MAYOR TURNS DOWN PASS.

Pittsburg Council May Compel Pirates to Pay Heavy License Fee.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 23.—Mayor George W. Guthrie has refused to accept an annual pass from the Pittsburg Baseball Club, and refused to permit any of the city employes to take a pass. As a peculiar coincidence to his action, Common Councilman Hugh Ferguson this evening at a meeting of that body introduced an ordinance which provides that for all professional baseball games played within the city limits a tax of $75 shall be paid. Inasmuch as the Pittsburg team plays seventy games at home this means that the Pittsburg Baseball Club will have to pay a total of $5,250 for the season. Up to the present time they have paid only $150 a year, and the City of Allegheny, where the games were played, did not make any special effort to collect it, as each Councilman was provided with a pass. This year, because of the consolidation of the two cities, the games are being played in Pittsburg.

Barney Dreyfuss, President of the Pittsburg Club, did not send passes to the Councilmen of the greater city for the season. In a statement he issued to-day, in refusing to issue passes, Dreyfuss said: "The club must adhere to the policy it has mapped out or close its gates."

DIES ON DAY OF PROMOTION.

Sudden Death Steps Between Commander Noel, U. S. N., and a Captaincy.

Commander York Noel, senior member of the Board of Inspection at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, who succeeded to the rank of Captain yesterday, died suddenly yesterday morning in the officers' quarters at the yard. He is survived by a widow, the daughter of Admiral William A. Kirkland; a daughter, Geraldine, 19 years old, and two brothers—Jacob Noel of Tacoma, Washington, and Charles Noel of Baltimore. He will be buried in the Naval Cemetery at Annapolis.

Commander Noel had been in poor health for two years. In November, 1905, he returned from the Philippines, where he had gone through a siege of the dengue fever. Dr. Lang, a naval surgeon at the yard, will perform an autopsy, it was announced.

Commander Noel was born in Cumberland County, Penn., and was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1870. After graduation in 1874 he served in the Atlantic Squadron. He was promoted to be an ensign in 1875, to the Lieutenancy, Junior Grade, in 1881; to the Lieutenancy in 1888, and to be Lieutenant Commander in 1899. He was at the Naval Station, Cavite, Philippine Islands, from 1903 to 1905, and was assigned to the Brooklyn Navy Yard in 1905.

The retirement yesterday of Rear Admiral Samuel W. Very, ex-Commandant of the Hawaii Naval Station, brought about the promotion of Capt. William S. Cowles, President Roosevelt's brother-in-law, and Chief of the Bureau of Equipment, to the grade of Rear Admiral. That made Commander Noel next in line for a Captaincy.

WARD FOR DUKE'S COUSIN.

Francis Puts Heinrich-Borwin Under Control for Squandering Fortune.

SCHWERIN, April 23.—Grand Duke Frederick Francis, the reigning Duke of the Duchy of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, today issued a decree placing his cousin, Duke Heinrich-Borwin under a wardship in consequence of his squandering the family fortune. In the future Duke Heinrich will be permitted to dispose of only a small allowance. He recently left the army.

For a similar reason, Duke Heinrich's father, Duke Paul Frederick, and the latter's wife, the Princess Marie of Windisch-Gratz, have been under a guardianship since 1906.

On Sunday next The Times will publish one of the most remarkable articles in the history of journalism—a study of President Roosevelt as he appears in the White House. The article is written by Mr. William Bayard Hale, after a week passed in observation of the President in the midst of the duties of his high office, and it affords a vivid impression of scenes and of a personality than which the world holds none more striking.

CHESAPEAKE'S FLAG STAYS IN ENGLAND

W. W. Astor, Who Bought It at Auction, Has Given It to a British Museum.

GREAT SURPRISE AT GIFT

It Was Understood the Trophy Had Been Bought by an American for Shipment to This Country.

LONDON, April 23.—The flag of the American frigate Chesapeake, which was taken by the British ship Shannon June 1, 1813, and was recently sold at auction in this city, has been presented to the Royal United Service Museum by William Waldorf Astor.

The announcement of this gift contained the first intimation that Mr. Astor was the purchaser of the flag at the auction sale. It was stated at the time of the auction that the agent who had secured the trophy had acted on behalf of an American, and it was understood it was to be sent at once to America.

The news that the flag is to stay in England causes great astonishment to Londoners.

The bugle upon which the famous Balaklava charge was sounded, as well as some Crimean medals, auctioned at the same time as the flag, also were bought by Mr. Astor and were presented by him to the same United Service Museum.

When it was first announced in London that the Chesapeake's flag would be sold at auction, along with other belongings of the late Mr. Middlebrook, American interest was aroused, and in course of time it came to be understood that certain rich Americans had determined that the relic should be brought here at any cost.

The auction took place at Debenham's Auction Rooms on Jan. 29. The first bid was £30, by W. R. Partridge, who, it was said, was acting in the interests of an American. The price was soon carried up to the $1,000 mark. Thereafter the bidding was confined to Mr. Partridge, W. J. Thorold, who was acting for the British Navy League, and Arthur T. Ellis, who was bidding for an English client.

The flag was finally bought by Partridge for $4,250. THE NEW YORK TIMES's correspondent, who saw Mr. Partridge after the purchase, was told that the flag was "purchased as the result of American patriotism," and would soon go across the ocean. Reports had it that William K. Vanderbilt or J. P. Morgan was the purchaser. No intimation was given that the flag had been bought by an Anglicized American.

The Chesapeake's flag originally measured 4 feet by 4 feet 6 inches. Eight-tenths of the surface was taken up by fifteen stars on the blue ground. When the flag was sold part of it was missing. The stars were all visible, but only two stripes were intact.

The flag evidently was home-made, and the traces of hand sewing are plain. In the upper right-hand corner is a stain of blood, and just below this is a triangle of holes made by three bullets of different calibre.

ATLANTIC CITY MUST BE GOOD.

Mayor Stoy Threatens Saloon Keepers and Hotel Men.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 23.—Twenty license holders, including a member of the City Council and the proprietor of one prominent beach front hotel, were summoned before Mayor Stoy to-day and threatened with the revocation of their liquor licenses for flagrant violations of regulations governing the licensed resorts.

The saloon men were arraigned at City Hall to-day and told that they must comply with rules requiring the closing of all licensed establishments at 2 A. M. Mayor Stoy stated that he had received information that in many cases resorts were kept open until daybreak, and loud music had made it impossible for peaceful citizens to sleep.

"Atlantic City will not tolerate such a state of affirs, and procedings for the revoking of licenses will be instituted if I hear of any further evasions of the law," he said in dismissing the disconcerted saloonists.

P. D. CRAVATH'S HOME BURNED

Long Island Country Place Destroyed, but Valuables Worth $160,000 Saved.

Special to The New York Times.

LATTINGTOWN, L. I., April 23.—About 2 o'clock this afternoon a maid in the household of Paul D. Cravath, at Locust Valley, discovered a small blaze in the kitchen dumbwaiter. Three hours later Verator, the beautiful Cravath country home, was a mass of smoldering ruins. Mrs. Cravath and little Miss Cravath have not come from the city, and the only occupants of the house were a housekeeper and four maids.

As far as can be learned the fire originated from a live coal in a coal scuttle on the dumbwaiter, which ignited some aprons which hung in the dumbwaiter shaft. The flames caught the woodwork and a strong draught drew the fire swiftly up through the shaft to the attic.

It was fully three-quarters of an hour before the firemen arrived. In the meantime the entire countryside turned out and worked valiantly to save the contents of the house, and succeeded in saving about all the valuable works of art and the silver and cut glass.

Mr. Cravath's home was one of the show places of Long Island, covering several hundred acres of ground, and his gardens were a feature of the place. He was immediately notified and came out late this afternoon.

An unofficial inventory of the furnishings taken from the Cravath home and stored in the outbuildings places their value at about $160,000.

The loss caused by the fire has not been estimated.

VICTORY FOR PROHIBITION.

Illinois Supreme Court Upholds the Local Option Law.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 23.—The Illinois Supreme Court to-day upheld the constitutionality of the local option law passed by the Legislature two years ago. The decision amounts to a sweeping victory for the prohibition forces. Under the law thirty-five counties in Illinois have been voted dry. Sixty-four counties are partly dry. In only one county in Illinois do the saloons have a free hand.

At the election on April 7 more than 1,209 saloons were voted out of existence. To-day's decision keeps them out.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, April 23.—Miss Pauline Le Roy French's pet dog broke one of its legs a few days ago. Ordinarily a dog which meets with such a misfortune is killed, but Miss French would not consent to such a fate for her pet.

She left for New York with her dog to consult a veterinary surgeon about setting the fractured leg, and will return Saturday with her dog's leg in splints.

Miss French is to be married soon to Samuel Wagstaff of New York.

McKINLEY HOME A HOSPITAL.

Catholic Diocese of Cleveland Acquires Property Abandoned as Memorial.

Special to The New York Times.

CANTON, Ohio, April 23.—The home of President William McKinley, made famous by his reception of delegations on the porch and lawn in his Presidential campaigns, is to become a Catholic hospital, it was announced to-day.

The announcement that the property will be transferred to Bishop Horstmann of the diocese of Cleveland, for hospital purposes, was made on behalf of Mrs. Rosa Klorer, widow of a wealthy manufacturer. She purchased the home for $21,000 when the plan to make it a National memorial was abandoned. The home has been stripped of its relics, many of them souvenirs of the McKinley campaigns.

BOYS' GAME ENDS IN DEATH.

Rough Play by 'Wild West' Gang Said to Have Caused Fatal Illness.

OYSTER BAY, L. I., April 23.—George Bixbee, 8 years old, was buried here to-day. He died of pneumonia, but the authorities have learned that his death was indirectly due to rough treatment at the hands of a gang of boys of about his own age.

It is said that a day or two before pneumonia developed he was captured by the gang in a game of "Wild West" and tied to a tree and left there for hours, and it is believed that he then caught the cold which developed into a fatal illness.

The story is also told that in the course of the "Wild West" game the Bixbee lad was made to run the gantlet, and was beaten with sticks, and that his body bore the marks of blows.

Active steps will be taken by the authorities to-day to ascertain the facts.

TORNADO KILLS THREE.

Sweeps Through Two Nebraska Counties, Wrecking Many Houses.

BANCROFT, Neb., April 23.—A tornado swept through Cumming County and into Thurston County at noon to-day, and three people are known to have been killed, a number injured, and a number of houses destroyed. Telegraph and telephone wires are down, and reports are slow in arriving.

The tornado struck the house of John Mangleson, near Pender, Neb., and then swooped up into the air, taking the wreckage of the house, and both Mr. and Mrs. Mangleson. Both were killed, their bodies being carried a mile.

The dead body of a baby was picked up in the public road ten miles from Bancroft. The child undoubtedly was brought by the cyclone from some residence which was wrecked.

A heavy downpour of rain and hail followed the cyclone, which swept northeastwardly toward the Winnebago Indian reservation, where much damage is believed to have been wrought, the houses being of the most flimsy character.

The storm passed within a quarter of a mile of Pender.

1,000 GUARDS ON COURSE

Village of Greensburg Gets $50,000 Bond to Indemnify It Against Accidents—Drivers in Race.

Race for the Briarcliff Trophy, donated by Walter W. Law, will start at Briarcliff at 4:45 o'clock this morning. Twenty-two stock cars, representing sixteen different makes and five nationalities, will compete. The cars will cover a circuit of 32.4 miles eight times, running a total of 259.2 miles, and will probably require between seven and eight hours to make the distance.

The race for the Briarcliff Trophy will start at 4:45 o'clock this morning, all pronunciamentos to the contrary notwithstanding. After innumerable difficulties with State and local officials over the contest, the last was finally dissipated at 10 o'clock last night. The village of Greensburg, which demanded a bond of $100,000 to indemnify it against accidents during the race, accepted a personal bond of A. L. Riker, E. R. Hollander, R. L. Morrell, H. A. Lozier, and Walter W. Law, Jr., for $50,000, in lieu of the regular bond. Law offered the personal bond after a cablegram to Lloyd's, who had not included Greensburg in the bond given for the other towns about the course, had failed to elicit any reply. The objection of the Greensburg officials was withdrawn at that time.

The thousands of enthusiasts who had planned to see the contest paid no attention to the many reports of prohibitions against the race. Long before 10 o'clock they began to leave New York to get to the course for the excitement of the night before. Cars by the hundred followed the roads to Tarrytown and White Plains from New York, while other surrounding towns, as far distant as Boston and Albany, sent their quota from the east and north. There was a steady string of motor cars entering the thirty-two-mile circuit from all sides before midnight, and it will continue unabated until the hour for starting the race. It is estimated that more than 10,000 cars will be parked about the course, while the trains and trolley cars will carry thousands of others to the scene. Many of these left the Grand Central Station before midnight on the regular trains to points adjacent to the course. The specials began to run out at 1 o'clock in the morning, and continued until within an hour of the start without interruption at short intervals.

Among the first of the special trains was one carrying the thousand militiamen who will guard the course. These were left at convenient places around the circuit and distributed in squads to the danger points all around the thirty-two miles of the course. They will be clothed with authority to keep the course clear and prevent accident through the over-eagerness of the spectators.

The cars competing are twenty-two stock cars, representing sixteen different makes of automobiles. There are 11 American cars, 6 Italian, 3 French, 1 German, and an Austrian. The foreign makes are favored to win the race, though to pick a winner is a task. There is some doubt whether or not three of the cars will be enabled to start, as they failed to pass the examination of the Technical Committee, which determines whether or not they comply with the conditions as stock cars. These three are the two Renaults and the Benz. They will only be allowed to start provided they can furnish an affidavit to the effect that they have manufactured and placed on the market ten cars of exactly similar model to those entered in the race.

The stock car feature is comparatively new as an automobile road racing proposition, and the heralded reputation of some of the foreign racers stands them only in sentimental stead in such a contest. Then, too, the race is a question quite as much of skillful handling as the speed and durability of a car, and the necessity of combining car and driver in the consideration makes an individual selection more hazardous.

The driver who is more favored than any other is Cedrino in the Fiat car, although the reason for this preference is not wholly clear, in view of the excellent reputation and wide experience of many of the other contestants.

There is besides Paul Sartori, a Vanderbilt Cup racer and a veteran of innumerable road contests and a hero of repeated narrow escapes, who, had he been entered from the start, would have been a general favorite with the general public on account of his dare-devil reputation, but, substituted as the driver of the Bianchi car in the past two days, he has had too little chance to become acquainted with the course to be able to do justice to himself.

Cedrino was also a competitor in two Vanderbilt Cup races, as well as a number of European road contests. His best known achievement, however, is his record of seventy-seven miles an hour, made at Ormond Beach in the 300-mile event in which he established a world's record. Parker, his mate, though without road experience, has been a driver in twenty-four hour contests, and is well regarded.

Herbert Lytle is another Vanderbilt Cup veteran, and was a recent winner at Savannah. His Apperson accordingly stands well in the betting. Bernin is another Vanderbilt Cup driver, a winner at Ormond, victor in the twenty-four-hour race at Morris Park, and a contestant in other races that make him especially well regarded, while Bloch, on the other Renault, has had road experience abroad, but appears for the first time in America.

Monte Roberts is about as well known as any of these, and has had almost as varied an experience as Cedrino. A competitor in the Vanderbilt Cup races, winner of the Brighton Beach twenty-four-hour race, largely responsible for the splendid showing of the Thomas in the New York to Paris race, Roberts has won a place among American drivers that entitles him to the greatest respect. Campbell, who was to drive the Allen-Kingston, is another Vanderbilt Cup racer, but his injury necessitated the substitution of De Palma, his mechanic, to drive. Harding drove the Haynes in the 1906 elimination trials, when the Haynes made its excellent showing. He has had experience abroad and has competed here in numerous events, scoring a conspicuous victory in the Wilkesbarre hill climb.

Strang and Poole are the other men who have been contestants in the Vanderbilt, though both served as mechanics and not as drivers. Poole rode with Tracy and WIRELESS FROM BRIARCLIFF.

Marconi Wireless Telegraph bulletins from the Lozier headquarters, noting the progress and results of the Briarcliff Automobile Race, will be received on the tower of The Times Building this morning, and promptly posted on The Times's bulletin boards.

Strang with Chrystie. The two men, with Harding, constitute the Isotta team, and did conspicuous work in the Southern races recently, Strang winning the big event at Savannah.

The Stearns trio of drivers are as capable a team as any in the race, though not one of the three men has had experience in road racing. Barney Oldfield's achievements on the track are well known, and Guy Vaughn has made almost as enviable a record. Leland is little behind the other two, and has scored repeatedly in track races and hill climbs.

The Lozier pair are also well thought of. Michener and Mulford have competed in numerous twenty-four-hour races, and in other events, in all of which they have done well. Each has a large following and will be able to hold his own with any of his better-known competitors. Watson and Seymour, the Simplex team, are not well known in American racing, but Watson has driven abroad. The two men have done very well in their trials over the course and won a host of friends thereby.

Probably no man in the race has a larger personal following than George Robinson, who has done some spectacular driving in various contests. The chances of the Panhard, with Robertson up, are thought to be very good. Hilliard of the Hol-Tan made a mark at Ormond by his clever handling of the Napier and has done some excellent driving in Boston and the vicinity, while Bergdoll's two conspicuous victories at Ormond in his Benz racer have made him a prominent competitor. This leaves only Murphy of the Maja to consider. Murphy is well known locally and considered skillful.

The circuit over which these men will drive is absolutely the roughest and most hazardous on which a road race has ever been held. The reason is that it winds continuously through its thirty-odd miles of distance, and has frequent turns which are impossible to take at high speed. Besides this, it is narrow and often rolling, with abrupt dips, hills, and other obstacles to speed. Its surface over three-quarters of the distance is fairly good, but over the other quarter it is extremely rough and soft. In view of the conditions, it is estimated that forty miles an hour will be a high average, though a few of the drivers claim to expect forty-five miles of the winner. Fortunately perfect weather has gotten the road in its best possible condition. Had rain fallen the result would have been deplorable.

SCENES ALONG THE COURSE.

Westchester Thronged with Early Visitors—Race Spirit in Air.

Scores of automobiles carrying hundreds of pleasure and curiosity seekers made the rounds yesterday of the course. The sound of the hammer was heard from many a farmhouse where impromptu stands and refreshment booths were being erected for the convenience of the thousands who are willing to pay money for the satisfaction of seeing Westchester County's first automobile road race. Sign posters were busy all day long attaching innumerable signs to every tree, fence rail, and deserted building around the course, advertising with reckless abandon the best car, the best tire, the best oil, the best newspaper, and other things that no self-respecting autoist ought to be without. Local enthusiasm and commercial energy ran high, and if every village is not financially rich at the conclusion of the race it will not be for lack of opportunities to leave money behind.

The spirit of the race was in the air, with all of its excitement, its uncertainties, and possibilities of danger. Briarcliff Lodge, from which the grand stand in the valley is visible, was a beehive of activity all day long. The officials, wearing conspicuous badges, fluttered back and forth, nervous, but important, as though the destiny of nations depended upon them. Men prominent in automobile club life, the trade and the sport arrived from all parts of the country. A dozen tourists, dusty, but cheerful, who had driven from Baltimore, came in early in the day. Several cars from Boston, Springfield, New Haven, Hartford, and other New England points rolled up in the afternoon, while a big delegation from Chicago and Cleveland, traveling in special cars, added to the overflow in the evening.

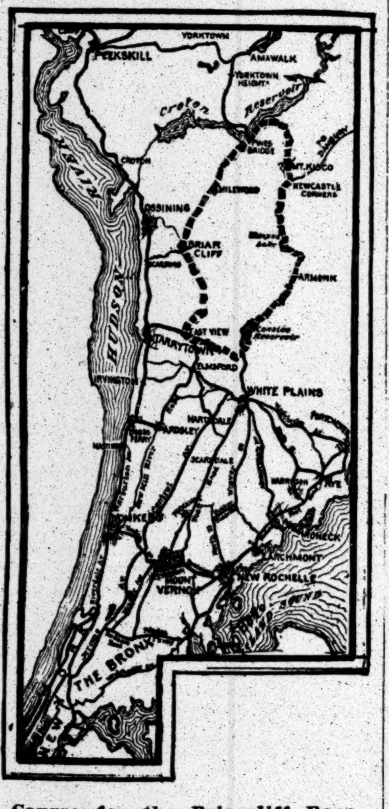
The scenes of the night before the Vanderbilt Cup race at Garden City were duplicated. A ten-dollar bill was just about right for a cot to sleep on or to bunk in a room with three or four other lodgers. The Casino was filled with cots, but scores of the late night arrivals did not attempt to go to sleep at all. An easy chair in the office was a luxury, and the mild weather attracted many to the broad piazzas, where discussions waxed warm as to the chances of success of the various drivers.

Keyed up to a pitch of unwonted excitement, every village and hamlet on the course was on the qui vive for news. The inhabitants were up early on the watch for the cars in their final speed trials between 5 and 7 o'clock, but the day passed without any thrillers. Seventeen of the twenty-two cars were out for the last tuning up, but while some fairly creditable times were made, the drivers had evidently learned the lesson of caution from the accidents of the two previous days, and no one came to grief. Harding, in his Isotta, was credited with a 46-minute lap, Cedrino in the Fiat did 51, and among those who circled the 32 miles in from 52 to 55 minutes were Roberts with the Thomas, Mulford with the Lozier, Walter Allen in the new Allen-Kingston, substituted for the damaged car of the preceding morning; Lytle with the Apperson, and Oldfield and Vaughn in their Stearns machines.

Many of the training camps were besieged by visitors during the day, but egress to the cars was barred. Everything was tuned up to perfection, and so sanguine were the drivers that it was almost an insult to ask them who would be first, but many were ready to give points on the second or third cars. In the afternoon Chairman Robert Lee Morrell summoned all of the drivers and their mechanicians to the Briarcliff Lodge and read the law of the race to them in strenuous fashion. Every rule of the race was clearly explained, and special emphasis was laid upon the requirement that cars must turn out to allow those behind to pass, and in case of accident or change of tires in the narrow parts of the course, disabled cars must, if necessary, be ditched to enable others to get by. Special judges will be placed at the narrow stretches of the roads, and many miles of these conditions prevail, to see that the rule is rigidly observed. No repair work can be done to a car except by the driver and his mechanician, but this does not apply to the taking on of oil, gasoline, or water, or tire replacements.

The drivers all promised faithfully to obey the rules, but the committee feels that some of the greatest difficulties will be the troubles and disputes likely to arise through hardships in passing machines in narrow roadways.

Mr. Morrell made the first official announcement to the drivers that the length of the race will be eight laps instead of ten, as was announced a short time ago.



Course for the Briarcliff Race.

This will mean a race of approximately 255 miles, but high speed can only be maintained for about 240 miles, as a trifle over two miles is included in the control through Mount Kisco, where the cars must take ten minutes in passing.

Over a score of tire camps with hundreds of extra tires were established at various points all around the course, and Sheriff Lane of Westchester County swore in 200 deputies to take charge of six ambulance stations, situated at Armonk, Valhalla, Eastview, Hawthorne, Millwood, and Mount Kisco. Physicians will also be present at the grand stand at Briarcliff. The telephone and timing systems were tried out during the day and were said to be in working order. Flagmen were also out on the course waving their red flags indicating safety at the turns, for the red flag means all right ahead, while the yellow flag means danger and slow down.

Valhalla presented one of the gayest sights on the course, but even the quiet little town of Armonk was thoroughly awake and the village store and Post Office were decked out in battered bunting suggestive of patriotic uses in many a bygone Fourth of July. The oldest inhabitant, whose long, white whiskers entitled him to that distinction, stood by his little gateway watching the stream of automobiles go by.

An enterprising Armonk farmer had six green arm chairs placed in a row on his lawn, while a crude sign notified passers-by that "chairs are to let." In the Armonk church a bevy of girls were working overtime preparing sandwiches and other refreshments, the proceeds of which will swell the church missionary fund. Valhalla was fairly bristling with flags and banners. The entire front of the fire engine house was occupied by a high grand stand, while the engine covered with an old piece of canvas, stood outside ready for an emergency. The headquarters of the Maja car has established a grand stand on the roof of its building overlooking the main street of Valhalla, through which the racing cars pass, and here and there far in the outskirts of the villages temporary stands and refreshment tents are preparing for the expectant harvest of dollars.

"That's a good motto for 364 days in the year," remarked one of the visitors, "but the inhabitants are giving a mighty big object lesson that their motto for the race day is: 'Scatter All the Coin You Can Before You Get Aaway.'"

FIRE SWEEPS COLONY AT CAPE MAY POINT

Two Hotels and Five Cottages Totally Destroyed at New Jersey Coast Resort.

LOSS WILL TOTAL $100,000

Life Saving Crews, Firemen, and Volunteers Fight Flames for 3 Hours—Without Adequate Protection.

Special to The New York Times.

CAPE MAY, N. J., April 23.—Driven by a heavy south wind, flames swept through Cape May Point, two miles from this city, to-day, destroyed two hotels and five cottages, and damaged two other cottages. The loss is estimated at from $75,000 to $100,000, most of the cottages, although unoccupied, being completely furnished. The loss on furniture was nearly as great as that on buildings.

Cape May Point is without fire protection, and the flames were fought for three hours under the greatest difficulty by Cape May firemen, the crews of the life-saving stations at the Point and Cape May, and scores of volunteers.

Starting at 1 o'clock in the Lankenau cottage, owned by the Mary J. Drexel Home of Philadelphia, and used as a Summer home for the Deaconesses of the home, the flames threatened to wipe out the entire borough. It was 4 o'clock before the fire was under control. The buildings totally destroyed were:

Lankenau villa, which cost the late John D. Lankenau $25,000.

Godfrey cottage, owned by Mrs. Mary Lawrence, Philadelphia, valued at $4,000.

Wiley cottage, owned by Jessie Grant, Philadelphia, valued at $3,000.

Cottage of Mahlen Bryan of Philadelphia, valued at $5,000.

Surf House, owned by Amon Wright of Cape May Point, valued at $4,000.

Seaview Hotel, owned by Amon Wright, valued at $3,000.

Cottage owned by John C. Springer on Holly Avenue, valued at $5,000.

The cottage of John Hanley of Philadelphia was damaged $1,000, and the cottage of the Rev. Adolph Spaeth, Mount Airy, Philadelphia, suffered $200 damage.

It is thought that the fire was caused by the burning off of the old paint at the Lankenau cottage. Men had been at work repainting it in the morning. The blaze had a good start before it was discovered.

Special trolley cars brought the firemen from Cape May, and through the use of the chemical engines and by pumping water from Lake Lily, half a mile distant, the fire was finally extinguished.

ROE RETURNS TO PITTSBURG.

Police Again Order Him to Leave the City.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, April 23.—Livingstone Roe, Jr., the son of a Standard Oil official, who was sentenced to ten days in jail yesterday by a police magistrate, but who was later released on payment of a fine, and on condition that he leave Pittsburg, did not reach New York this morning, as the police had expected.

He returned to Pittsburg by a late train, having left the New York train at a point some distance out of town. It was late this afternoon when the Police Department found that Roe had not kept his promise to quit Pittsburg, but that he was at an obscure hotel. Word was at once sent to Roe and to his Pittsburg relatives by the police that he must quit Pittsburg and at once.

"Tell him if he loiters around Pittsburg that it will be the workhouse, and that the whole Standard Oil Company cannot save him," was the message sent to Roe by Detective Vinton Porter, who first arrested him.

LOSES SUIT BEGUN IN 1886.

W. E. D. Stokes Fails to Keep Phelps Mission Away from a Church.

Twenty-two years ago W. E. D. Stokes, as one of the Trustees of the Phelps Mission, began an action to restrain the consolidation of the famous mission with the Eighty-fourth Street Presbyterian Church. Supreme Court Justice Fitzgerald dismissed yesterday the complaint in the action because of the neglect of Mr. Stokes to prosecute it.

The mission was founded by Anson J. Phelps and supported by members of his family for years. In 1886, for financial reasons, it was consolidated with the Eighty-fourth Street Presbyterian Church. Mr. Stokes sought to have the deed under which the consolidation was made set aside.

A number of motions were moved and dismissed in different parts of the State, and then the matter was allowed to rest. It was only yesterday that, after the trustees of the Egihty-fourth Street Presbyterian Church had asked to have the suit dismissed, that Justice Fitzgerald consented.

PRINCETON'S OLDEST ALUMNUS

He Is a Physician 93 Years Old—Professional Men Live Longest.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 23.—If Dr. James Curtis Hepburn of Orange, N. J., attends commencement at Princeton this June he will celebrate the seventy-sixth anniversary of his graduation from college. He received his diploma in 1832, was graduated in medicine at the University of Pennsylvania in 1836, and is Princeton's oldest alumnus. He recently passed his ninety-third birthday.

Of the 1,287 men graduated from Princeton University between the years 1832 and 1852, the twenty oldest classes represented by surviving alumni, only 151 are still living. Of these 151 graduates only 8 are classed in the records as business men, which indicates that the lives of the business men in the twenty classes have been shorter than those of their contemporaries who entered professions.

Ranked by their relative compatibility with longevity, according to the statistice of Princeton classes the professions are in the following order: law, the ministry, and medicine.

Injured Harvard Player Doing Well.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 23.—At the Naval Hospital, where Aronson, the Harvard baseball player, was taken immediately after the accident during the game with the midshipmen yesterday when concussion and a probable fracture of the skull were feared, it was said to-day that the injured man was doing nicely. Aronson was hurt while sliding to a base.

premiums, and virtually shut off this method of insurance in this State.

One of the last bills to pass the Senate was the measure designed to protect the mineral springs of Saratoga by preventing the further extraction of carbonic gas from the water of the springs. It has passed both houses, and is in the hands of the Governor.

Only 150 bills have become laws, while the record at the close of the session last year was 557. The Governor had 57 thirty-day bills last year, and he has about the same number to dispose of in the next thirty days.

SUMMARY OF LEGISLATION.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 23.—When the Legislature of 1907—the first during the Hughes administration—adjourned sine die, the Governor, backed by public opinion, had compelled the enactment of a long list of reforms.

The situation at the close of the legislative session which ended here to-day presents a striking contrast. As the final gavel fell in both houses, the "Old Guard," composed of the base elements in both parties, was in complete control, and had succeeded in bringing about either defeat or non-action in connection with a majority of the reforms Gov. Hughes had recommended. The record of this year's Legislature is largely one of things left undone.

The most disastrous of the defeats sustained by the Governor and his adherents in the Legislature was in connection with his recommendations for the abolition of race track gambling. The bills were defeated in the Senate on April 8, after they had been passed in the Assembly by an overwhelming majority. Eight Senators of the Governor's own party aided in the defeat of his racing reforms.

Earlier in the session the Governor had suffered defeat in his effort to have State Superintendent of Insurance Otto Kelsey removed from office.

Played Waiting Game.

After frittering away the three first months of the legislative session in virtual idleness, in pursuance of a shrewd waiting game arranged by the machine leaders, who wanted the Spring primaries over and all danger of an expression of popular indignation at the polls removed before they began their reactionary campaign, the legislators began a period of feverish activity during which the Governor's reforms fell one after the other by the legislative wayside.

In the closing days of the session the Senate and Assembly, to divide responsibility, by turns would pass and defeat reform bills. The Assembly passed the race track bills and sent them to their defeat in the Senate. The Senate passed the Page bill placing the telegraph, telephone, and ferry companies under the supervision of the Public Service Commissions, but it died in the Assembly.

Here is a list of the reforms recommended by the Governor in his annual and subsequent messages, which the Legislature defeated or failed to pass:

Anti-Race Track Gambling bill, amendments to the Public Service Commission law placing telegraph, telephone, and ferry companies under the supervision of the Public Service Commission, investigation of Wall Street by a commission, introduction of the Massachusetts ballot, direct primary nominations, abolition of the Quarantine Commissioners of the Port of New York, reduction of the number of Port Wardens, more economical appraisal of lands for canal purposes, and a commission to investigate the number and condition of unemployed, and the means best adapted to secure a resumption of productive activity.

Of the legislation recommended by the Governor and passed by the Legislature, the most important was the comprehensive scheme of banking reforms, embodied in twenty-one separate bills, which had the indorsement of the State Superintendent of Banks, Clark Williams. They provide for a much more rigid supervision of banks and banking by the State, give the State Superintendent of Banks greater powers, and aim a death blow at many abuses and close many loop holes in the banking laws, brought to light as a result of the recent financial flurry.

A majority of the reforms recommended by the Governor and actually passed by the Legislature were for the benefit of New York City. These may be enumerated thus:

Provision for a new Charter Revision Commission; amending the Constitution so as to exempt self-sustaining improvements from the debt limitation; commission for the investigation of the administration of justice in the police courts, the Court of Special Sessions, and the Children's Court; amendments to the Elsberg rapid transit law, making it possible to construct subways with private capital; bill permitting the Public Service Commission, with the approval of the Board of Estimate, to acquire the Steinway tunnel; the Coney Island 5-Cent Fare bill; increase in the number of deputies in the Bureau of Elections for the Metropolitan District.

The Teachers' Equal Salary bill, which would have placed an additional burden of $9,000,000 annually on the city's budget, according to the school authorities, was defeated.

The New York Central bill, which would have given the city authorities right to grant surface and sub-surface franchises in perpetuity under a number of streets in the Bronx to the railroad company, was defeated.

Of general legislation, these are the most important measures passed:

The Highway Commission bill, taking away the supervision of highway construction and maintenance from the State Engineer and placing it in the hands of a commission.

The Military Code bill, which contained a complete revision of the State Military Code.

A constitutional amendment providing for the development of the water resources of the State under State auspices, and on State lands outside of the Adirondacks and Catskills parks, so as to make them available for industrial purposes.

Codification of the forest, fish, and game laws of the State, establishing a hunter's license, and systematizing and grouping the laws of closed seasons for fish and game. The bill also provides for protection against pollution and supervision of oyster beds.

The Torrens bill, introducing the Torrens system of recording real estate transfers.

MAYOR REVIEWS 11 BILLS.

And the Fifth Time Vetoes Bill for Refunding Assessments.

Mayor McClellan held hearings yesterday on eleven legislative bills that have been sent down to him. Among them were those giving firemen two-thirds instead of half pay as a pension when disabled in the performance of duty; a bill requiring delinquent taxpayers to pay 7 per cent. interest after Nov. 1 instead of after Jan. 1, and the bill providing for jury trials in the municipal courts of the city.

The Mayor vetoed the bill providing for the refunding of assessments levied against property owners for the East River Park. A similar measure has been vetoed by him every year for the last five years.

DEMOCRATS TO NAME MAN IN NIAGARA

Bi-Partisan Agreement to Defeat the Reforms Recommended by the Governor.

SULLIVAN TALKS TO BATTEN

Wadsworth and Stevens Had No Knowledge of Any Compact—Barnes Represented the Republicans.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 23.—With the bi-partisan deal which will insure another defeat for the Governor's anti-race-track gambling bills apparently consumated, Deputy State Treasurer George W. Batten made the positive announcement this afternoon that the Democrats would nominate a man for the Senatorship vacated by the death of Senator Franchot.

Developments to-day and talk of legislators of the Governor's own party just prior to the final adjournment of the session make it plan that Republican State Chairman Woodruff, William Barnes, Jr., and other leaders in the Governor's own party hostile to him personally, and to the reforms that he advocates, will cause to be made plain the hostility to the Chief Executive indicated in both branches of the Legislature to-day.

The programme of the leaders is to defeat every one of the reforms recommended by the Governor.

Both Mr. Batten and Barry Murphy, the Democratic leader of Orleans County, returned to their homes to-night. The Senatorial Conventions will be held on Saturday. Mr. Batten was asked how he accounted for the sudden change of Democratic plans.

"I am at a loss to account for the change of sentiment in Niagara County," he replied. "But to-day I received word from there that there was a most pronounced feeling among leading Democrats that we should not lay down, but nominate a man and try to have him elected."

"Will your candidate be pledged to the Governor's race track reforms?"

"Oh! no," was the reply. "We will send a man here absolutely unfettered. Of course, he will have to consult the leaders of the Democratic Party as to policy after he gets here."

Mr. Batten, who had a long conference with Timothy D. Sullivan last night, did not volunteer any information as to its purpose. To-day, however, it was common talk among the Democrats from that section of the State that the bi-partisan pact has been cemented.

It developed to-day that William Barnes, Jr., Republican boss of Albany, is the man who put the bargain through for the Republicans. Whatever the share of State Chairman Woodruff and some of the other leaders may have been in this transaction, it is certain that neither Speaker Wadsworth nor Superintendent of Public Works Stevens have been consulted or have any knowledge regarding the alliance.

Gov. Hughes refused to make any comment on the report of the bi-partisan alliance to defeat his policies. He announced two additional speaking engagements, at which he will discuss his race track reforms. The first will be in Troy on Sunday afternoon. The other will be at Ithaca in the heart of Senator Cassidy's district.

ALBION, N. Y., April 23.—The Orleans County Republican Convention to-day elected delegates to the Forty-seventh Senatorial District Convention, to be held at Lockport, and instructed them to use all honorable means to bring about the choice of a candidate pledged to support Gov. Hughes's anti-gambling legislation.

COLUMBIA ENGINEERS DINE.

"Gentlemen of the All-Conquering Profession," Van Amringe Calls Them.

One hundred engineers recalled their college days at Columbia at their fourth annual reunion and dinner last night at the Hotel Astor.

The guests of the evening were Commissioner John A. Bensel of the Board of Water Supply, President Butler of Columbia, Charles M. Jacobs, chief engineer of the Hudson River division of the Pennsylvania tunnels; J. Waldo Smith, chief engineer of the Board of Water Supply; Dean J. H. Van Amringe of Columbia, and Thomas Hastings of Carrere & Hastings. Eugene Klapp, who is associated with William Barclay Parsons, was toastmaster. The speakers of the evening were Dr. Butler, Dean Van Amringe, Mr. Hastings, Mr. Jacobs, and Commissioner Bensel. Dean Van Amringe referred to the engineers as "gentlemen of the all-conquering profession."

TO SETTLE CONTESTS.

National Republican Committee Will Meet Before the Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 23.—Harry S. New, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, has decided to call a meeting of the committee before the assembling of the National Convention in June. The large number of contests among the State delegates makes it necessary for the committee to meet. In a letter addressed to the members of the commitete to-day Chairman New said:

"I have fully determined, in view of the peculiar circumstances attendant upon the contest for the Presidential nomination this year, that all contests shall be heard by the full membership of the National Committee. There will be no subcommittee under any consideration, and, this being true, the time spent in settlement of contests will be necessarily long."

BOY IN CATHEDRAL PULPIT.

Pupil Eulogizes Archbishop Ryan at 100th Anniversary Celebration.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—Exercises participated in by the scholars of the parochial schools formed one of the features of the second day in the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Philadelphia. More than 3,000 pupils, selected from 122 parochial schools in the diocese, assembled in the cathedral in special services.

For the first time in the history of the diocese, a layman, and he a boy, occupied the pulpit of the Cathedral. This honor fell to James Charles Devers, a member of the senior class of the Boys' Catholic High School. He delivered an address in which he reviewed the work of Archbishop Ryan in the cause of education, and paid a high tribute to the Archbishop.

Think Milkman Sold Horse Flesh.

Nicholas Helsloot, a milkman, of Lodi, N. J., is in the Hackensack Jail for starving his five cows. His horse died from starvation a week ago, and that stopped his delivery of milk. Two years ago Helsloot was arrested for selling horse meat in Passaic. The fact that meat had also been cut from the bones of the horse that died a week ago leads the authorities to believe he has again been selling horse flesh.

support them. We accept the facts as true, and only when we happen to inquire do we find out how wrong they are.

"In the old days the papers spoke with authority, in the days of the elder Bennett and Greeley. Then the paper represent a party, and when they spoke they spoke with the authority of a party. To-day they speak with no authority to it.

Says He Was Called "Thief."

"What do the libel laws of to-day amount to? I was called a thief—in so many words, a thief. For forty-nine years, man and boy, I have lived here and my people before me many generations, and for two years I have been trying to get that up in a suit, but the libel laws are nothing. When the Public Service bill was up in Albany I found that hardly a man had given any consideration to that bill, but they said they voted as they did for fear of the newspapers. The same was true of the Eighty Cent Gas bill—they were afraid of the papers.

"This passage of legislation under the whip is wrong. Maybe the judgment of a newspaper man is better than anybody else's, and, if that is true, the remedy is to send the editor to the Legislature. When you have elected a man who is trying to do his duty you want his judgment, and not some man way up thirteen stories above you that you cannot call to account.

"I didn't expect to get on this tirade. No man believes in criticism more than I. A man in public office who don't like it shouldn't take office, but what we are fast coming to is government by the newspapers. You and I feel that public opinion rules the country and the Government.

"But a man is not doing his duty toward the public and his full duty unless he is doing his share toward creating an honest public opinion. We must get back to what our institutions expect of us—'a Government of the people, for the people, and by the people.'"

The District Attorney's speech was warmly applauded at the close, and the guests sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. Jerome praised the British Ambassador, Mr. Bryce. No other man on earth, he said, could have written his second volume of the American Commonwealth. He then told of an evening spent in the company of Mr. Bryce and William Graham Sumner, a university professor and a student of American history, Mr. Jerome praised the keen insight of Mr. Bryce, who, he said, had a better knowledge of things American than the American professor.

Bingham and the Irish.

Other speakers were Gen. Bingham, Gen. Frederick D. Grant, and Esme W. Howard, counselor to the British Embassy at Washington. Among the messages that were read was a cable from King Edward from Copenhagen and a letter from President Roosevelt.

Gen. Bingham made the closing speech, in which he said that the particular qualification that had made Britons loved all over the world, was their grit. New York had learned how to handle its street traffic from the London police, he said, but there was something that England could learn from New York, and that was how to solve the Irish problem.

"All you have got to do," said the General, "is to let them govern you, and the Irish problem is solved."

TATTOOING IS ON INCREASE.

Habit Not Confined to Seamen Only—The Popular Designs.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Tattooing in the navy, as shown by the records of the receiving ship Independence, is the topic of an interesting contribution to the current issue of the United States Medical Bulletin by Surgeon Ammen Farenholt. It says that while tattooing originated as an adornment of uncivilized peoples, it is far less common among them to-day than it was formerly, partly through the influence of missionaries, of public sentiment, and Government interference, as is at present the case in Japan.

On the other hand, the total extent of this habit, Dr. Farenholt says, has probably never been greater than it is at the present time. Although it may be there is a slight decrease in the percentage of tattooed persons adopting the sea as a means of livelihood, there is certainly a marked increase among those who travel, and even among those who live at a distance from the influences of the sea.

There is hardly any large city but has one or more professional tattooers. Dr. Farenholt examined the enlistment records of 3,572 men, being the enlistments on the Independence for 8½ years. It shows that the percentage found tattooed on examination for second and subsequent enlistments was 53.61, and the percentage found tattooed on examination for first enlistment was 23.01. The opinion is expressed that about 60 per cent. of persons who have served over ten years in the navy are tattooed.

Dr. Farenholt says that it is not fair to assume from the figures presented that 23 per cent. of all male citizens are tattooed, as a considerable proportion of applicants for enlistment are seafaring men. He was surprised to find so many, probably 8 per cent., of the recruits who are tattooed and who denied having been at sea or even having lived in seaport towns.

One of every three men tattooed selects a design some part of which is a female figure, and less than 1 per cent. show indecent subjects. Coats of arms and National emblems, Gibson heads, crucifixes, Jerusalem crosses, the Goddess of Liberty, ships, eagles, pigs, and apprentice knots were among the tattooed marks noticed.

INTERBOROUGH BOND ISSUE APPROVED

Service Board Gratified Because Morgan Firm Has Entered Traction Field.

$25,000,000 NOTE ISSUE

Notes to Run Three Years at 6 Per Cent., Then May Be Exchanged for the Gold Bonds.

The Public Service Commission, yesterday, acting on a report made by Chairman William R. Willcox, finally approved the mortgaging of practically all the property of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the issuance by that concern of $30,000,000 in bonds to secure a temporary issue of $25,000,000 of notes, the proceeds of which are to be used chiefly for refunding purposes.

Chairman Willcox confirmed the recent announcement that J. P. Morgan & Co. were to underwrite the note issue, basing his statement on information he had received from the company's counsel, Mr. Wickersham. He added:

"I understand this is the first time that Mr. Morgan's firm has undertaken such an operation for any railroad in this city. It is a source of great gratification and satisfaction to me that such a strong and well-known house as J. P. Morgan & Co. has interested itself in the transportation situation in this city and has agreed to underwrite this note issue. We feel beemphasize the satisfaction we feel because of Mr. Wickersham's announcement."

The application made by the company was for permission to issue $55,000,000 of securities and secure that whole amount by a mortgage. The commission grants the application, but only $30,000,000 of the securities are to be put out at the present time. The bonds are to be dated Nov. 1, 1907, and are to run until Nov. 1, 1952. They are to bear 5 per cent. interest, payable semi-annually, both interest and principal payable in gold.

The temporary note issue, which is to run for three years, will bear 6 per cent. interest, and at the end of two years and a half the holders of the notes will be permitted to exchange them for the bonds at 99.

Practically all the property of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, which is free and clear of incumbrance, is pledged as security under the mortgage for the bonds. Even the lease of the Manhattan Elevated Railway Company is subjected to the lien of the mortgage.

In Chairman Willcox's report he points out that the commission has insisted upon several provisions which were not in the original application. Among these is the including of the lease of the Manhattan Elevated Railroad, and the proceeds of the sale of the Steinway Tunnel, should such sale be made, in the property pledged under the mortgage.

With the exception of bonds exchanged for the $25,000,000 note issue, no bonds may be issued by the company for less than par, excepting after public advertising for bids upon due notice. This is a new provision for railroad bonds in this State.

The mortgage as executed will be subordinate to the rights of the city as lessor under the provisions of the Subway lease, and can in no way affect such rights. The mortgage also includes all property, real and personal, of the equipment of the Subway.

The report says in part:

It must also be borne in mind that the authorization of the issue of the $25,000,000 of notes secured by the $30,000,000 of bonds is not in any respect an authorization to increase the company's indebtedness. The unsecured indebtedness of the corporation at the date of the application amounted to $35,352,726.11. The authorized issue of bonds at the present time is $30,000,000, to secure a note issue of $25,000,000, and there is also brought under the security of the mortgage an outstanding issue of $10,000,000, maturing two years hence.

The purpose for which the issue is authorized is solely for the payment of petitioner's obligations, or for the payments of indebtedness about to mature, as representing amounts payable and obligations incurred for the acquisition, construction, completion, extension, and improvement of the company's facilities. The present transaction merely provides for the extension or funding of the company's indebtedness, in respect to the greater part thereof, and for the liquidation of the remainder thereof.

"The result of the refunding as proposed," concludes the report, "is to the benefit of the stockholders and creditors of the company, and carries with it the assurance to the public of the company's pledge to exercise the functions involved in the acceptance by it of its franchise and the terms of the obligations assumed by it to the City of New York."

TO EXTEND SUBWAY ON MAY 1.

Line from Borough Hall, Brooklyn, to be Open to Flatbush Ave.

It was stated yesterday on behalf of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company that, barring accidents, the extension of the Subway below the East River to Borough Hall, Brooklyn, will be continued to Atlantic and Flatbush Avenues in time to carry passengers by May 1. The Long Island Railroad tracks will connect with the Subway at that point. There is also a station of the elevated railroad at this point, with several branches.

There will be two stations in the Subway in Brooklyn between Borough Hall and the station at Atlantic and Flatbush Avenues, one at Nevins Street and the other at Hoyt Street. It is expected that the Bridge congestion will be much relieved when the extension is opened. It will be possible then for passengers to ride from Webster Avenue, in the Bronx, to Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, for 5 cents, the longest ride for a single fare in New York.

FOR A BRONX TO CONEY TUBE

And Chairman Willcox Wants a 5-Cent Fare—Free Transfers, Too.

At the People's Institute, 318 East Fifteenth Street, last night Chairman W. R. Willcox of the Public Service Commission spoke on transit conditions in this city.

"I believe," he said, "in a subway for through traffic from the Bronx to Coney Island, with a five-cent fare, so that the man who has a little home in the upper part of the city can take his family down to get the benefit of the sea air.

"I am decidedly in favor of the greatest limit in the transfer system from one line to another. It is due to the people of New York, who have given franchises to the companies controlling the passenger traffic in the city, that a man may go from one part of the city to another on one fare.

"It may be technically right for the receiver of the Third Avenue Railroad to shut off transfer relations with other parts of the city railroad system, but it is an imposition on the public. The Public Service Commission will take up the matter, and I believe that arrangements will be made to prevent the recurrence of the disgraceful scenes that are daily witnessed as a result of the refusal of transfers at certain points.

"The service rendered by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company—especially from the Brooklyn Bridge during rush hours—is entirely inadequate. More cars should be operated to accommodate the public, and I am going to do my best to see that the public gets better cars and more of them."

FIRE INSURANCE REPORT.

Surplus of Jersey Companies Less Because of Drop in Securities.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, April 23.—In his annual report of 176 fire and marine companies doing business in New Jersey, Commissioner of Insurance Watkins says that their combined capital stock now is $69,600,854, or $2,029,464 in excess of 1906. The admitted assets, which amounted to $413,691,369, were greater by $12,919,972. Exclusive of capital stock, the liabilities equaled $245,330,108, which is an increase of $12,183,450.

The net surplus amounted to $98,760,407. This is $1,292,942 less than the previous year's total, the reduction being accounted for by the heavy decline in the market value of securities which followed the financial disturbances of the year.

The receipts from fire insurance premiums were greater by $17 72,826 than in the preceding year, and aggregated $240,987,199. The fire losses paid amounted to $111,848,035, as against $221,644,684 in 1906, the decrease being $109,796,649.

Bent on Getting a Divorce.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 23.—Persistency characterizes Farmer Augustus Mott of Hempstead, who, after three attempts to free himself from his wife, resulting each time in disagreeing juries, announces he will try again. After being out all night a jury in the Supreme Court here, this morning, announced its failure to agree in the case. Undismayed, Mr. Mott will still endeavor to obtain a divorce. There is talk of a change of venue to another county.

ILLINOIS INSTRUCTS DELEGATES FOR BRYAN

Johnson Men Scatter Literature, but Fail to Halt Enthusiasm for Nebraskan.

HOT FIGHT OVER PLATFORM

Resolution Declaring for the Greatest Possible Personal Liberty to Individuals Is Adopted.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 23.—The Illinois Democracy to-day adopted the unit rule and instructed its delegates to the National Convention at Denver to vote for William J. Bryan and to "use all honorable means" to obtain his nomination.

After a hot fight in the Committee on Resolutions, which was carried into the convention, the party adopted a platform plank declaring in favor of the "greatest possible personal liberty" to individuals, provided such liberty did not infringe upon the rights of other people.

Instead of naming the usual four delegates and alternates at large to the National Convention it was decided to send eight, allowing each man one-half of a vote.

The delegates elected are: Roger C. Sullivan, Fred J. Kern, Carroll C. Boggs, Andrew J. Hunter, Samuel Alschuler, Harry M. Pindell, Edward F. Dunne, and Roderick M. Ridgely.

The Johnson men appeared on the scene three hours before the convention was called to order, and scattered much literature about, but they made no progress in heading off the Bryan enthusiasm.

The resolution indorsing Mr. Bryan was adopted with enthusiasm, and a flattering demonstration followed the action. It was not worded entirely to the satisfaction of Mr. Bryan's most zealous supporters, and in the last few minutes of the convention Judge Owen P. Thompson of Jacksonville, declaring that Bryan had been "sold out," demanded that a stronger resolution be passed, but no attention was paid to this demand.

DELEGATES NOT INSTRUCTED.

Five States May Declare for Bryan—Primary to Determine in Alabama.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The campaign for delegates to the Democratic National Convention in the Southern States is now shaping up. The announcement of the candidacies of Gov. Johnson and Judge Gray has made a change in the situation in the South.

The best information is that Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Louisiana will send uninstructed delegations.

The States which it is thought will instruct for Bryan are Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Florida.

In Alabama the choice is to be determined by votes at a primary. Any name can be put on the ballot on petition of 500 voters. Thus far Bryan's name only has been chosen.

DEMOCRATIC REVOLT.

Rattigan's District Declines to Recognize Successor Convention Named.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 23.—Democrats of the Fortieth Senatorial District met in this city to-day, and adopted resolutions refusing to recognize William B. Harper of Seneca Falls, appointed by the recent Democratic State Convention, as State Committeeman from the district. They then authorized Charles F. Rattigan of this city, who was rejected by the State Convention, to act for the Democrats of this county in all things.

Speeches were made by Thomas M. Osborne, Public Utilities Commissioner; C. F. Rattigan, and City Judge Richard C. S. Drummond.

Massachusetts Delegates Unpledged.

HOLYOKE, Mass., April 23.—The delegates from the First Massachusetts District Republican Convention elected to-day to the National Convention are unpledged.

North Carolina District for Taft.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 23.—The Republican delegates from the Fourth District were instructed for Taft.

Instructed for Taft and Evans.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 23.—The Republican delegates from the Eighth Congressional District were instructed for Taft for President and H. Clay Evans for Vice President.

FIVE IN CONTEST FOR SENATOR

All Will Travel Together and Speak at the Same Meetings in South Carolina.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Five candidates for United States Senator from South Carolina are getting ready for a great debating match, which will take them into each of the forty-two counties of the State before the August primary. The five orators are ex-Gov. D. C. Hayward, O. B. Martin, State Superintendent of Education; ex-Gov. John Gary Evans, ex-Congressman G. D. Johnstone, and E. D. Smith, one of the prominent officials of the Cotton Association.

Smith has injured his chances by promising that cotton would go to 18 cents, which it hasn't. Evans is the Tillman candidate, but Tillman doesn't dare say so for fear of defeating him. They are willing to elect Tillman to the Senate down in South Carolina as long as he wants to run, but they won't stand for his dictation as to any other office.

The five candidates will travel together and speak at each meeting. Their time is divided up officially. One band does duty for the entire show. It takes about two and a half months to get through the programme.

FORT FIXING HIS FENCES.

Holds Secret Conclave, Perhaps Regarding His Vice Presidential Boom.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., April 23.—Former Gov. Franklin Murphy presided at a special meeting of the Republican State Committee in Newark late yesterday afternoon. Though not a member, Gov. Fort was present, and made a long address in connection with the State and National political conditions, from the Republican standpoint.

After the meeting every one who participated in it asserted that all had been pledged to secrecy as to what took place. Several versions of Gov. Fort's speech before the committee were given, however.

One was that it had to do with a general discussion of the possibility of his becoming a Vice Presidential candidate; another was that it was for the purpose of forestalling a plan of the so-called "Real Leaders" of the party in the State to send the New Jersey delegates to the National Convention either uninstructed, or against Mr. Taft's candidacy, and to impress upon them the necessity of going solidly for Taft. A third version was that it concerned the selection of New Jersey's big four, or delegates at large, to the National Convention.

Gov. Fort wants to be one of the quartet, and is said to have received assurance yesterday that he would be. All these matters were left for final action, however, at another special meeting to be held in Trenton the night before the State Convention. Attorney General McCarter submitted an opinion that it would not be legal to select New Jersey's Presidential Electors at the State Convention next month, as had been suggested. It was, therefore, decided to hold the customary convention for that purpose.

In response to a letter from Senator Colby instructions were given to Secretary Malcolm MacLear to notify him that while the State Committee appreciated the work done last year by the State League of Republican Clubs, the committee would not be able to do anything for the league this year, but hoped that it would continue either as a body, as independent clubs, or as individual workers.

BROOKLYN NEWS NOTES.

Patrolman John J. Mannix of the Amity Street Station was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with having attacked with his club several weeks ago John Kenneally, an aged watchman for the New York Dock Company.

The tenants in a six-story tenement house at 158 Boerum Street were thrown into a panic yesterday when it was discovered that the building was on fire. Many of them made their way to the street down the fire escapes. No one was injured and the damage amounted to but $500.

Supreme Court Justice Crane yesterday decided that the sentence of ex-Policeman George Dawkins to Sing Sing by County Judge Dike was correct and legal. Dawkins, tried on charges of burglary, received an indeterminate sentence on each count. His counsel contended that this was not legal.

A verdict for $30,000 was yesterday awarded to Charles Limerick in the Supreme Court in his suit to recover damages from William H. Holesworth & Son for the loss of a leg. Limerick was at work in the company's yard in Rodney Street when a heavy piece of iron fell upon his leg, necessitating amputation.

Alfred Grandige, a clerk, 37 years old, who boarded at 92 Henry Street, committed suicide in his room yesterday by shooting himself in the head.

"PRINCE OF CHEFS" TELLS HOW TO EAT

It's an Art Second Only to Cooking, Says the Cook the Kaiser Honored.

OUR PIE "NOT FOR PAREE"

He'll Tell Us About Pork and Beans Later—Pretty Women Good for the Appetite, He Says.

"Just as cooking is a fine art, so is eating, and to know how to eat well is to know how to live well."

This sentiment was expressed by G. A. Escoffier, on whom the Kaiser bestowed the title of "Prince of Chefs," as he stood yesterday on the deck of the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland. He comes here in connection with the opening of the new Ritz-Carlton Hotel, and during his stay on this side will be the guest of Alexander Gasteaux, his pupil, now chef at the Hotel Knickerbocker.

According to his card, M. Escoffier claims a residence both in London and at Monte Carlo. He is the head of the famous Ritz-Carlton restaurant system.

"I have come here," he said, "to study American cooking and American tastes. I want to see what your countrymen like. It is a sort of character study of a nation, for by eating you can tell much of character.

"You ask me if I invent dishes? Yes, for that is true art—the creative. I am constantly exploring, as it were, and every week I invent new dishes. Indeed, I have just invented a dish the foundation of which is guinea fowl. What I want now is a name for it. If you can give it a suitable name I will give you the best of dinners.

"Much can be said of the art of dining. One should be guided not only by inclination but by taste. One might say there are dishes to meet every mood. One should not eat everything on a menu—that is, begin at the beginning and run through the bill. Use discretion; use taste. It is not a true gourmet who will seek to eat all solely because of the opportunity to do so.

"It is the exercise of the art of cooking that stimulates the exercise of the art of eating."

"Where are the best cooks to be found?"

"I believe that in France the art of cooking finds its highest expression."

"It has been said that French cooking leads to Bright's disease?"

The Prince-chef smiled.

"It is not the cooking I fear. It all depends on the gourmet. A glutton will be a glutton, no matter what the country. I repeat that to eat well is to live. Some of the simpler dishes are often the most tasty."

"Are good cooks born or made?"

"Much depends on the cook and much on his application to study. Some will never be cooks. I was very young when my father apprenticed me to an uncle in Nice. It was there that I learned many of the rudiments of the art.

"Was I a born cook? Ah! Who knows? To know how to mix, how much to add, how long to cook; to create artistic dishes which please the most fastidious—perhaps all that is inspiration. Who does the most good in the world, the man who invents a new drink or the one who invents a new dish? Most assuredly the man who invents the dish. His work is one for humanity."

"Have you studied the American dishes—pork and beans and pie?"

M. Escoffier smiled.

"At long range, it might be said, yes. Your great dish—pie! It will do for America, but it will not become popular in Paris. Oh! no. However, after I have studied American dishes and likes I will talk on that."

That a good cook must have a knowledge of chemistry is the opinion of M. Escoffier.

"You must know as much of the chemistry of cooking as of cooking itself," he said. "That pertains to cooking. How could you invent or compound if you did not know what combinations would do injury?"

That the Prince of Chefs is not without a sense of the fitness of things was shown in his reply to a question as to what helped to make a good dinner. He said:

"Nothing adds so much zest to a good dinner as to have a pretty woman sitting opposite you."

One of M. Escoffier's latest dishes is Fraises Victorie Luise. The chef served France in the Franco-Prussian war. He was captured, and when brought before the King of Prussia told his occupation. Later the King voted him an excellent chef.

Three years ago he became the head of the Ritz Carlton system, and he is himself the owner of a restaurant at Ostend.

69TH VETERANS DINE.

Irish Whisky Replaces the Cordial at Their Anniversary Feast.

Of those who gathered last night at the annual dinner of the Veteran Corps of the Sixty-ninth Regiment at the Everett House to commemorate the regiment's departure for the front on April 23, 1861, there were five with gray heads and with shoulder straps, the gilt of which had faded.

"As far as I have been able to find out," said Dr. John Dwyer, who was surgeon of the regiment through the four years of civil strife, "I'm about the only one of the military surgeons who accompanied the Irish command. There are only ten of us all told—officers and men—who are now in the corps."

But there was a big company of other and younger men present to help celebrate the day when the regiment paraded down Broadway behind Col. Michael Corcoran to fight for the flag of their adopted country.

Magistrate Breen presided, with Supreme Court Justice Fitzgerald on his right and Judge Crain of General Sessions on his left. The Irishman as soldier and patriot had his virtues extolled at length. Instead of the cordial after the coffee, there was Irish whisky.

Princeton Launches a Gray Club.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 23.—At a meeting of undergraduate Democrats of Princeton this afternoon a Gray Club was formed, its purpose being to do all in its power to further the nomination of Judge Gray, Princeton, 1859, for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket. The policy of the club is laid on similar lines to that of the Taft Club, which was formed here some time ago.

SAVING THE HELIOS'S CREW.

How the Majestic's Men Did It When Oil Tank Burst.

More of the details of the rescue on April 5 of the officers and crew of the Norwegian tank steamer Helios by the White Star liner Majestic while on her trip east was told yesterday when that liner got back here. The Helios was bound from Philadelphia for Bordeaux.

The rescue was difficult. There was a gale blowing and a sea running that broke over the Majestic. Capt. Hayes from the bridge saw the men on the Helios launch their boat, and by hard work bring her across the bow of the Majestic under her lee. Willing hands then hauled them on board.

The men who remained on the Helios made no attempt to launch another boat, so Capt. Hayes called for volunteers. Fourth Officer Jack Walker and four men were chosen, and they made the perilous trip and took off in safety the eleven men remaining on the fast-sinking steamer.

Capt. Roe of the Helios said that his boat was caught in a storm and that one of the oil tanks burst, flooding the hold. The men worked the pumps, but failed to stop the flow of oil. They were afraid that the oil would get to the furnaces, and every minute feared an explosion. So they decided to abandon their vessel when the Majestic came along.

JUSTICE GOFF A WITNESS.

Appears as One of the Dupes of Man Accused of Fraud.

BOSTON, April 23.—Justice John W. Goff of New York appeared as a witness in the United States District Court here to-day against George M. Gardinier of Medford, who is on trial charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud.

Justice Goff testified that he sent checks for $43.50 to Gardinier for the purchase of a pair of pheasants, six pheasant pictures, some game bantams, some guinea hens' eggs, and a pair of fawns, which Gardinier had advertised for sale in a trade journal. He received only the pictures of the pheasants and some guinea hens' eggs.

The trial will be continued to-morrow.

EIGHTEEN EXECUTED IN GUATEMALA CITY

Others to Die Immediately, Charged with Plot to Kill President Cabrera.

STATE OF AFFAIRS SERIOUS

Revolutionists Bound to Get Rid of Ruler They Detest—He, Scared, Keeps in Seclusion.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, April 23.—President Cabrera announced to-day that he had caused eighteen persons who had conspired against him to be shot to death, and that he expected to order further executions.

This announcement was made to the members of the Diplomatic Corps, to whom the President presented a lengthy statement relative to the attempt on his life by students last Monday. This attempt to kill him, he said, was the outgrowth of an extensive conspiracy. The eighteen men who had been shot were concerned in this conspiracy, the President said, and the evidence of guilt against others whom he intended to put to death was clear and convincing.

He said that among those who were doomed were men who were imprisoned a year ago, having been implicated at that time in a plot to assassinate the President. These men were sentenced to death soon after their arrest, but the sentence had not been carried out.

President Cabrera said he had proofs that a majority of these prisoners were implicated in the new attempt against his life, and he had determined that they should be executed without delay.

The President has issued a proclamation stating that he is confident the people are with him, and that he will preserve order with a strong hand.

Although there is a surface tranquillity here, conditions really are serious. The military is in control of the city, and a partial suspension of business has resulted. The revolutionary feeling is strong in many quarters, and there are those who will not hesitate to go to any length or face any danger in their efforts to make away with the President. Cabrera, for this reason, has been seen only two or three times in public in the last few months.

An attempt was made to assassinate President Cabrera last April, and arrests to the number of about 150 of those said to be implicated in the plot were made. Several of the arch conspirators committed suicide, and nineteen of the others were sentenced by court-martial to death. The latter included two Mexicans, one Spaniard, two Italians, and one Belgian. The representatives of the powers interfered to prevent the carrying out of the death sentence, sending an energetic protest against such summary punishment to President Cabrera.

Later a large number of the minor offenders were pardoned and released from prison, and although the Supreme Court of Guatemala confirmed the death penalty on all those sentenced for the attempt on Cabrera's life, the sentence was not carried out.

APPEALED TO ROOSEVELT.

Porto Rican Catholics Want Compromise in Church Property Cases.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 23.—President Roosevelt has instructed Gov. Post to bring to Washington for examination the documents relating to the Church property cases—the People of Porto Rico against the Catholic Church. The insular courts have decided some points in favor of both parties, and an appeal has been made to the United States Supreme Court. It is stated that the Church is endeavoring to secure a compromise through the President.

The case in question involves the right of the Roman Catholic Church to control the estates formerly owned by the Dominican and Franciscan Orders in Porto Rico. The property embraces several convents and rural properties, valued at about $1,000,000.

EXCITEMENT IN KIMBERLEY.

Rumor of Plot to Blow Up De Beers Offices and Other Buildings.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 23.—A dispatch from Kimberley states that great excitement exists there as the result of the rumor of a plot among the unemployed to blow up the De Beers offices and other big buildings.

The present situation is the outgrowth of recent wholesale dismissals of employes by the company, following the demoralization of the world's diamond trade, and the alarm is increased by knowledge of the fact that despite the company's rule of giving railway tickets to any part of Africa to dismissed employes, a great many of the discharged workmen still remain in Kimberley.

Both the offices and the diamond store are guarded by armed men day and night, and other special precautions are being taken. Several fires of incendiary origin in the neighborhood of the De Beers plant are attributed to dismissed men.

SAGAN IS VERY ANGRY.

Victimized, He Says, by "Reporters of Two Continents."

NAPLES, April 23.—Declaring that he had been driven almost to desperation, Prince Helie de Sagan to-night left the hotel at which he had been staying and took an apartment on the Corso Vittorio Emmanuele under the name of Louis Perigord.

He expressed regret that the Friedrich der Grosse, on which Mme. Anna Gould is a passenger, will not arrive here until 7 o'clock to-morrow morning, although due to-day.

The steamer's arrival, he said, would mean "protection from being victimized by the damned reporters of two hemispheres."

In trying to escape the close watch the newspaper men have placed on him, the Prince early in the day drove out upon the Toledo sea front, but he soon discovered that his driver was in league with the cab drivers of his persecutors, animated signals passing between them by means of their whips.

The Prince returned at once to his hotel, where he found several telegrams awaiting him. Later he discussed with the hotel director the possibility of securing for Friday, after the arrival of the Friedrich der Grosse, an automobile with a chauffeur whom he could trust not to be signaling his movements to "spies."

The Prince went to the theatre in the evening, but soon realized that all the convenient places near him were occupied by reporters. He left in disgust, exclaiming: "I thought it impossible to be worse treated than in America."

The Prince has engaged an apartment at Bertolini's Palace Hotel, which dominates Naples, and from which a splendid view of the Gulf and Mount Vesuvius may be had. It is presumed the apartment has been engaged for Mme. Gould.

SCOTCH DISTILLERS PROTEST.

Detention of Their Goods in New York Custom House Rouses Their Ire.

LONDON, April 23.—News of the detention of a shipment of Scotch whisky by the customs officials of New York, on the ground that the labels do not disclose the presence of coloring matter, has greatly astonished the Scotch distillers and has aroused much ire. Representatives of the distillers visited the Foreign Office here this afternoon and brought the matter to the attention of the officials. It later was declared that instructions, growing out of the conference, had been cabled to the British Ambassador at Washington. The shippers contend they have been most careful to comply with the requirements of the American pure-food law, and they claim that Section 8 of this law expressly excludes its operation in regard to harmless coloring ingredients.

The customs officials here began holding up shipments of certain brands of Scotch and Irish whiskies about a week ago. Importers last night professed not to know on what ground the whiskies had been stopped, declaring that it was on some technicality. One of them, however, said he received a telegram yesterday from Washington that Ambassador Bryce had "fixed up" the matter and that the goods now held up by the customs officials would be released.

TO MAINTAIN STATUS QUO.

North Sea and Baltic Treaties Signed in Berlin and St. Petersburg.

BERLIN, April 23.—The North Sea and Baltic treaties were signed at the Foreign Office to-day by the German Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and the British and French Ambassadors and the Danish, Dutch, and Swedish Ministers to Germany. These treaties are designed to maintain the status quo on the Baltic Coast and in the North Sea.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 23.—A declaration and a special memorandum recording the mutual recognition by Russia, Germany, and Sweden and Denmark of the principle of the territorial status quo of the Baltic Sea was signed at the Russian Foreign Office this afternoon. Simultaneously with the signing of the North Sea and the Baltic agreements, an official of the Swedish Government, and the British and French diplomatic representatives here, signed an act terminating the Stockholm treaty of 1855. This treaty was an alliance between Great Britain, France, and Sweden guaranteeing the integrity of Norway and Sweden against Russia.

ROCHETTE VICTIM A SUICIDE.

Fritz Perrugia, Brother-in-Law of Leopold de Rothschild, Takes His Life.

PARIS, April 23.—Fritz Perrugia, brother-in-law of Leopold de Rothschild, who is prominently identified with the Anglo-Jewish Association of London, committed suicide to-day in his apartments at the Grand Hotel, in this city.

His motives for killing himself are not known, but it is reported he had lost heavily through speculations in the companies promoted by Henri Rochette, who recently was arrested on the charge of swindling on an enormous scale.

Mr. Perrugia conducted a banking business in London.

NEW DANISH MINISTER.

Count von Moltke to Succeed M. Brun—His Wife an American.

COPENHAGEN, April 23.—It is announced that Constantin Brun, the Danish Minister to the United States, will be transferred this Summer from Washington to London. It is expected that Count Carl von Moltke, the Minister to Italy, will succeed him.

The Countess von Moltke was Miss Cornelia Van Rensselaer Thayer, the daughter of Nathaniel Thayer of Boston. The marriage took place at Lancaster, Mass., on June 29 last.

LONG AUTO OUTING FOR FLEET OFFICERS

Sixty Machines Take Large Party on a Tour Through Los Angeles County.

GIFT TO ADMIRAL EVANS

Handsome Remembrance from City of Santa Monica—Fleet Sails for Santa Barbara To-morrow.

LOS ANGELES, April 23.—A party composed of 250 officers of the fleet and fifty prominent citizens of Los Angeles covered a large part of Los Angeles County to-day in motor cars, and traversed most of the cities and towns. More than sixty machines were used to convey the party, which left headquarters at the Alexandria Hotel at 10 o'clock.

The route taken lay east from the city over the macadamized highway to Pasadena, where the party partook of a luncheon at the Maryland Hotel, enjoying the hospitality of the local Board of Trade. Hundreds of school children participated in the exercises that were given in honor of the visitors.

After a drive through the beautiful residence portion of the city the machines proceeded to Hollywood, moving through the vast groves of orange, lemon, fig, and olive trees that line the highways.

The reception at Sawtelle, where thousands of veterans of the civil war cheered the officers, was most impressive. The party was shown all over the buildings and grounds of the National Soldiers' Home, after which they proceeded on to Santa Monica, where practically the entire population of the city was on hand to greet them. Thousands of visitors who had come to see the ships of the Third Division at anchorage augmented the crowd.

Here a handsome gift from the municipality was presented to Admiral Evans, Admiral Thomas accepting the gift for his chief.

Leaving the beach late in the afternoon the automobiles turned toward Los Angeles, where two hours later they arrived. To-night the California Club entertained several hundred officers and local guests at a reception and ball in the clubrooms at Fifth and Hill Streets. The Jonathan Club also gave a reception.

To-morrow the flagship Connecticut will be reserved for the use of the members of the Los Angeles Reception Committee and their families. Many of the ships are receiving large delegations from the different State societies in Los Angeles. Ex-residents of Connecticut, Kansas, Vermont, Rhode Island, Georgia, Kentucky, Alabama, and other States have visited the various ships named after their respective States. The Kentucky delegation, which has been trying for two days to get out to the Kentucky at Redondo and have been prevented by the beach storms, are due to make another attempt to-morrow. The storm has now subsided and the weather all along the coast is ideal.

The men are to have their final round of entertainment to-morrow morning, when 3,300 of them are to be taken on an automobile tour of the city. After the ride they will have a barbecue luncheon and then see the Wild West show.

Capt. Grant, chief staff officer of Admiral Evans, stated this afternoon that the plan of leaving the ports of Los Angeles for Santa Barbara had not been changed. The ships of the first and second divisions at anchor at San Pedro and Long Beach, respectively, and only a few miles apart, will get under way simultaneously at 5 o'clock Saturday morning, and proceed to Redondo, where the third division, from Venice, will have joined the four division. The reunited fleet will then steam to Santa Monica Bay in a single column, and parade back and forth in front of Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica until 9 o'clock, when they will depart finally for Santa Barbara.

They are due at Santa Barbara at 3 P. M. Saturday, to remain until April 29.

BATTLESHIP DEBATE TO-DAY.

Senate to Consider President's Plea for Four Ships Instead of Two.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—A bitter fight is scheduled for to-morrow in the Senate between the supporters of the President's plea for four battleships and those Senators who are determined there shall be provision for two only.

At no time this session has such active lobbying been done on a bill as is being undertaken on the navy measure, so far as the battleship clause is concerned. Senators Beveridge, Flint, Smoot, and Piles are the chief workers for the Administration, while Senators Aldrich, Burrows, Crane, and Kean are lining up the "organization" by raising the cry "Stand by the committee."

Late to-day, after the Senate had adjourned, Senators Flint and Smoot were in consultation with Senator Beveridge. They went carefully over the roll of the Senate, dividing their opponents from their adherents, and listing those who appeared to be undecided. These last will have small opportunity to sleep to-night, for both sides are actively engaged in proselyting.

The feature of to-day's debate was a bitter attack made on the Steel Trust. Senator Gore started the trouble by the introduction of two amendments, both of which were decisively defeated. The first was to strike out the clause providing that bidders must be American citizens, thus throwing open to the world the right to make bids. The second amendment was to eliminate the requirement that all material must be of American manufacture.

Senator Bacon later sought to have the bill amended to permit contractors to buy armor plate and materials in any market in the world, for, he declared, in many cases American-made goods were sold cheaper abroad than at home.

The Bacon amendment was defeated, as was one offered by Senator Hale reorganizing the Staff Corps of the navy on the same plan as that adopted for the Staff Corps of the army.

RAYNER ATTACKS ROOSEVELT.

Would Call Any Attempt to Stretch the Constitution Treason.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Senator Rayner to-day delivered another philippic against the President, and scored those Democrats who applaud the Chief Executive. The speech was in support of his resolution introduced several days ago to the effect "that in the opinion of the Senate the powers delegated by the Constitution of the United States must not be enlarged by implication or so construed as to conflict with or encroach upon the reserved rights of the States as guaranteed by the Tenth Amendment."

The Senator declared he would limit the Presidential office to one term, and would brand as treasonable any attempt to stretch the Constitution beyond its proper limits. He then turned his attention to those Democrats "who have hailed President Roosevelt as oracle, prophet, and deliverer."

Pleading for a more exact recognition of the rights of the sovereign States, Senator Rayner declared the root of the whole trouble is found in the law permitting the Federal Government to regulate commerce between the States. The word "commerce," he said, had been stretched to include everything.

FOWLER DEFENDS HIS VIEWS.

But Declares the Aldrich Currency Bill Unpopular—Gov. Fort Militant.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., April 23.—Representative Charles N. Fowler defended his currency views in an address before the Republican Club here to-night, saying that in 1873 one man, President Grant, was wiser than the whole Republican Congress when he vetoed the Greenback bill. Hayes was above his party in 1878, he said, when he vetoed another Greenback bill, and Cleveland was wiser than the Democratic Party in 1893 when he disapproved a free silver measure.

"I can discuss the Aldrich bill with propriety now," he continued, "because it was in my committee in the House. The Banking and Currency Committee has anchored itself in the intelligence of the American people. I know that, because of the hundreds of letters received by the committee only three are in favor of the Aldrich measure."

Gov. Fort was introduced by United States Senator Kean as a future Vice President of the United States. The Governor, with the work of the last Legislature plainly in mind, said that he intended to go into every county of the State and appeal to the people. The Legislature practically ignored every reform suggestion made by Gov. Fort in his inaugural address.

PUBLISHERS DEMAND ACTION.

Protest Against Cannon's Throttling of Free Wood Pulp Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The American newspaper publishers let Speaker Cannon know to-day that his pet scheme for an investigation of the Paper Trust is not going to deflect them from their fight for the removal of the duty on wood pulp and print paper.

They made him aware of their attitude in a manner which conveyed also an explicit opinion of his action and of Sereno Payne and John Dalzell. Their information and opinion was contained in a telegram, a copy of which was delivered to every member of the House on his arrival at the Capitol to-day. It came from Secretary E. H. Baker of the publishers' association, and said: "The American Newspaper Publishers' Association, in convention assembled, protests against the subterfuge designed by Cannon, Payne, and Dalzell to prevent relief from the extortions of the paper combine. We ask that the Stevens bill, now throttled in the Ways and Means Committee, be put to a vote on the floor of the House. We represent the seventh largest industry in the United States, and have rights that Congress is bound to respect."

The Speaker's answer to the publishers will be a summons to testify before his committee.

Speaker Cannon declared that "in his opinion" the committee would give the publishers every opportunity to present their side of the matter.

The Democrats lost not a moment in making the most of their opportunity. John Sharp Williams immediately replied to Baker, putting the responsibility for the hold-up on the Speaker.

"I join you in your protest," he wired. "Get the Speaker to recognize me or any one else, Republican or Democrat, for a motion to call up the bill, and it will pass. It is up to him."

The Democrats, and many Republicans who have been wanting to revolt but have not quite dared, were plainly jubilant over the hole in which the Speaker had been put by the publishers.

SPEAKER VOTED DOWN.

House Kills His Amendment Favoring Lumber Company.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The overwhelming vote of 227 to 43 against an amendment Speaker Cannon had been at particular pains to have offered showed to-day what might happen in case the Wood Pulp bill or any of the other measures opposed by the Speaker were allowed to come to a vote.

The amendment was introduced by Mr. Fordney of Michigan to the resolution authorizing the Department of Justice to begin ouster proceedings against the Harriman interests in a three-million-acre land grant in Oregon.

It excepted from the provisions of the resolution all bona fide purchasers who could show patents from the original grantee, thus giving clear title to lumber interests which have bought up nearly 600,000 acres of land in direct violation of the terms of the grant, which specify that not more than 160 acres shall be sold to one purchaser.

The resolution as it came from the Senate left the lumber interests unprotected. The Speaker then found that in endeavoring to run the Democratic filibuster out of existence by special rules he had run himself into a hole. In doing business under suspension of the rules, on the latest plan of the House machine, no amendments are in order.

At the Speaker's personal insistence, in this case, however, a special order was put through allowing a single amendment to be offered to this particular measure.

Mr. Cannon spoke from the chair in explanation of the amendment, if not in advocacy of its passage at least in explanation. In reply to an attack by John Wesley Gaines he declared that he felt bound to give the House a say on the amendment.

There was no mistaking the "say of the House" when it came.

INVENTORS ON EQUAL FOOTING

Focht's Bill Retaliates on Nations Discriminating Against Americans.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—American inventors who have got out patent rights in Germany, Great Britain, and Russia, or any of them, are required to have some of the goods made in the territory of the grantor country.

Representative Focht of Pennsylvania to-day introduced a bill the purpose of which is to put foreign inventors who receive patents from the American Government on a similar footing in this country by requiring that one-half of their goods be manufactured here.

The Congressman's sole aim is to retaliate on the empires mentioned.

D. A. R. Vote Is Not Counted.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The result of the balloting at to-day's session of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution for ten Vice Presidents General will not be announced to the congress until it convenes to-morrow morning. It had been expected that the tellers would be able to report at to-night's session, but at a late hour they were still canvassing the vote, and their work was then far from being completed. President Roosevelt to-day received the delegates in the East Room of the White House.

Four Dead in Mine Explosion.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 23.—Four men were killed, three seriously injured, and 100 others had a narrow escape from death to-day when an explosion occurred in Mine 1 of the Ellsworth Collieries Company at Ellsworth, Washington County, Penn. The dead are foreigners.

CITY BREVITIES.

LILLEY'S LETTERS WANTED IN INQUIRY

One Signed by Him Said Committee Intended to Apply the Whitewash Brush.

WRITTEN BY HIS SECRETARY

But Electric Boat Co.'s Accuser Does Not Repudiate the Letter—Objects to His Correspondence Being Examined.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—There were interesting developments to-day in the hearing being conducted by the special committee of the House of the charges preferred by Representative George L. Lilley of Connecticut against the Electric Boat Company.

Mr. Lilley and the committee locked horns over the question of the production of letters which he asserted are confidential, and the question whether they should be produced had not been decided when adjournment was taken for the day.

The question of the authorship of the two anonymous letters that have played such an important part in the investigation also was gone into, and it is the belief of the committee that the identity of the writer would be established within the next forty-eight hours.

Mr. Olmsted read a clipping from The Hartford Courant of March 30, containing a letter signed by Mr. Lilley, addressed to George W. Goff of East Hampton, Conn. This letter, which was in reply to one received by Mr. Lilley from Mr. Goff, contained the following:

"The select committee to investigate has already demonstrated its intention to apply the brush whenever it can. Therefore, it is safe to assume that very little will be brought out."

Mr. Lilley stated that that letter was written by his secretary, Mr. Webster, and that he had not seen it until it appeared in print. Mr. Webster, he said, had authority to sign his name to letters. Mr. Webster was called to the stand and admitted he wrote the letters.

Mr. Lilley then resumed the stand and was asked if he had repudiated the letter. He replied that he had not.

"This letter casts a reflection upon the character of the House of Representatives and the officers of it which cannot go unnoticed," interposed Chairman Boutell. "A month has elapsed since you had knowledge of its existence over your signature. During that time it would certainly have been possible for you to explain it on the floor of the House or to this committee, but no explanation was forthcoming."

"I think I reprimanded my secretary," said Mr. Lilley. "I am very sure I did."

"Why have you not discharged a man who would abuse your confidence in such a manner?" asked Mr. Broussard.

"Well, I have not discharged him," responded Mr. Lilley.

"Will you let us have these letters?" asked Mr. Olmsted.

"I do not think it is within the scope of this committee to examine my private correspondence," said Mr. Lilley.

Tailor Shops Closed Down

Some days ago The Daily Trade Record, which is the recognized authority in the clothing industry, contained a report to the effect that "nearly all tailor shops in New York, with the exception of a few manufacturing for retail concerns, were closed down."

That evening the report was confirmed by the superintendent of a Brill-directed tailoring organization, who said he had toured the city, and about the only shops running were those making Brill clothes.

Those busy shops, running full time and employing the pick of the best tailormen in New York, stand as proof positive of the constant demand for Brill Clothes.

Brill Clothes at $15 to $45 are New York's most modern and best value clothes.

Shoes that Satisfy

A really good shoe was never made by painting the quality on the outside.

That's why the economist finds it profitable to buy "F. S. & U." shoes with the quality "Built-in."

They look, fit and wear better because they are better.

And they cost just a trifle more than common shoes.

RYAN'S VALUATION OF RAILROAD STOCKS

Says 95 Per Cent. of Shares of Steam Roads Prior to 1885 Never Cost a Dollar.

ALL BUILT WITH BONDS

Metropolitan Stock, on the Contrary, Represents 83½ Per Cent. Cash Paid In, He Says.

By way of comparing the capital actually paid in, represented in the stock of the Metropolitan Street Railway, with the capital represented by the average railroad stock, Thomas F. Ryan, on the witness stand, before the Grand Jury which investigated traction matters, declared that 95 per cent. of all of the stock of steam railroad corporations issued prior to 1885 in this country never cost a dollar, while by his figures Metropolitan stock represented 83½ per cent. cash paid in.

These statements came out while District Attorney Jerome, for the purpose of giving the Grand Jury a preliminary groundwork on which to consider Mr. Ryan's testimony, was reading to them the statement the traction financier gave out on Monday evening, which set forth that the $5,000,000 stock of the Lexington Avenue and Pavonia Ferry Road was issued over and above the cost of the road, represented by the $5,000,000 bonds; that the $3,000,000 stock of the Columbus and Ninth Avenue Road was similarly issued, together with the $300,000 stock of the Metropolitan Crosstown. Mr. Ryan said that the financing of these roads was typical of the methods employed.

95 Per Cent. of R. R. Stocks Water.

Mr. Jerome questioned the witness:

Q.—Mr. Ryan, you have been connected with a large number of corporate ventures both in street railways and in steam railways, have you not? A.—I have.

Q.—As a banker you are familiar with the capitalization of many of the railroads of this country, are you not? A.—Yes.

Q.—How will that compare, that percentage of water, if you call it such? A.—Ninety-five per cent. of the stock of all the railroad corporations of this country never cost a dollar.

Q.—You mean that 95 per cent. of the stock of the railroads of this country are water? A.—Ninety-five per cent. of them are; 95 per cent. of the railroads within the last—these great speculative years that we have had has put up stock, so that it has been easy to raise money on stocks and bonds—but up to 1885 95 per cent. of all steam railroads and all street railroads and industrial corporations never put in one dollar on their stock, except a little organization expenses that were required for a few shares of stock in the beginning.

Q.—So that your experience is that $83.50 cash paid in was unusual? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—In being more cash than was customary in other corporations? A.—Up to 1873 there was not a dollar paid in on the St. Paul, Northwestern, Omaha, or any of those railroads.

Q.—If you took those roads as they stand to-day, including the roads that have been organized and supposed to be put on a sound basis, taking them as a whole, both steam railroads and surface railroads, would $83.50 cash on every share of $100 par be a large percentage of cash? A.—A large percentage. Ninety per cent. of them haven't had anything. And not only that; in the reorganizations that took place between 1900 and 1907 they assessed this stock and have bonds.

"We understand, then," said a juror, "that the roads cost only 5 per cent. of the capital issue; they were built with bonds?"

"Built with bonds," said Mr. Ryan. "The Union Pacific Railroad was built with bonds, and got a land grant worth $250,000,000 from the Government besides."

"And Atchison the same?" asked a juror.

"Atchison the same," answered Mr. Ryan.

W. C. Whitney as a Financier.

The testimony of Paul D. Cravath, now the chief of the traction lawyers before the Grand Jury, contains a new version of the responsibility of William C. Whitney for conditions in the system, of which considerable has been heard in recent testimony of the traction men.

"I think you must now admit," said Mr. Cravath among other things, "that in the light of subsequent events, brilliant as he was, he was not a close student of the physical conditions of those properties, nor was he a good student of financial conditions, or a good prophet for the future.

"He was a very resourceful, powerful, aggressive man, and in carrying out this great plan of his he was willing to sacrifice what turned out to be an ultimate profit for the sake of taking another step in the great scheme of consolidation. And these things resulted: The leases which he made were sometimes, as it turned out, very expensive leases and leases other than the Third Avenue to-day absorb a million and a half of income, exclusive of the Third Avenue leases, which would take, if the rental were being paid, about $800,000 more. There can be no doubt, in the light of subsequent events, that the rentals resulting from these leases, a million and a half miscellaneous rentals, plus $800,000 for the Third Avenue, was a much greater burden than the business, as it turned out, could afford to carry."

The testimony of Mr. Ryan ran also to his account of the dealings with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. in connection with the formation of the Metropolitan Securities Company in 1902 and his taking up in the Summer of 1903 the Metropolitan Securities stock remaining in the hands of the bankers or the syndicate of their immediate clients, which had originally taken $6,600,000 of the entire issue. The testimony ran:

By a Juror—Mr. Ryan, the forming of the Metropolitan Securities Company for this purpose, you said that you found some people downtown that were willing to take over—that were willing to furnish capital, and guarantee 7 per cent. on the Metropolitan traction stock? A.—Yes.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co.'s Syndicate.

Q.—Were those people the same people that owned the Metropolitan Traction Company? A.—No, not at that time; the bankers, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., made up a syndicate to furnish $30,000,000 for the Metropolitan Securities Company, which would own all of the stock of that company, and would guarantee the 7 per cent., and when we got to almost the last day we refused to go on with it, because they would not allow the Metropolitan Street Railroad stockholders to subscribe. Finally they agreed to let them.

By Mr. Jerome—After these transactions between yourself and Mr. Whitney, or whoever were conducting the investigations with Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the idea was that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. would underwrite this issue of the Metropolitan Securities Company's securities, was it? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Now, some hitch came that your group contended that the Metropolitan Street Railway people should have a right to subscribe to a certain amount of Metropolitan Securities Company stock? A.—Yes.

Q.—And Kuhn, Loeb & Co. wanted to take it all? A.—Yes.

By a Juror.—Was Kuhn, Loeb & Co. acting in a way for the Metropolitan Street Railway Company? A.—None whatever; no interest in it at all.

Q.—They were simply underwriting for themselves and for their friends? A.—For their clients, the Metropolitan Securities stock, and finally they gave up 80 per cent.

By Mr. Jerome—Eighty some per cent.; eighty and a fraction. So practically the Metropolitan Street Railway stockholders got nearly all that stock in exchange for Metropolitan Street Railway? A.—No; they never exchanged. They had a right to subscribe for it.

Ryan Bought Back $6,600,000.

A Juror—To what extent?

Mr. Kresel—Eighty and some odd per cent.

Q.—And did they? A.—They subscribed for it all and subscribed for it four or five times over.

Q.—Then what happened? A.—Then the New York City Railway Company leased the Metropolitan, and then we had the Wormser case, because Wormser thought we didn't get enough for the Metropolitan, and that was decided in our favor, and the Metropolitan Securities continued—began to pay the dividends on the Metropolitan Street Railway. It owned all the stock of the New York City Railway.

Q.—Now, did Kuhn, Loeb & Co. take any stock? A.—Yes.

"They got some millions of dollars of stock?" asked Mr. Jerome.

"Yes, they got $6,600,000 for their syndicate," replied Mr. Ryan.

"What became of the stock ultimately that they took; did you take it back?"

"I bought it after a while," replied the witness.

Q.—And when you bought it what became of it? A.—Well—

Q.—Did you retain it? A.—I didn't retain it all, of course; I divided it.

Q.—At the time of the formation of the Interborough-Metropolitan did you retain that? A.—I either retained it or retained stock in its place. I had more when the Interborough-Metropolitan was formed than I had when I bought that.

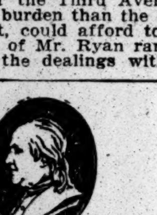
There was an interesting passage at arms between District Attorney Jerome and Franklin Pierce, counsel for the King Stockholders' Committee, when Mr. Pierce was before the Grand Jury. Mr. Pierce mentioned that there was an impression abroad that Mr. Jerome did not believe any of the officers of the Metropolitan Street Railway guilty of crimes.

"Let me correct that impression right here," said Mr. Jerome. "I have iterated and reiterated ad nauseam my belief in the fact that they are guilty."

Subsequently, in referring to the testimony of D. C. Moorehead before the Public Service Commission that he destroyed the books of the Metropolitan Street Railway without directions from any other officer, Mr. Jerome said:

"Everybody concedes that Moorehead lied before the Public Service Commission. Everybody concedes that he had a criminal intent in doing it."

Mr. Jerome's position in the Moorehead matter was that Section 20 of the Public Service Commission's act gave immunity on matters on which his testimony was sought. The act does not give immunity for the crime of perjury committed by a witness in testifying before the commission.



The Man from Rome

This is the title of a continued story by Marie Van Vorst, starting in this week's issue of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.

An American, rich beyond the dreams of avarice; a young son with pockets bursting with spending money, a daughter spoiled and beautiful; also the man from Rome. These persons act a powerful story, tragic in places, which will be illustrated by A. B. Wenzell and Vernon Howe Bailey.

The title suggests a hinted international marriage — but not this one.

Better begin to read this story now. It is hard to get back numbers of THE SATURDAY EVENING POST. This week's issue is now on sale.

DAVIS QUESTIONS CHIEF WARD

Not Satisfied with Abolishment of Indian Territory Division.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—George A. Ward, chief of the Indian Territory Division of the Interior Department, was before the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs to-day and was questioned by Senator Jeff Davis as to whether the fact that he had sent information to the Senate concerning the rolls of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians had injured him in his position.

The situation was created by an order of Secretary Garfield abolishing the division of which Mr. Ward is the head. Senator Davis appeared to be possessed of the idea that Mr. Ward had been made to suffer by reason of supplying the Senate with information. Mr. Ward denied this, and said that the re-arrangement at the Department called for his continuance in a responsible position at a compensation the same as he is now receiving.

Senator Davis was not satisfied with the statement by Mr. Ward, and it is understood he will closely question Secretary Garfield when he appears before the committee, as he is expected to do to-morrow. At the Interior Department it is said the Indian Territory Division was ordered abolished because it was no longer necessary.

PURDY FOR DISTRICT JUDGE.

Has Been Attorney General's Assistant in Anti-Trust Cases.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The President sent to the Senate to-day the following nomination:

To be United States District Judge for the District of Minnesota—Milton Dwight Purdy of Minnesota.

Since Mr. Purdy's appointment to the position of Assistant to the Attorney General, in July, 1905, he has had special charge in the Department of Justice of all cases relating to the enforcement of the Sherman Anti-Trust act and the inter-State commerce laws.

Among his most recent victories were the two cases of the Great Northern Railway Company and the Armour Packing Company, against the United States, in both of which the Government was successful.

VICE CRUSADE COST $5,706.

Newark Sheriff Sends Bill for Services Covering Many Arrests.

Sheriff Frank H. Sommer of Essex County yesterday submitted to the Board of Freeholders at a meeting in Newark a bill for $5,706.24 for money spent by him in the last two years in his crusade against vice and crime in and around Newark, which has resulted in more than a hundred arrests and indictments, many prison sentences, and the collection of about $50,000 in fines by the county.

It is said that the bill does not represent the total cost of the work, and that other bills are to be presented. There had been widespread wonder as to whether the Freeholders would pay the Sheriff's bills without a protest, but when the Finance Committee got ready to act upon it yesterday it developed that the payment of the bill was mandatory upon the official sanction of Judge Ten Eyck of the Common Pleas Court, before whom most of the Sheriff's vice cases were tried.

The bill read: "For expenses incurred by the Sheriff's office in detection and suppression of crime, incurred at the direction of the prosecutor and of the court."

EARLY BREATH OF SUMMER.

Temperature of 78 Surprises Folk Shivering in a Chill Spring.

The mercury kept climbing yesterday until it had reached 78, its highest mark for 1908. In other years April has seen the mercury run gayly up as high as 80 and a little beyond. On April 19, 1896, it reached 90.

To-day will be a little cooler than yesterday, and not nearly so fair, the Weather Man said last night. To-night is likely to bring showers.

A. C. HAYNES FAILS; HE OWES $176,000

Besides $800,000 Claim of the Equitable, Which May Take 17 Years to Settle.

HIS CASH ASSETS $14.72

Petitioner, Formerly Big General Agent for Equitable, Was Ousted by Tarbell.

Archibald C. Haynes, who was one of the largest general agents of the Equitable Life Assurance Society before its reorganization after the Hyde-Alexander controversy, and more recently was President of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday giving his known liabilities as $176,621 and his cash assets as $14.72.

Mr. Haynes was President of the Mutual Reserve up to the time that company went into receivers' hands, and then became one of its receivers. From that position he resigned a month ago to take a place in the service of the Prudential Life of Newark, and he is now connected with the New York office of that institution.

The bankruptcy application of Mr. Haynes is likely to give rise to some peculiar features and to introduce a lot of legal questions novel in bankruptcy practice. The $176,621, representing his known liabilities, is not the principal liability item, which, as the petition states, is the claim of the Equitable Life Assurance Society for between $700,000 and $800,000. Against this the principal asset item is the renewal commission expectation of Mr. Haynes from the business he wrote for the Equitable, although these renewals are specifically pledged to the society to offset its claim which is made up of sums advanced to the Haynes agency under the old practice of making almost unlimited advances to agents.

That is the hitch which is likely to drag out the bankruptcy proceedings to an interminable time, for it will be seventeen years before the account between Mr. Haynes and the society will adjust itself, and those who are now his creditors will have an interest in the residue coming to him, if there is any such sum. A vast amount of insurance that he wrote has lapsed in the three years since the life insurance agitation started. To these lapses Mr. Haynes attributed his troubles last night. He said that his income had been so reduced that he had paid out all the money he had to his creditors, and then faced nothing but bankruptcy.

Aside from the renewal commission account, the largest contingent asset is a claim against the Equitable for $100,000 on an action begun by Mr. Haynes for alleged breach of contract. This suit was a development of the circumstances under which he left the society. He had remained neutral during the Hyde controversy, but eventually came into violent controversy with Vice President Gage E. Tarbell, who replied by removing him and giving his agency to another. Mr. Haynes brought a suit, which is still in the demurrer stage.

The papers in the bankruptcy action do not attempt more than to approximate the amount of the renewal commissions that Mr. Haynes has coming to him. The estimate in the papers is $400,000, and the papers declare that in addition the society has notes of insured persons for the payment of premiums aggregating $150,000. Certain renewal commission claims upon the Union Central Life Insurance Company are set out as additional assets, together with 489 shares of the preferred stock and 56 shares of the common stock of the United States Cash Sales Company, the value of which is unknown.

The principal secured creditors are Reginald L. Hart of Philadelphia, $45,000 and $10,000 additional unsecured; Cumberland National Bank of Brooklyn, $6,727, and $2,150 unsecured; Merchants' Exchange National Bank, $4,250; A. M. Daniels, $14,500; I. B. Henderson, $8,000; Laura E. Kimble, $9,500; Minna Gale Haynes, $6,000, and estate of L. P. Tucker, Boston, $1,928. They are secured by life insurance policies of Mr. Haynes and other persons and liens against renewal commissions. Among the unsecured creditors are the Charter National Bank, Media, Penn., $9,383; Central National Bank of Philadelphia, $1,275; Wayne Title and Trust Company, Wayne Penn., $3,000; estate of M. Cushing, $8,500; estate of Austin Corbin, $1,987; Edward Morgan, Jr., $4,336; Samuel Appleton, Boston, $4,476; Henry M. Alexander, $2,800; Henry W. Haynes, $8,254, and Edward Lauterbach, $50 loan.

GAGE E. TARBELL RELEASED.

Real Estate Agent Accuses ex-Insurance Man of Assaulting Him.

Joseph Johnston, a former agent of the Garden City Improvement Company, told Magistrate Barlow in the Jefferson Market Court yesterday that Gage E. Tarbell, a former Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, but now agent for the Garden City Estate, had assaulted him in his office in the Flatiron Building, but the Magistrate discharged Mr. Tarbell. Johnston was angry and threatened to bring a civil suit.

Johnston said he was choked and battered by the former insurance man, but Mr. Tarbell said that Johnston assaulted him first after he had declined to see him until after he had finished an interview in which he was engaged at the moment.

Johnston wanted to collect money he alleges to be due him.

Police May Stop Boxing Bouts.

Supreme Court Justice Crane, in Brooklyn, yesterday denied a motion to make permanent an injunction restraining the police from interfering with boxing bouts given by the Sharkey Athletic Club in Manhattan. The Court held that the police would be neglectful if they did not interfere when it was seen that there was an evasion of the law.

Perfumers Dine at the Astor.

Members of the Manufacturing Perfumers' Association of the United States enjoyed a private vaudeville show after their fourteenth annual dinner last night in the ball room of the Hotel Astor. Several vaudeville performers now appearing at local theatres were called in to furnish the fun of the evening. Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, Chairman of the Trustees of the Hudson-Fulton Celebration Commission, made the address of the evening.

Associated Press Officers Re-elected.

The Directors of The Associated Press at their meeting in this city yesterday re-elected last year's officers, as follows: President—Frank B. Noyes, Chicago Record-Herald; First Vice President—Charles Hopkins Clark, Hartford Courant; Second Vice President—Rufus N. Rhodes, Birmingham News; Treasurer—Herman Ridder, New York Staats-Zeitung; Secretary and General Manager—Melville E. Stone.

RECEIVER FOR BROKERS.

Post Office Inspectors Also After W. H. Hopkins & Co. of Chicago.

CHICAGO, April 23.—Judge S. H. Bethea, in the Federal Court to-day, appointed Edwin C. Day receiver for the affairs of the banking and brokerage firm of Wallace H. Hopkins & Co. on a petition filed by three creditors.

The petition declares that the liabilities of the firm amount to $100,000 and places the assets at $500. F. A. Harper, who has been acting as attorney for Hopkins, said that the liabilities are not less than $200,000, and that he believed Hopkins had left the city.

One of the petitioners, W. C. Clark, charges Hopkins with having diverted $8,000 given him to invest in Board of Trade transactions to the promotion of sales of stocks of the Consolidated Zinc Company.

Post Office Inspector Stuart said that he has had transactions of the brokerage firm under investigation for several months and only awaited the opportunity to present evidence secured with a view to having it passed upon by a Federal Grand Jury.

The Consolidated Zinc Company stock has been widely advertised by the Hopkins Company as syndicate managers. The advertisements and literature are declared by the Post Office Inspector to be highly colored. "The literature sent out," asserted Inspector Stuart, "shows Hopkins's business to be a fraud on the face of it."

RECEIVERS' CERTIFICATES.

$80,000 at 6 Per Cent. to Aid the Metropolitan Steamship Company.

Judge Lacombe of the United States Circuit Court confirmed yesterday the decree of the Circuit Court of Maine granting permission to William T. Cobb, Calvin Austin, and Abel I. Culver, receivers of the Metropolitan Steamship Company, to issue certificates to the amount of $80,000, to run for six months and paying 6 per cent. interest.

The certificates are to be used to pay taxes to the City of Boston, for maintaining insurance on the company's property, for repairs to the steamships Yale and Harvard, and other needed expenditures. The certificates, Judge Lacombe says, are to constitute a prior lien to that of the American Trust Company.

BANK SITE 110 YEARS OLD.

Oldest Concern in the State Sees Eleven Decades.

The Bank of New York, N. B. A., the oldest bank in this State, reached yesterday the 110th anniversary of its occupation of its own office building at the northeast corner of Wall Street and Exchange Place. The bank had been in business, however, almost fourteen years when the Directors in 1797 decided upon the erection of a building at the corner it now occupies.

The earlier days of the bank were spent at 67 St. George Square, which later became the Franklin Square of to-day.

The building, which was begun in 1797, was replaced in 1857 by the one which now occupies the site. The Bank of New York was a State institution until 1864, when it took out a charter as a National bank, retaining, however, its old title and merely adding to its name the initials, "N. B. A.," (National Banking Association.)

N. & W. CUTS ITS DIVIDEND.

Railway Scales It from 5 to 4 Per Cent. to Meet Decreased Earnings.

Hhe Directors of the Norfolk & Western declared yesterday a semi-annual dividend on the road's common stock at the rate of 4 per cent., in place of the 5 per cent. rate which had been maintained since the Fall of 1906. The dividend declared yesterday is payable June 18 to stockholders of record on May 29. The full 4 per cent. dividends on the road's preferred stock have been paid since 1899.

The reduction in the dividend, a Norfolk & Western officer said, was in recognition of the decreased earnings of the road and of the fact that conditions so far have not improved.

The announcement of the Norfolk & Western reduction caused more attention to be given to the question of a possible reduction in the Pennsylvania Railroad dividend rate from 7 per cent. to 6 per cent., which has been discussed in Wall Street for some time. The Pennsylvania's semi-annual dividend is payable in May, and action on it is expected to be taken at the next meeting of the Directors.

NORTH AMERICAN BOND ISSUE.

Company Sells $1,000,000 Lot and Is Preparing for $5,000,000 More.

The North American Company, in keeping with its purpose of disposing of bonds of its subsidiary companies as soon as a favorable market for such issues was found, has effected the sale of one $1,000,000 lot of bonds, and has under way negotiations looking to the sale of $5,000,000 of another issue.

Spencer Trask & Co. have purchased $1,000,000 Milwaukee Light, Heat and Traction thirty-year 5 per cent. bonds, which will be offered for subscription at 98.

The larger issue now under consideration concerns the Union Electric Light and Power Company of St. Louis, another subsidiary of the North American Company. A New York banking house is negotiating for $5,000,000 bonds of this company, but the matter has not yet been definitely closed.

COMMISSION RULES CHELSEA.

Fire-Ruined City Follows Galveston's Emergency Plan.

BOSTON, April 23.—A bill providing for the Government of the city of Chelsea for the next five years by a commission with powers the same as given the commission at Galveston, Texas, after the disaster in that city, was agreed upon to-day at a meeting of representative citizens of the city and reported in the Massachusetts House of Representatives this afternoon under suspension of the rules.

It is stipulated that the commission shall be composed of five residents of Chelsea, selected by the Governor, to hold office from the date of their appointment until Jan. 1 next, when they shall be succeeded by another commission of five elected in November.

The commission displaces the present Mayor, Board of Aldermen, and School Committee, but has power to appoint a subcommission to take charge of the schools.

JERSEY LOSES $6,000,000.

Bank Stock Decision Reduces State Ratables That Amount.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 23.—The Court of Errors and Appeals to-day affirmed the contention of the State Bankers' Association that non-taxable securities must be deducted from the full returns made on all banks' stock before Tax Assessors may fix the value of such stock for purposes of assessment.

In the case of Hulings Lippincott, President of the National State Bank of Camden, against Isaac Lippincott, Collector of the Township of Chester, the court reverses the Supreme Court, which held to the contention that to exempt non-taxable securities in fixing bank stock valuation was to allow property to escape taxation.

The Court of Appeals holds that to tax these non-taxable securities would be double taxation.

To-day's decision will take $6,000,000 out of the State ratables.

Investigation of Fibre Trust Goes On.

SUES H. H. ROGERS FOR $2,000,000

A West Virginian Asserts He Lost That Sum in Deals with Standard Oil Men.

HIS RAILROAD SOLD TO B. & O.

Plaintiff Alleges Fraud in the Transaction and Asserts That It Ruined His Business.

Charging that H. H. Rogers, George A. Burt, and Alfred C. Bedford of the Standard Oil Company had injured him in business transactions to the extent of nearly $2,000,000, T. Moore Jackson of Clarksburg, West Va., began a suit in the Supreme Court of New York County yesterday for the recovery of that amount.

The bill of complaint, which was filed by Attorney Richard J. Donovan for Mr. Jackson, sets forth that on Feb. 7, 1895, the West Virginia Short Line Railroad Company was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia for the purpose of constructing a railroad from New Martinsville, in West Virginia, to Belington, West Virginia, and that upon the organization of the company Mr. Jackson was elected President, and held a large majority of the stock in the corporation, and that the Board of Directors was entirely friendly to him.

The complaint says that Mr. Jackson was a mineralogist and geologist and had located a number of tracts of land in West Virginia in which there was coal, iron, oil, and other valuable products that he had expected to develop with great financial gain to himself, but that adverse railroad interests had made it almost impossible for him to move his materials; that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, which was on one side of his property made the rates so high that it was practically impossible for him to ship by it, and that he had deemed it wise to construct a line through his property and connect it with the Ohio River Railroad to give him a competing line.

He sets forth that he entered into a contract for the West Virginia Short Line Railroad with Edward C. Machen of New York for the construction of the road from New Martinsville to Clarksburg, West Va., and that Mr. Machen had agreed to take his pay in stock of the West Virginia Short Line.

Says Mr. Rogers Took a Hand.

About this time, Mr. Jackson alleges, H. H. Rogers got interested in the situation and commenced operations which resulted in loss to Mr. Jackson. Mr. Jackson sets forth that at that time Mr. Rogers, with others of the Standard Oil group, owned a controlling interest in the Ohio River Railroad, which Mr. Rogers had been trying to sell to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, but without success, as the Ohio River Road was not a competitor of the Baltimore & Ohio. But the Ohio River Road, with a connection with the West Virginia Short Line, would be a competing line, and the Baltimore & Ohio would be forced to take cognizance of it.

Mr. Jackson sets forth that his various interests made it important for him to make the connection with the Ohio River Road, and that he had borrowed large sums of money for the purpose of building the conection.

Mr. Jackson next sets forth in his complaint that H. H. Rogers sent for him to come to New York, and made the proposition that the Ohio River Railroad Company should build the West Virginia Short line and thus make a competing line with the Baltimore & Ohio. The complaint says that Mr. Rogers asserted "taht he [Rogers] had a knife two feet long up his back for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company," (thereby conveying and intending to convey that he, Rogers, was hostile to the B. & O. Railroad and desired to injure it by competition,) "and that the said Rogers further stated that, if the plaintiff could got rid of his contract with Machen he, [Rogers,] in connection with the Ohio River Railroad Company, would build the West Virginia Short Line as an independent competing line of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, and would operate the same as a competing line for twenty years, and would during that time keep the same independent, and would not sell out the road or the control of it during that time.

To this proposition Mr. Jackson assented, and he alleges that Mr. Rogers further declared that Mr. Jackson was to remain as President of the West Virginia Short Line, and that the "road should give Jackson and his properties and those of the corporations in which he was interested every possible facility for the development thereof and for the shipment of their products to the market."

On this understanding Mr. Jackson swears that he turned over the West Virginia Short Line to Mr. Rogers after he had secured a release of the contract of construction from Mr. Machen. Mr. Jackson charges further that he was encouraged by Mr. Rogers to add to his holdings, "thereby making the West Virginia Short Line more valuable when the time came for Mr. Rogers to carry out his hidden plan of selling the whole business, including the Ohio River Railroad to the Baltimore & Ohio, who did not want to have competition, and that Mr. Rogers and his associates did actually sell out the West Virginia Short Line and the Ohio River Railroad to the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company."

Turned Over His Interest.

The complaint sets forth further:

That in pursuance of said scheme and plan the plaintiff was called to New York by the defendants on or about the 21st day of December, 1897, and the plaintiff being there without lawyer or counsel was overreached by the defendants and morally forced by the defendants into the execution of an agreement in writing with the defendant, Alfred G. Bedford, whereby plaintiff agreed to turn over to the defendant, Alfred G. Bedford, and those whom he represented, meaning thereby the defendants, Rogers and Burt, complete control of the West Virginia Short Line Railroad Company, and that the defendant Bedford, agreed thereby to pay to said plaintiff the money actually expended by the plaintiff in procuring rights of way and construction of said railroad.

This contract, Mr. Jackson says, was executed in Mr. Rogers's office, 28 Broadway.

Mr. Jackson says he then turned over to the defendants all his holdings in the West Virginia Short Line, and that the defendants thereafter, on about July 3, 1901, sold both the West Virginia Short Line and the Ohio River Railroad to the Baltimore & Ohio at "a high and remunerative price." Mr. Jackson swears that he knew nothing of the deal for the sale of the road, and that it was done in secret, so that he could not interfere, that as soon as the sale of the West Virginia Short Line became known to the public his credit was injured and he was deprived of the Presidency of the road, and that by reason of the fact that he had conceived the idea of the West Virginia Short Line the Baltimore & Ohio would not give him any facilities for the movement of his materials, and that his properties could not be developed, and that by reason of "all the wrongful, fraudulent, and deceitful acts of the defendants the plaintiff suffered great grievance and damage, as follows: The value of the plaintiff's eighty-seven shares of stock of the West Virginia Short Line Railroad Company, amounting to the sum of $250,000; the loss of his proprerties and the depreciation of his properties and those of the corporations in which he was interested, amounting in all to the sum of $1,643,939.25."

The plaintiff alleges that he has duly demanded compensation for his loss, but that the defendants have refused to comply with said demand, and he therefore demands judgment against the defendants and each of them for the sum of $1,893,939.25, damages, together with the costs and disbursements of the action.

George A. Burt and A. C. Bedford, codefendants with Mr. Rogers, are officers of the Standard Oil Company.

GOW CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Banker's Prosecution Is Transferred from the County Court.

Justice Marean, in Brooklyn, granted yesterday a motion changing to the Supreme Court the place of trial of William Gow, under five indictments in connection with the closing of the Borough Bank. Justice Marean said:

"It is a case of large importance to the people of this community, and it has always been the practice to bring such cases before the Supreme Court, where the atmosphere is somewhat different to that prevailing in the County Court."

Assistant District Attorney Elder, opposing the motion, said there were no great legal qeustions involved in the trial. He contended that it was a "plain case of stealing," and argued that Gow had, with the connivance of Howard Maxwell and Arthur D. Campbell, respectively President and cashier of the bank, simply converted funds of the institution to his own uses.

Mr. Elder added that the application was made solely for the purpose of delaying the trial.

"I will not permit any delay," said Justice Marean, "and you can come right into court and move the case immediately."

Isaac R. Oeland argued the motion for Gow. He said there were two indictments for grand larceny in the first degree, and three for overdrafts. All of them grew out of transactions merging the affairs of the Borough Bank with the International Trust Company.

To obtain the full amount of capital required, Gow, with Maxwell and Campbell, had made a note to the Borough Bank for more than $300,000, and this note was offered for discount at the International Trust Company. The trust company refused to discount this for more than $250,000, and it became necessary to raise $145,000 more. By jugglery in bookkeeping the sum was raised through an overdraft of the Chairman's account. District Attorney Clarke has resisted appeals from politicians and business men to defer the trial of Mr. Gow.

BATONYI OUTWITTED BY SHERIFF'S POSSE

Horses and Harness Which He Replevined from His Wife's Farm Are Rereplevined.

WRITING BOOK ON DIVORCE

Says He Will Ask Indictment of Persons Who Took Away Mrs. Batonyi and His Property.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., April 23.—While Aurel Batonyi was absent from his farm in Middletown this afternoon Deputy Sheriff Frank King of Newport County visited it with a posse of Assistant Deputy Sheriffs and rereplevined the horses, harnesses, and other property which Mr. Batonyi last Monday replevined from the Two-Mile Corner Farm in Middletown, owned by Mrs. Batonyi. Mr. Batonyi was called home by telephone, but when he returned the property had been landed in the stables of the Two-Mile Corner Farm.

Mr. Batonyi, for the first time since his troubles started last August, spoke freely to newspaper men. He was considerably excited, and said he did not believe to-day's action was his wife's doing, but that of certain persons behind her.

"The horses are mine, and this I can prove by an agreement both Mrs. Batonyi and myself signed as to their and other ownership of certain property.

"I am writing a book, which will be published in the United States and Europe, on my case which will contain the chapters of my divorce case from beginning to end.

"First these people took my wife away, now they take my horses and other property, my private papers, pictures, and other belongings, but I shall fight the case from now to the bitter end in the courts, and shall ask, through my Newport attorney, Clark Burdick, for an indictment at the hands of the Grand Jury of those who are responsible for my troubles and who conspired to take my wife and my property away.

"I have made many mistakes in my life, and am willing to acknowledge every one of them, but I am willing to compare my life with those who are behind my wife, pushing her to do this nasty work. It is simply a case where the husband is picked and persecuted and the mischiefmaker is upheld.

"I don't want money, and under the circumstances I am sorry to say I could not take my wife back, but I want the truth exposed, and nothing else. I wish this to be done publicly.

"I put myself in the hands of the public press and the courts of the country, and I insist on public trials and nothing else.

"I feel more than sorry for all this, but when certain persons go so far as to keep my private papers, safe, and personal belongings from me, it is time matters should be investigated publicly. I have nothing more to say, as the courts will decide who is in the right and who is in the wrong.

"A rug which was formerly in my office at the Mineola Stables, New York City, is now at Elm Court, the Newport residence of Frank Work, father of Mrs. Batonyi, where it was taken from Elm Court Farm; also four-in-hand harness and a collection of whips I used while I was a professional whip."

Charles H. Kochne, Jr., the lawyer who brought to-day's replevin action, refused to talk on the subject this evening, but it is believed he is acting on orders from Mrs. Batonyi, who is in New York.

HAFFEN TO GRAND JURY.

Inquiry Into Bronx Borough President's Administration Is Begun.

As a result of the examination by Commissioner of Accounts Mitchel into matters relating to the Government of the Bronx, an investigation of the office of Louis F. Haffen, President of the Borough, was begun yesterday by the regular Grand Jury. Assistant District Attorney Nott conducted this investigation and will continue it to-day. Transcripts of the testimony taken by the Commissioner of Accounts were presented to the Grand Jury and several witnesses were called.

Neither Mr. Nott nor District Attorney Jerome would divulge the nature of the examination. They would only say that certain phases of Mr. Haffen's administration of the borough required a more thorough inquiry than was possible in the hearings before Mr. Mitchel, and that it seemed wise to present the case to the Grand Jury.

The general purpose of the examination is to determine whether funds have been expended properly on public works such as repairing of streets and the laying out of new streets and parks.

JAPANESE LIKE N. Y. GIRLS.

Merchant Tourists Think They Outshine All Others in the World.

The party of Japanese who are making a world-round trip sailed for Liverpool yesterday on the White Star liner Cedric. The dining saloon of the liner was decorated with Japanese flags, and the names of the party appear on the passenger list in Japanese writing.

K. Sugimura, representative of the Tokio Morning Sun, spoke warmly of the courteous reception the party had received here. He said all were interested in this country, and the party wished that more time could have been given to sightseeing here.

"One thing that attracted my attention here," he added smiling, "is the number of pretty girls that one sees in New York. Nowhere else in the world do you see so many. And they are all modest and seemingly unconscious of their looks."

After spending ten days in England the party will go to Paris, then to Rome, and on through Continental Europe, the Suez Canal, and then home.

$82,244 FOR THE HOSPITALS.

This Amount Was Collected by the Saturday and Sunday Association.

The Distributing Committee of the Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association held a meeting yesterday in the Mayor's office. The Mayor presided, and there were present James Speyer, James C. Fargo, and R. J. Ross. The collections, it was found, amounted to $82,244.

Of this total, $7,452 goes to the specially designated hospitals, and $71,000 was distributed among forty-one different hospitals, the amount apportioned being in proportion to the amount of free hospital day service given by each institution. The Montefiore Home gets $7,100 and Mount Sinai $6,947.

The personality of Theodore Roosevelt has been the subject of heated controversy. Visitors to the White House have brought away conflicting reports of the President. It is, therefore, a matter of much public interest that The Times is able to announce an article giving an authoritative picture of the President as he is to-day. The author, Mr. William Bayard Hale, has spent a number of days observing the President at his work in the White House. As a result of this unique opportunity, Mr. Hale in the first place gives a realistic, first-hand description of the actual transaction of the high business of Government such as has never before in the whole history of our country been given, and in the second place presents a study of the personality of Mr. Roosevelt the most intimate and vivid ever published. The article will appear next Sunday.—Adv.

LOBSTERS LEAD TO SUFFRAGE

So Judge Ommen Tells West End Women's Republican Club.

"A tendency to be 'fly' is a tendency to suffrage, and broiled lobster and the cocktail lead to the ballot," Judge Alfred E. Ommen told the members of the West End Woman's Republican Club in a heart-to-heart talk at their regular social meeting at the Hotel Astor yesterday.

Judge Ommen was scheduled to talk upon "Women in Politics," and this he took to mean women having the suffrage, and though, as he said, "I am neither a prude nor a preacher," he expressed with feelings of sorrow his regret at the general attitude of the present-day woman.

"I do believe," said Judge Ommen, "that there is a tendency in these days to the manly woman, and we do not like the manly woman any more than we like the womanly man.

"Fifteen or twenty years ago, if a young man wished to take a young women to the theatre, her parents would have asked who his grandfather and grandmother and all his ancestors were, and found out everything about the young man's personal habits. Having learned that the girl would be properly protected, she was allowed to go to the theatre, and after that they would return to her house for a bite to eat, or perhaps they might have a plate of ice cream somewhere.

"Now if a young man has a clean face and a clean shirt and collar, that is all the parents ask, and after the theatre it is very likely to be lobster and a cocktail. This tendency to be 'fly' is a tendency to suffrage; it leads to the vote, and it does not tend to the improvement of the world.

"I believe that women should vote for school elections and for anything that works for the improvement of the morals and health of the community, but," very sadly, "if women start to reform the primaries and polling places, I am afraid we shall have to reform the women."

LABOR PRAISES PUBLISHERS.

Newspaper Employes Declare the Arbitration System a Success.

Representatives of an industrial army of 80,000 men appeared before the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association in the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday and praised the members of the association for the successful development and working of the arbitration system between employer and employe.

Among the men who testified to the success of arbitration methods were President James F. Lynch of the International Typographical Union, James F. Freel, President of the International Stereotypers' Union, and Matthew Berry, President of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union.

President Lynch was unable to be present because of illness, but sent an address, which Vice President Hayes of the typographical union read. In part, President Lynch said:

"The record thus far is a distinct indorsement for the new arbitration agreement and the settlement of disputes between the International Typographical Union and the publishers of union newspapers before a board of arbitrators composed of men familiar with the conditions in composing rooms, and therefore are competent to formulate verdicts that are not in any sense hit and miss affairs.

"We have accomplished two great things. We have maintained industrial peace in the composing rooms of the members of your association who work under agreement with our typographical union, and our members have not found it necessary to leave your employ because of disagreements with the unions."

Harris, who made the examination, was not satisfied with the man's declaration. A search of his person brought to light the articles seized. In Musso's overcoat pockets, in inside pockets, and even in his shoes laces and other articles of foreign make were found.

CHEAPER ORANGES FOR NEW YORK TRADE

Col. Louis Harrison of Florida Predicts a Decided Drop in Prices in a Year.

TO GROW SEEDLESS KIND

Florida Will Thus Become Stronger Competitor of California—Dealers Predict a Glut in the Strawberry Market.

"Florida oranges, seedless ones, as good as any which ever came out of California, will be selling in New York at 2 cents each within a year," said Col. Louis Harrison, a Florida orange grower, yesterday while talking of the fruit production of his native State. Col. Harrison is in New York renewing his acquaintance with friends in the orange trade, and incidentally taking in the sights. His orange groves, a few miles outside of Monticello, Fla., have given New Yorkers many a tasteful bit of fruit in recent years.

"Florida is shipping about 4,000,000 boxes of oranges this year," said Col. Harrison, "and next year she will export 5,000,000 boxes. The people of my State are turning their attention to oranges more strongly now than ever before, and unless the signs fail Florida will be furnishing New York with more oranges, in a few years, than does California, and they will be at least as good as the California fruit at that.

"The growers down home have realized that to compete with the Californians they must raise the seedless oranges, and they have been for several years preparing for it. They now have a Florida-grown seedless orange just as good as the California production.

"The big frost early in the nineties practically destroyed the orange orchards of Florida, and the growers are just recovering from that blow. It was fortunate one way, however, for instead of replacing the frost-killed trees with those which bear the small native fruit, they have planted trees which produce fruit at least a third larger than the old ones. In a few years the majority of the output will be seedless oranges.

"The orange industry in my State is blooming as it never bloomed before, and everybody is happy. Our oranges are now selling here in New York for $3 to $4 a box, containing from 96 to 150 oranges. They are retailing here at about 50 cents a dozen in the markets; that is for good oranges, sweet ones. The California fruit is selling at from 25 cents to 60 cents a dozen. California has shipped this year 80,000 carloads of oranges, each car holding 384 boxes. It will not be many years before Florida will be shipping an even larger crop of oranges each year than her sister State, and there will come a time when Florida will lead the world in the production of that most luscious of all fruit—oranges."

STRAWBERRIES FOR ALL.

Dealers Predict a Glutted Market, with the Prices Way Down.

Dealers in fruit are predicting a glut in the strawberry market in a few weeks, and say that New Yorkers will probably be able to eat all the good strawberries they want at 6 cents a quart, or perhaps 5. Reports from the growers of Virginia, Delaware, and New Jersey are that the oncoming crop of berries is better than for many seasons, and a larger acreage has been devoted to the fruit.

The best berries from North Carolina have been selling in the local market at from 15 to 30 cents a quart retail and from 10 to 20 cents wholesale. The Virginia berries will begin to arrive next week, and those from Delaware will appear the following week. New Jersey will come next.

Dealers say that the Delaware berries are more desirable than those from further south, owing to the fact that they are not so badly damaged in shipment and are fresher when they reach the market.

Long Island-grown berries will not find their way to the markets for three weeks or more, except some of hothouse growth. Long Island truckers are also devoting a larger acreage to strawberries this year, so New Yorkers can look for good fruit and lots of it at reasonable prices very shortly, say the dealers.

WOMAN'S FATAL AUTO RIDE.

Mrs. Bryan Unlikely to Survive Her Accident on the Bridge.

There is little hope for the recovery of Mrs. Anna Bryan of 228 West Thirty-seventh Street, whose skull was fractured when she was thrown from an automobile on the Williamsburg Bridge early yesterday morning.

The accident was caused by the bursting of a tire while the car was being driven at full speed down the incline toward Manhattan. John Bryan, son of the injured woman, was the chauffeur. He did not know that his mother had been hurled from the car until he heard the screams of his two sisters, Anna and Alice Bryan, who were in the tonneau.

Zamisky thought he could pass the truck and did not slow up. Driver Joseph Berry tried to rein in his horses, but when he stopped them young Zamisky had disappeared under the wheels of the truck and was crushed. He died in an ambulance of the Norwegian Hospital

BULLFIGHTING HIS PASTIME.

Wealthy Senor Gomez Thinks It's Great Sport—Has Killed 350 Bulls.

On his way to Mexico, where he is to fight the bull, Señor Rafael M. Gomez, a young Spaniard, said to be wealthy, arrived yesterday on the Cunarder Slavonia.

"Two years ago I took up bullfighting as a pastime," said Señor Gomez, who speaks good English. "I built a bullring on my farm at Malaga and practiced constantly. I became proficient, and for two years I have traveled through Spain as a matador, killing about 350 bulls. I have been injured four times."

AFTER EXPRESS CO.'S BOOKS.

Bankers' Lawyer Wants to See All of Them in Money Order Fight.

Lawyer John S. Miller of Chicago yesterday morning asked Inter-State Commerce Commissioner Clark to have practically all of the books and data of the American Express Company produced that they might be examined for evidence to enable the American Bankers' Association to substantiate its charges against the principal express companies relative to the issuance of express money orders.

The bankers contend that the express companies, as common carriers, have no right to issue money orders. The express companies insist that the subject is one in which the Inter-State Commerce Commission is without jurisdiction. Mr. Miller also wanted all the paid money orders of the American Express Company for the last two years produced.

After listening to Frank H. Platt in opposition to Mr. Miller's motion for a subpoena duces tecum, Commissioner Clark said the commission would fix a date in Washington to hear further arguments on the case.

CITY PAID FOR BAD HOSE.

Witness at Fire Department Inquiry Admits It Wasn't Up to Specification.

Further testimony to show that the specifications for hose were changed just before the Windsor Company put in bids, and that the hose furnished by that company did not contain what is known as Sea Island cotton, was obtained yesterday at the continuation of the Fire Department hearing before the Commissioners of Accounts.

J. B. Foulke, a former employe of the Controller's office, said that he had passed a lot of Windsor hose after an examination of 20 per cent. of it. He had seen the hose full of water and the gauge marking 300 pounds' pressure, but he had no way of telling whether the gauge was set at that figure.

Several witnesses testified to the effect that, in their opinion, Sea Island cotton could not have been put in the Windsor hose at the price mentioned in the successful bid, and later in the day an expert, Walter Gormley, who had made an examination of samples, asserted positively that Sea Island cotton was not used.

Superintendent of Matteawan Confers with Him About the Fight for Freedom

The District Attorney received a visit yesterday from Dr. Baker, Superintendent of the Matteawan Insane Asylum, where Harry K. Thaw is now a patient. He obtained a bundle of papers relating to the Thaw case, which he intends to use on May 9, when the habeas corpus proceeding to obtain Thaw's release will be opened at Poughkeepsie.

The District Attorney's office will be represented at the hearing, and will resist any effort looking toward Thaw's release.

TRANSPORT HERE FROM PHILIPPINES

Duke of Connaught Entertained the Passengers at Gibraltar—50 Dead Brought Home for Burial.

After being two years away from America, the United States transport McClellan arrived here yesterday. Within an hour after she had left Quarantine she was warped alongside the Quartermaster's pier in East River, the same spot from which she sailed in February, 1906, with a battalion of the First Infantry for the Philippines. The return trip from Manila—a distance of 13,386 miles—was made under an almost continually clear sky and through pleasant seas.

The McClellan brought from Manila and landed at Gibraltar Gen. Leonard Wood and his family. The General will enjoy an extended leave before he comes here to succeed Gen. Grant as Commander of the Department of the East. She also landed at Malta Gen. H. H. Bandholt, Chief of the Philippine Constabulary; Major R. H. Noble of the First Infantry, Col. George Andrews, and Major S. W. Miller of the Inspector General's Department.

In addition to her forty-eight passengers, the McClellan brought home the bodies of fifty enlisted men, civilian employes and teachers who died in the islands. Among them were Loren C. Guerney of Catskill, N. Y.; George V. Hahn, Rome, N. Y., and Charles B. Hart of South Bingham, Mass.

The McClellan left Manila on Feb. 20. She made stops at Singapore, Colombo, Aden, Port Said, Alexandria, Malta, and Gibraltar. Her passenger list was made up of officers, their wives, and children, and a few civilians.

Gen. Wood and the officers were cordially entertained by British Army and Navy officers, both at Malta and at Gibraltar. At Malta Gen. Wood met the Duke of Connaught, and when the McClellan reached Gibraltar the Duke had arrived there on the cruiser Aboukir. The General and his officers were the Duke's guests at a dance on the Aboukir. They were also guests at a dinner given by Gen. Forest Walker, Governor of Gibraltar.

The officers arriving were not inclined to discuss conditions in the Philippines, except to say that the outlook there was most encouraging. Among those on the McClellan were:

Chaplain and Mrs. Henry Swift, Major H. C. Hodgis, Major F. L. Falson, Capt. Sedgwick Rive, Capt. W. E. Farr, Capt. W. D. Newbill, Capt. Halsey Dorey, Capt. Charles S. Lincoln, Lieut. S. Maiza, Lieut. and Mrs. H. S. Walthall, and Mrs. and Miss McLean, wife and daughter of Commander McLean of the navy.

By far the most interesting passenger on board was seven-months-old Virginia, the daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Walthall. Little Virginia was born in the Philippines.

Dr. Francis G. Blinn Gets Two Years.

Dr. Francis Gray Blinn, who was convicted in General Sessions ten days ago of attempting to perform an illegal operation in his sanitarium at 65 West Forty-seventh Street in 1903, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Malone to not more than two years in State prison.

KILLS HORSE TO SAVE BOY.

Driver of a Fire Engine Turns Team Against Elevated Pillar.

In avoiding running down a boy crossing the street with a goat in his arms, Driver Robert Fowler of Engine Company 28, 604 East Eleventh Street, jerked the horses to one side, and one plunged into an elevated railway pillar at Eleventh Street and First Avenue yesterday afternoon. Big Ed, one of the horses, broke his leg and had to be shot by a policeman. The boy was Thomas Higgins, 16 years old, of 410 East Sixteenth Street. He was not hurt.

The fire which was responsible for the accident was in the tailoring establishment of William Soldman, on the second floor of a six-story tenement at 64 St. Mark's Place. It was extinguished with a loss of about $50.

FOOTPADS HOLD UP MATRON.

One Throttles Her While Another Robs Her of Purse and $42.

Flatbush detectives and others from the Brooklyn Central Office are hunting for two highwaymen who held up and robbed Miss Mary Dooling, matron of the Kingston Avenue Hospital, late on Wednesday night. Miss Dooling was choked by the footpads and robbed of her purse containing $42.

She was held up in Rutland Road, near Nostrand Avenue. As she alighted from a Nostrand Avenue car two men also left the car and followed her.

One of the men seized her by the throat while the other took her purse from her pocket. Miss Dooling fainted and the footpads ran away.

By W. J. LAMPTON.

Yesterday at the Polo Grounds was different from the day before, though the same Giants and the same Suburbas crossed sticks over the diamond.

They whooped it up for Donlin
With a rooter-tooter blare;
They rooted him,
They tooted him,
And boosted him for fair,
But Donlin's bat was busted
And he never did get there.

Which being translated means that yesterday wasn't Donlin's day, and if Bridwell hadn't had Lewis's bad throw home to save him even he could not have pulled the Giants out of the goose-egg nest. As it happened, Brid got in and the Giants scored their only one. There was some difference of opinion as to Wednesday's playing by the two teams, but there wasn't any on yesterday's play. The Suburbas simply put it all over the Giants from start to finish, and the Suburbas are not at their best usually after the seventh inning. They may not have been so yesterday, but, whatever they were, they were too many for the Manhattan menage, and gathered four runs as easy as falling off a log, two in the fifth and two in the ninth. The Giants got their one in the third when they were fresh.

There were ten thousand or more on the grounds to see the show, and, unlike Wednesday's audience, they saw it, but not because the management had Holmes policemen there to keep the crowd back. The crowd didn't feel like walking out in the field and taking possession—that's the only reason those who remained in their seats saw what the players were doing. There were plenty of Merry Widow hats along the upper front row, and one in particular was a width of brim and a bunch of lingerie on top, that if a hot cigarette had been dropped into it would have called for four alarms and the Chief's gasoline go-cart. All the seats on the shady side of the bleachery were full, and the opposite bleachers showed the only bare spots. The blue flag of the "Champions of the World, 1905," looked bluer after the game was over. The weather was ideal, and brought out as many hill-billies as the day before for the opening. Coogan's Bluff looked like a full hand.

The game began with Pattee of the Suburbas at the stick, Ames and Bresnahan before and behind him, and Umpire Rudderham bringing up the near rear. Mr. Rudderham, when he is togged out in his khaki mattress chest-protector, his wire-works mask, and citizen's clothes is worth fully the price of admission. He got through the game without having to do anything in self-defense. His umpirical methods are well worthy of emulation. If he doesn't see the salary he wants, he ought to ask for it. Mr. Pattee in the meantime had got out on strikes. Maloney came along next, and after one foul front, sent one back and hit Mr. Rudderham in the left a whack which caused that gentleman to yell foul so vociferously that the unsympathetic audience yelled with joy and admiration. Then Maloney went out on a small punch that got to first before he did. Burch took his base on a walk. Jordan slammed one out to Devlin at third and Dev let it run up over him as if he were a trellis with a vine growing over him. Jordan got to first easy, and Alperman came to the bat and left him there. Nit for Brooklyn.

Wilhelm and Bergen were fore and aft for Brooklyn. Shannon flied out, or flewed out, as you please, to Hummel. Tenney got first on a little one-for-a-cent, and then, amid loud and continued applause, Casey-at-the-bat Donlin appeared before the enraptured rooters, fresh in his laurels of yester'en, as it were. He bobbed up a small sizer that got him to first, but forced Tenney out at second. Seymour sent an earth scraper down the middle that got back to first ere he could reach the same haven of refuge, and he and the whole side went out. Giants and Suburbas tied.

The only events of interest in the second inning were Tenney's long-distance catch of a foul-riser by Hummel and Hummel's easy catch of a long fly from the bat of Bresnahan. It was not as hard work as Tenney's, but looked pretty. Neither side made a run which was nothing worth mentioning. The most striking occurrence of the third was one that Wilhelm got in on Bridwell's slats, sending him to first to ease his pain. Seymour's catch of a high-flier by Wilhelm was quite exhilarating in dull times. Ames did bunt, which Wilhelm dawdled over, and he got to first. The rooters applauded. The real event of the inning, however, was Bridwell's coming in on a bad throw by Lewis to the home tee. Donlin received more applause again, and Hummel received the ball he knocked out that way. One run.

The fourth was a no-run inning, and the only noticeable event was a case of misjudgment by Donlin on a fly from Jordan. Donny missed it by about ten lengths. In the fifth there was something doing for the Suburbas, and Pattee came home on a hit past short by Burch, which skimmed along out to the pasture. Maloney followed on a fumble by Cy. Seymour, and the Manhattan rooters were not uproarous in their expressions of joy unconfined. But it was two runs for the Rubes that come over in tubes, just the same.

Not a Giant got even as far as first in the fifth. The rooters were becoming restive. Jordan began the sixth by knocking a new dollar twenty-five ball to some hill-billie or other on the Bluff. At least that's where it looked to be going when last seen skinning over the grand stand roof. When a ball goes that way, it stays. Jordan went to first later on a long one to right and Alperman followed on a bunt, and a bad throw from pitch to second let Jordan get third. Alperman stole second as smoothly as if he had been a malefactor of wealth, and Jordan was run out by Bresnahan while trying to come home peaceably and quietly as a gentleman should. Devlin helped do it, and the excitement among the rooters began to rise. It looked like a real hot old time for a minute or two, but was soon over.

For the Giants Donlin crowded Tenney at second, and then stole second for himself, the naughty boy. But owing to the flewing out of Seymour to Maloney, and the little jonny-jump-up that Bresnahan gave to Bergen, the Giants didn't increase their product any.

When the lucky seventh began the entire audience began showing signs of impatience and an earnest desire to see some of the performers perform better. They snorted with excitement and shouted defiance and pounded the boards and thundered deep down, but the players kept cool. Brooklyn was ahead and the rooters didn't like the looks of things.

Bergen bunted and Ames made a rank throw over the head of Tenney. Wilhelm came along with a sacrifice bunt, but Ames gathered himself, and by a feint kept Bergen at second and put the Kaiser out at first. It was a good play and the rooters yowled with joy.

When the Giants got their turn they filled the bases with apparent ease, and all New York sat up expectant and throbbing with suppressed anticipation. But it wouldn't work. Devlin, Nicklin, and Bridwell were up to get something, and Merkle came to bat for Ames. He succeeded in forcing Devlin. Shannon came next, bases still as full as they would hold and the rooters full also, but not too full for utterance. They uttered. Shannon sent one to Wilhelm, who put it to the plate and settled Nicklin, and Bergen got it over to first to beat the batter. Double play in quick action which cast a gloom over the entire New York contingent. No runs.

The eighth saw "Dummy" Taylor in the box, and Brooklyn saw him there also, and swatted what he sent to them, but not enough to get any runs. Hummel gathered in a fly from Seymour. It seemed to be chilly when Hummel wasn't catching a fly.

Last of all came the ninth, as it always does when there are no ties around, and the rooters began to spit on their hands and get another hold for the Giants. But the Tubers had their Brooklyn up now and meant business. Alperman smiled sweetly at Taylor's offering, and whacked it a hard one over among the left bleachers, and took unto himself one home run, one box of cigars, and one pair of shoes, also considerable applause. It was the most palpable hit of the afternoon, but it didn't count for as much as Donlin's the day before. The Suburbas didn't need it as badly as the Giants did. But it made Alperman feel chesty. Hummel got started on a single to left, and made third after a bit, Lewis not getting to first, Bergen made a sacrificial bunt, and Hummel got in on a cast from pitch, which Bresnahan didn't put where it would do the most good. Anyhow, it was two runs for Brooklyn when the side went out.

Now, the rooters made great talk to their favorites, telling them what they expected them to do to save their face and redeem the glory of Manhattan. But it was of no avail. Even Hannifan, coming to the bat for Taylor, failed to lay the golden egg, and there was no Donlin in sight before the required three had yielded up their bats, and the game was closed for New York, with the same number of runs they had made in each inning save the third. Time, one hour and fifty-five minutes, to make five runs, four of them for Brooklyn and the balance for New York, which was as much as the Giants should have had. The score:

Umpire and Manager Fight.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, April 23.—There was a lively mix-up between Manager George Stallings of the Newark Club and Umpire Sullivan after the game between Newark and Buffalo this afternoon. When Sullivan went to the dressing room Stallings proceeded to tell him what he thought of his umpiring. As Sullivan had heard the same thing from the spectators many times during the game, he did not relish it and retorted. Blows followed words, Sullivan swinging with a catcher's mask and the big manager with his strong right. Before much damage was done the belligerents were separated, and the police took Sullivan to a car. Stallings refused to say anything about the affair. Sullivan said he would notify President Powers.

Women Clever on Tennis Courts.

It was splendid lawn tennis that Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston treated the fashionable gallery to in the women's doubles inter-city matches yesterday on the court of the St. Nicholas Rink. There was pressing need of fast and severe playing on her part and that of her partner, Miss Marion Fenno. The Bostonians faced the New York pair, Miss Edna Wildey and Miss Natalie Wildey. The New Yorkers played a splendid volleying and driving game, and they forced the scores to deuce right along. The sets went to deuce also, but in the end Miss Sears carried the day with her terrific overhead handling of the racquet, and the Boston pair won at 7—5 and 8—6. In the other competition the Philadelphians, the Misses Green, rather had the best of it at all times over Mrs. Barger-Wallach and Miss Margaret Busk, representing Newport, winning the match 6—4, 6—8, and 7—5.

Miss Moore Wins Tennis Tourney.

The season of indoor tennis tournaments for women has just been finished at the Seventh Regiment Armory with a victory for Miss Bessie Moore, the ex-champion. She defeated in the final round Miss Alice Fish in a well-played match by the score of 6—4, 6—4. Thirteen women competed, the others being Miss Marie Wagner, the present indoor National champion; Miss Marie Scharmann, Mrs. Eckerson, Mrs. Van Winkle, Miss Clara Kittroff, Miss Jennie Louise Colton, Miss Louise Hammond, Miss Adele Craigin, and Miss Louise Craigin.

Company D Wins Banks Trophy.

The Banks trophy, open to rifle teams of three men in the Seventy-first Regiment, was competed for last night and won by the team from Company D, which was the holder of the trophy. The victors were: Lieut. Moore, 65; Private Beardslee, 65; Private H. P. Tracy, 63. Total—193. Company K, composed of Lieut. Westerman, (62,) Private Griffith, (65,) and Private Barkelow, (59,) was second. Total—186. The maximum of perfect shots for each man was 70.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

The horse Mark Antony II., owned by Richard F. Carman and entered to sell for $800 in the first race at Aqueduct yesterday, was claimed out of the race by F. C. Frisbie, for Thomas Newton, owner of Star of Runnymede, for $1,480.

Laneman, which in the colors of G. R. Tompkins made his debut in the steeplechase field at Aqueduct yesterday, went to the race track fresh from a singularly successful career in the show ring. Laneham, now five years old, was used exclusively for show purposes, and was the winner of many blue ribbons before he was put to cross-country racing.

C. J. Fitzgerald, President of the Brighton Beach Racing Association, has accepted the office of presiding judge at the Toronto Spring meeting.

The weights for the Queens County Handicap, one mile, to be run to-morrow at Aqueduct, have been announced, with Dr. Gardner as the top weight with 126 pounds, the next highest weights being Nealon, 125, and Jack Atkin and Glorifier 124 each; and Restigouche is the top weight among the three-year-olds at 104 pounds.

HIGH PRIVATE WINS AT A LONG PRICE

Western Gelding, Backed at 20 to 1, Easily Captures Canarsie Stakes.

BLANDY BEATS PRETENSION

Belmont Cast-Off Is First in a Hotly Contested Finish — Four Favorites Defeated at Aqueduct.

Gauged by the style of his victory and the returns made in the shape of odds, the best "good thing" of recent years was sent out yesterday at the Aqueduct race track when the Kentucky horseman, F. A. Forsythe, started the green maiden two-year-old High Private in the Canarsie Stakes. The race was the feature of the day's card, and High Private, which had never before been to the post, and of which the general public knew absolutely nothing, was completely overlooked in the field of well-tried horses that he opposed.

High Private, the "good thing" from Kentucky, with Musgrave riding, was one of the outsiders in the betting from first to last, with 20 to 1 the opening price against his chances. Private knowledge of trials by High Private was in the possession of but a few persons, the few including a racegoing group of Tammany men, who not only backed the Kentucky gelding at 20 to 1, but also spread the tip about with such generosity that High Private went to the post at 12 to 1. The race was so one-sided that it really was hardly a contest. High Private broke well and showed in front in the first strides, attended by Fitz Herbert. Together the two raced out in the lead, High Private galloping well in hand all the way, and at the end of the first quarter of a mile having Fitz Herbert straightened out and under pressure. Beginning the last quarter, the Kentucky horse slipped away from Fitz Herbert with ease, and leaving him further behind at every stride, galloped in, winner by half a dozen lengths, while Fitz Herbert beat Uncle Jim, another long-chance horse, four lengths for second place.

The summaries:

SADDLE HORSES OF CLASS.

Fine Exhibition on Closing Night of Durland Company's Show.

An extra good assortment of saddle horses was the principal attraction at the closing night's show of the Durland Company in Sixty-sixth Street last night. A new bidder for fame in the tanbark ring was Mrs. W. S. Elliott, whose four-year-old bay mare Daphne was returned the winner in the class for horses under 15.2 hands, and then duplicated her victory in the novice class by defeating such horses as Primrose of the Pine Point Farm, Verona De Cordova's Bass, and Philip Livingston's King Carnival. Daphne's first blue ribbon was over a fine field of entries, including Miss Emily H. Bedford's Miss Ann, a trotting bred mare of much speed; Harvey S. Ladew's Reliance, a handsome chestnut mare admirably handled by Mrs. Von Klein, and Primrose, ridden by Mrs. W. C. Bain. Miss Bedford made amends for her defeat with Miss Ann by carrying off the honors amid much enthusiasm with John Randolph in the saddle class. A heavyweight saddle class brought out eleven fine looking animals, C. L. Railey's Milton finally getting the verdict over W. A. McGibbon's On Time.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., April 23.—The American local leaguers knocked Newton off the rubber in one inning to-day, but Manning, who took his place, held the Philadelphians to two hits for eight innings, and New York won by 5 to 3. New York tied the score in the third inning and drove Dygert off the rubber, while they made their few hits off Carter at the most opportune moments. The score:

FENCERS HOLD TRIAL BOUTS.

Good Competitions in Championships at New York A. C.

Fencers from all the clubs fostering the sport in the East, and many from the West as well, participated in the National championships held last night in the gymnasium of the New York Athletic Club at Central Park South. The foil contests were the first ones called, and were decided in two classes, nine competitors in all having entered, representing clubs in New York, Philadelphia, and Chicago. The men were divided into two squads, and fought out the qualifying round in that way. In one class, V. P. Curti, the New York Athletic Club expert, took all the bouts, while A. G. Fox of the Chicago Athletic Association succumbed only to Curti, both the men entering the final round. Walbout of the Chicago Athletic Association, the former National champion, failed to appear to defend his title, and at this early stage of the competitions Curti appeared to be the logical favorite for the championship honors.

In the second class five men competed, necessitating four bouts for each. The result of this was a triple tie, between McCullagh and Bowman of the New York Athletic Club and Breed of the Fencers' Club of New York. These three were brought together in a semi-final round to decide which two should enter the final round for the class. The three came together, but the result after one complete round left a tie still to be decided, each having a victory to his credit. Breed defeated McCullagh and lost to Bowman, who in turn was defeated by McCullagh. By a decision of the committee governing the competitions, the three men will be allowed to compete in the final bouts, which will be held at the club to-night.

HERRESHOFF'S SCORE LOW.

New Yorker Captures First Prize in Qualification Round of Golf.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 23.—Fred Herreshoff of New York to-day easily captured the low-score prize in the annual Spring golf tourney of the Country Club of Lakewood in the thirty-six-hole qualifying round. He was six strokes better than W. H. Davis of Lakewood, Howard Whitney of Nassau being third, ten strokes higher than Herreshoff. Findlay Douglas, ex-National champion, was eighth in the field of sixty-seven starters, all but one of whom finished.

A collegiate atmosphere was given by the presence of half a dozen Princeton and University of Pennsylvania players. The Tigers, as last year, were down only for the team match, which they again won by 688 strokes, against 709 last year. Their hair's breadth victory was due to W. T. West's card, Garden City being second at 689. Nassau ended 695, Lakewood 708, and Wykagyl 728. Four sets begin match play to-morrow. The pairings and scores in first division:

E. L. De Forest, Lakewood, 167; W. E. Conklyn, Wykagyl, 172; W. H. Davis, Lakewood, 162; P. A. Fogarty, Midland, 175; W. G. Pfeil, University of Pennsylvania, 166; S. K. De Forest, Lakewood, 174; Fred Herreshoff, Garden City, 156; H. F. Whitney, Nassau, 166; Jasper Lynch, Lakewood, 174; C. A. Spofford, Garden City, 175; H. M. Forrest, Philadelphia, 168; Findlay Douglas, Nassau, 169; L. A. Hamilton, Englewood, 169; Fritz Byers, Pittsburg, 174; J. G. Batterson, Lakewood, 168; F. C. Jennings, Nassau, 170.

Sanford All Around Champion.

R. L. Sanford, the old Knickerbocker Athletic Club runner, won the all-around championship of the Central Branch of the Y. M. C. A. of Brooklyn in the gymnasium of the branch, 502 Fulton Street, last night. There were twenty competitors for the honor, but the five highest point winners were R. L. Sanford, 1,287; F. Friedman, 1,191 2-3; R. T. Solari, 1,181; B. W. King, 1,160¾, and F. Chisholm, 1,149¾. It was one of the most satisfactory competitions ever held under the auspices of the Central Branch.

Curtis High School Shooters Win.

The rifle shooters of De Witt Clinton High School of New York got quite a setback at the hands of the Curtis High School students of Staten Island at the latter's ranges yesterday, the youngsters of Staten Island not only emerging from the competition victors, but they over-topped the De Witt Clinton boys' record with the sub-target gun of 242 by one point. With their second team, however, the New Yorkers defeated a like team from Curtis by nine points, and made a new record for second teams.

GOMPERS, BRYAN, AND LOW ON LABOR.

Mr. Bryan is proud to be called a demagogue, because a demagogue is a "man who dares listen to the heartbeat of humanity." Also he is for organized labor, because organized labor is fighting the battle of all labor. This is poaching on Mr. Gompers's preserves. No one hears labor's heartbeats so clearly as Mr. Gompers, who only the other day remarked in the hearing of newspaper reporters that "you cannot take labor from the man or from the woman without taking the man or the woman and disposing of him or her. You cannot differentiate labor from the human, living, breathing man. You cannot differentiate or divide it from the flesh and blood and mind and soul of the human, living, breathing man." That is the reason why you can regulate trusts without hurting capital, but cannot regulate labor without involving the essentials of liberty.

Singular as it may seem, that is just where Mr. Gompers parts company with his excellent friend Seth Low. Mr. Low agrees with Mr. Gompers regarding the right of labor to dispose of itself, and to be free in such disposal, but he differs regarding Mr. Gompers's claim on behalf of labor to dispose of other labor than its own. Mr. Low thinks he went to the limit to safeguard labor's right to combine, to strike, to make trade agreements with employers. But he failed to hear the heartthrobs which require that labor shall have license to boycott and blacklist. In other words, Mr. Low approves Mr. Gompers's advocacy of "voluntary association of workers for mutual benefit and assistance" as something not rightly to be outlawed, but fails to follow out the argument to include such heartless control of labor as unions exercise over labor to an extent which capitalists never venture upon.

Concrete illustration is given by the Danbury hatters' case. The capitalists who were upheld by the Supreme Court were employers in a small way, and had no quarrel with their help. The only dispute was with those who left their jobs. They undertook to say that nobody in the world should fill their places. And they ordered that nobody should buy what was made upon contracts of hire and service which were satisfactory to both parties to the contract. The capitalist "combine" dictated nothing, and left the strikers as free as air to dispose of their services to whom they would, and on any terms. There was no application to the court to dissolve the union, or to impede its benevolent activities. Indeed such a thing was never heard of in any case. The only demand was that the union should pay the damages it had caused. Who really stood for liberty—the capitalists or the union? Is it not absurd to say that organized labor represents all labor in such a case?

A GRATUITOUS BILL.

What Gov. Hughes will do with the Five-cent Fare bill, just passed by the Legislature, and designed to lower the ten-cent rate of fare charged its patrons by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company for the trip from Manhattan to Coney Island, need not be a matter for public or private anxiety. In his message last June vetoing the bill to establish a flat passenger rate of 2 cents a mile on all railroad systems of New York exceeding 150 miles in length, the Governor declared that "there is a better way," a way "already pointed out in the legislation of this State." He continued:

> Where a matter requires investigation in order that a just result may be reached, the obvious course is to create a body which can investigate, with expert assistance, as summarily as possible, and which shall have adequate power to make appropriate orders. Such a body has been created in this State through the Public Service Commissions law, recently enacted.

It may be said for the Five-cent Fare bill that it concedes jurisdiction to the Public Service Board. It commands that a railroad company operating within city limits shall obtain the written consent of that body if it would maintain for one continuous trip after June 1, next, a fare of more than five cents. But if the Public Service Commission of this city deems that it can, without confiscating the company's property, order a maximum fare of 5 cents upon the Brooklyn Rapid Transit lines, it is already empowered to promulgate such order upon a filed complaint and after due investigation. It can compel the company to produce books and papers, and to show cause why its rates should be accounted just and reasonable.

On the passage of the Five-cent Fare bill, therefore, no other interpretation can be put than that it is the result of popular clamor, and that the bill is intended to affect the judgment of a regularly empowered Commission in a case where the exercise of reason, not of passion, is urgently demanded. Should that intention be carried out the result would be disastrous. Pending the company's proper appeal to the courts, scenes of riot and bloodshed would be enacted similar to those of the Summer of 1906, when the injudicious "obiter" of a Judge imbued the public with the belief that the company's exactions were illegal. The bill now prepared for Gov. Hughes's signature cannot but be mischievous in operation, and, at best, it is an officious and gratuitous enactment.

THE LEGISLATURE.

The State Legislature ends its session in a deadlock with the Governor. The legislative branch has passed some good bills that it knew Gov. Hughes and the people would approve, it has refused to pass certain measures the Governor has specially urged, and it has refrained from passing or from introducing a multitude of special bills of which it was well assured beforehand that he would withhold his approval. As a net result the State will benefit by the reform of the highway laws, of the fish and game laws, and of the military laws, all of which have been systematized; by the passage of the Anti-Tuberculosis bill, the Investigation of Aliens act, and the State Banking bills; while New York City, in particular, gains by the enactment of the Robinson bill, again making possible subway construction by private bidders, stopped by the Elsberg act, which the congestion of travel requires.

The appropriation to investigate this city's financial condition was not needed, since the Bureau of Municipal Research has proved a more efficient instrument for this purpose than any legislative commission, with $10,000 granted for expenses, could hope to be. Because of the scarcity of police the Three-Platoon measure ought to be vetoed, as should also the Coney Island Fare bill, passed because it was popular and with the expectation that the Governor might be a little discredited in condemning it. Probably because the Governor would have vetoed them anyhow, the Teachers' Pension and Salary bills, three bad tenement house bills, a measure permitting power companies to condemn property, and a "fake" ballot reform bill were defeated. Gov. Hughes's urgent recommendations for the passage of an adequate measure of ballot reform, for the removal of Kelsey, and for the Race-Track Anti-Gambling bills were successively derided and defied, while the Legislature betrayed its contempt of the Executive by the unseemly behavior of the Assembly upon adjournment.

To the committee of both branches that waited upon him after adjournment the Governor, in words that, his veto power considered, summed up accurately the work of the present session, while they foreshadowed the work of the coming special session, said: "I congratulate your honorable body upon the measures of value passed, and I regret that other measures which are of great importance to the people of the State have failed of passage."

MISSIONARIES.

It is not without significance that on successive days two statesmen so eminent as Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryce should be discussing the work of missionaries in non-Christian lands in the same spirit, and that spirit favorable to the missionaries and severely critical of the classes among whom the missionaries are most often decried. Both these gentlemen, it must be remembered, have in the course of their work in public life had to deal with the countries to which missions are sent, and to deal with them in a responsible manner. Mr. Bryce has been a member of the British Parliament and of the British Government. He has also been extensively a traveler and he has been a careful student of the affairs of the British Oriental possessions and dependencies. Mr. Taft has had to concern himself with the Philippines and their varied tribes of natives, some Mohammedan, some pagan, and some Christian, and has had to study the general Oriental question. Both agree that the missionaries have, as a class, been faithful, pure, disinterested, and truly benevolent.

Both agree in substance that it is the non-religious and irreligious among the Occidentals who have been directly or indirectly responsible for the hostility that has been developed against the Christians. This has come about largely through the covetousness, the cruelty, the unscrupulousness of the foreigners having to do with a weaker and, therefore, with a more or less despised race. And both urge the duty, which seems plain enough in the light of mere morality, resting upon the so-called civilized Governments to control and restrain, as far as possible, their own people in their intercourse with the natives. Happily this now is the spirit of Occidental Governments, our own and those of Europe, far more than it was even a generation since. The practical application of this spirit is at all times difficult. Has not Mr. Taft discovered that the most un-Christian motives he has had to contend with in seeking justice for the Filipinos prevail in the breasts of the beet sugar planters of the West and of the tobacco growers of the Connecticut Valley? And the British Government has had like experiences in connection with its attempts to control the opium traffic. But it is to be noted, on the other hand, that Messrs. Taft and Bryce are actually assuming the rôle of missionaries to their own people, and are preaching the gospel of doing unto others as we would have others do unto us.

PATTI'S FAREWELL TOUR.

We regret to note in the comments of some of our contemporaries a flippant or ironical tone touching the announcements of a farewell tour of Mme. Adelina Patti. The obvious point is that the great singer has already made many farewell tours. Yet there is nothing more difficult to obtain, through the exercise of genuine gifts of nature cultivated by art, than a world-wide reputation, and there is generally nothing more fleeting.

The very names of distinguished musical artists who flourished and received public homage in various stages of Mme. Patti's prime were long since forgotten. We have no doubt that each of her farewell tours was undertaken with sincere purpose. She was looking forward, at the outset of each, to the comfortable oblivion of private life. But the magic of her name has defied time, succeeding generations have called her great, and her reputation has been, thus far, imperishable.

As the world wags, this is so unusual that ironical comment falls flat. There were folks who said in the eighth decade of the last century that they had heard Patti's wonderful voice at its best, and did not want to destroy the remembrance of it by hearing her sing again. There were others who said the same thing in the ninth decade. In the tenth a new race of adulators made her farewell tours profitable. We hope she may make another farewell tour, and still another. Why not?

She is still Patti and her reputation endures. She has never overtaxed her voice, but she has never ceased to sing. The accustomed nightingale on the accustomed bough has not been mute. To hear her now will still be to hear Patti, and as for the old grumblers who will say she is not what she was, we must remember that they say that always of almost everything.

THE MOTOR CAR RACE.

On the eve of the Briarcliff race it must be admitted that interest in the result is somewhat marred by a general feeling of apprehension. The course is as safe, probably, as any that could be laid out over the country roads in the neighborhood of New York. A specially constructed automobile track of the shape and extent of that opened last Summer near Weybridge, in England, would be safer for the drivers, of course. Plans for the construction of such a track are in the air, and it is likely that the automobile racing of the future, in this neighborhood, will be conducted under better conditions.

Possibly the outcome of to-day's race may hasten the building of the track. But there is no doubt of the thoroughness of all the preliminary work, and the care and precaution taken to avoid disaster. The course will be patrolled and guarded by 1,000 men, all National Guardsmen, by the way, though they do not attend to this sort of work in their official capacity. This precaution should prevent injury to any human being not actually concerned in the race, while to the contestants it will insure a clear course.

Great crowds of spectators will assemble in the night all along the course. This fact might be taken to indicate a large and growing interest in the speeding of motor cars. Yet some of the most expert observers of the development of automobiling are inclined to believe that the actual interest in racing is bound to diminish. The self-moving car represents much more, now, than occasional trials at the limit of speed. In the character and quality of the contestants, as to both cars and drivers, to-day's race is one of extraordinary promise. While it lasts there is no doubt that the enthusiasm of the spectators will be at fever heat. We may reasonably hope that the drivers will all profit by the experience gained in the trials, and the race will be finished without any serious accidents. There are only a few danger points on the course, and their perils are well known by this time.

The public will watch with peculiar interest the effort to deliver forth from Matteawan an insane man, who has already killed one victim, and whose insanity is of that incurable type that would almost certainly prompt him to the commission of other and further homicides should he get out. This is a matter that concerns not alone the family and its lawyers, but the community.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Lesson in Journalism.

Addressing auditors who know, if not everything about the conduct of newspapers, at least all that experience has yet taught on that subject, Mr. Bryan, whose successes and failures have been in other fields, gave his kind approval of the tendency he—and some besides—has seen in the American press toward political independence. His praise was tempered, however, by criticism, and he had a suggestion to make which he evidently considered of importance.

Admitting the superiority of the non-partisan over the partisan paper, Mr. Bryan yet had noticed that the independent paper was rarely or never impartial as between two parties, and that before election day it was almost invariably found devoting all its energies and arguments to the support of one side and the undoing of the other. And that fact—it is a fact, curiously enough—Mr. Bryan considers inconsistent with professions of political independence! Evidently he regards independence and neutrality as the same thing—an assumption as naïve and as far from the truth as any we have come across since the days when Mr. Bryan was making silver speeches and attempting to teach finance to financiers, as he is now endeavoring to teach journalism to journalists.

Of course there are conditions in which independence and neutrality may coincide, but the coincidence is never necessary or essential, and it can exist only as a result of complete disinterestedness in the settlement of the questions at issue. Now, the American newspaper cannot be without interest in the political questions of the day; it must have an opinion as to their proper settlement if its editor has intelligence enough to form one, and it is the paper's duty as well as privilege to make its opinion as influential as possible—which sometimes is saying a good deal, and more often is saying very little.

Developing further his queer idea of political independence, Mr. Bryan announced that the time had come for trying the experiment of running a double-barreled paper, as it were—a paper in which one man, a convinced Democrat, should plead in signed editorial articles the cause of his party to the best of his ability, while in adjoining columns a fervent Republican should do the same thing for the other party. So, day by day, the people would hear both sides, and all would be well! This pretty plan, we believe, has already been briefly tried once or twice by newspaper proprietors whose noblest and highest ambition was to "catch 'em coming and going," and to increase profits at the expense of principle, but the scheme never attained even its lowest ends, and by no possibility could such a paper have any more influence than responsibility.

The editorial article, when signed, becomes the mere expression of one man's views; unsigned, it is a very different and weightier matter. Personal journalism has had its day—a day that Mr. Bryan will never bring back—most fortunately, as it seems to us.

Controversy on the Water Front.

Whether or not the pier-head lines should be extended further out into the North River is a question with many complexities and the answers to it now offered depend on whether those presenting them regard the river as a place on which to make voyages or as a mere terminal of voyages. The former, that is, those interested in what are distinctively river craft, want all the room they can get for their sort of navigation; they think the piers already too long and vehemently oppose propositions to extend them. On the other hand, the ocean steamer folk and all others who trade on the deep water are eager for increased and improved docking facilities, and to get them would favor any extension of the piers that would not prevent slow approach to and departure from them.

Nobody says there should be no piers and nobody that they should close the river; opinions differ only as to where the line of the golden mean should be drawn. It is, therefore, a case for careful compromise, and the city is deeply concerned in the adjustment of the conflicting demands. It wants both the river men and the ocean men to prosper, for upon that depends in large measure its own prosperity.

Fortunately, this part of the Hudson is an extremely staid and equable stream, big enough to ignore the little floods that pour into it up the State, and nothing now in contemplation threatens seriously to interfere with its flow to the extent of inundating our streets. The wind gives us a high tide, occasionally, to the troubling of a few water-front cellars, but we need fear nothing worse in that direction, even though the piers stretch much further than they do now. Already whole blocks of solid land have been built out into the river all around the lower part of the island, and the only result has been a slight increase in the speed of the inward and outward current. That is an inconvenience that must be considered, but it falls chiefly on the big vessels, and it is their owners that are demanding the longer piers. From present indications we are going to get rid of most of the ferry-boats in time, and, with them out of the way, there will be more room for the evolutions of the real steamships, even if the piers are lengthened.

Mysterious, But Not Insoluble.

According to the dispatches from San Francisco there is no clue to the identity of the person or persons who on Wednesday night blew up with dynamite the house of ex-Supervisor Gallagher. A real Sherlock Holmes, now, might think he had something of a clue in the fact that Mr. Gallagher, who was Chairman of the boodle board's Finance Committee, has confessed taking bribes, to the serious implication in his crimes of many of the local statesmen and gentry, and that he is expected to be an important witness at the trial of the notabilities now under indictment.

The—or a—motive for the dynamiting is therefore not far to seek, and, this supplied, the detective of real genius would consider his work half done. Of course, he wouldn't know exactly who placed the bomb and touched it off, but he would be able to draw a narrow circle, in San Francisco's population, within which he would look for the men who were interested in having Gallagher put out of the way, and who therefore could fairly be suspected of having had some relation with the evil job.

The actual perpetrator of the crime was probably a person of slight importance—a hired man, who would be more useful as a tool than as a victim of justice. The criminals of San Francisco seem to be a voluble lot when delicately approached—with an offer of immunity, say—and there would appear to be no insuperable obstacles in the way of finding out who it was that tried to accelerate Mr. Gallagher's departure for his destined abiding place.

West Not "Laced Up the Back."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If J. B. Fish and his friend know so little about the United States as to imagine that a trolley car trip from New York to San Francisco is possible, I should advise them to devote their vacation to some steam railroad traveling.

Take a train to Denver, then strike out as fancy may dictate, bearing westward. They will find regions vastly beyond any tame, commonplace suburban trolleyized district, in real interest—immense stretches of plain and desert and mountain, where a trolley car line of average length would not have six passengers a week if it hauled the whole population.

My advice to all Western people has always been: "See New York." I think many New Yorkers would be greatly benefited and usefully informed by seeing some of the rest of the country. Take a plunge—not a timid, hesitating little dash—into Pennsylvania. Take a stage coach trip across Idaho and see how the Alps grow petty by comparison. It will be like a trip to another world to any one who imagines the United States is laced up the back with trolley lines. W. C. T.

MR. LAMPTON'S NEW ROLE.

Enthusiastic Admiration of His Work as a Baseball Reporter.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Times does everything well, and I have read it daily for forty-one years. During all those years I have been a baseball lunatic, and I am hungry to tell you that nothing in the line of baseball reporting has caught my fancy like the very witty work of Mr. Lampton. I only hope that William will not "yump his yob," and that your readers can enjoy him all the season. HIRAM WARD.

OLD BASEBALL NINES.

Reminiscences of the Buckeyes and Cincinnati Red Stockings.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your editorial reference to the death of Mr. Chadwick you state that the first professional baseball club was the Cincinnati Red Stockings, organized in 1868. You are in error. The Cincinnati Club, usually named Red Stockings, was organized in 1866. The only approach to a professional player during that and the following season was Harry Wright, and he was the professional coach of the Union Cricket Club of Cincinnati. The Cincinnatis were not only not the first professional nine, but not even the first in Cincinnati.

There were many professional clubs in the East at that time. In 1867 the Nationals of Washington (professionals) made a tour of the West, and overwhelmed every club they encountered except the Rockford (Ill.) nine, which contained players like Spalding, Barnes, and Hastings. There was great rivalry in Cincinnati between the Cincinnati Club and the Buckeyes. Among members of the former were Bellamy Storer and John R. McLean, and of the latter Judson Harmon.

In 1868 the Buckeyes organized the first professional nine complete the West had seen. Their pitcher was Fisher, catcher Dockney, basemen Sweasy, Leonard, and Gould; nearly all were imported from the East. The Cincinnati Club imported three players that season—Hatfield, Brainard, and Waterman—making, with Harry Wright, four "profesh." The contest between the rivals excited great local interest, and drew a record crowd. Hatfield was accused of "throwing" his club, and was not allowed to play, his place being taken by a local who did surprisingly well, both at bat and in the field. John Hatfield at the time was accounted at the very head of all players, his only rival for supremacy being George Wright, Harry's brother. Hatfield also made the longest throw on record on the Cincinnati field that season, about 400 feet. This has never been equaled, I believe. Crippled as they were, the "Reds" won the game and the series. That was the finish of the Buckeye Club. The next season (1869) Cincinnati organized its famous professional nine, nearly all from their own and the Buckeye nines. The players were captained by Harry Wright, and consisted, besides himself, of George Wright, Sweasy, Brainard, Gould, Leonard, Waterman, McVey, and Allison. Brainard was pitcher, occasionally relieved by Harry Wright, and Allison caught every game of the season.

I was one of thirteen who organized the Cincinnati Club in 1866, so this may be accepted as semi-official. Before the first club was organized professionally in the West there were clubs like the Atlantics, Unions, Mutuals, and Eckfords here; Irvingtons in New Jersey, the Haymakers in Troy, Nationals and Olympics in Washington, and the Athletics in Philadelphia. The Cincinnati nine never was defeated in 1869, but was tied in a game by the Rockfords. HASBEEN.

As to Patient Griseldas.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to me that the modern man demands a Griselda. Not the heroine of Petrarch and Boccaccio, nor old Chaucer's "flour of wifly pacience," but a Polynesian Griselda of the type discovered by my friend, the missionary, the Rev. Doolittle Dumpkins, Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions.

Her husband, being but an uneducated savage, merely took his own way with her without any view to advancing her higher moral interests and teaching her to be a good wife; thus her womanly affections, her love and her jealousy, were not experimented upon, and her time of trial was short—an hour or two against Griselda's twelve years of contented endurance. In an era of "unparalleled prosperity" her better half announced to her his intention of eating her. And when she had given one quick, appealing glance at him she knew he was in earnest.

"Do as thou wilt," she said simply. And then, while her husband busied himself in getting ready the oven outside the house, she sat still indoors and composed a poem.

Now, that true-hearted wife knew her duty and would invoke no aid against her husband. She had

"The laws of marriage charactered in gold

and the will of the natural arbiter of her destiny sufficed her.

Still, it must be owned that here she seems to fall short of a New Yorker's ideal of a perfect Griselda.

His Griselda would have got ready the oven herself.

One is tempted to point from this a moral against literary occupations for women, since even the Rev. Doolittle Dumpkins's Griselda could be drawn away by them from her housewifely duties. WALTER BEVERLEY CRANE.

The Gold Unit.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Referring to the communication of William T. Ames in to-day's issue of your paper in which he says "gold regulates the price of everything—what regulates the price of gold?" I would say: If he admits that gold regulates the price of everything, he must admit that gold, or, properly speaking, the ounce or pound of gold is the unit or standard of value, and being the standard can only be regulated by itself.

There is a standard of weight and a standard of measure; he might as well ask what regulates the weight of the pound avordupois or what regulates the measure of the foot or yard of measure. Once a standard is acknowledged, be it of value, weight, or measure, such standard can only be measured by itself.

Take the value of the pound sterling in United States money. It is found by dividing the grains of pure gold contained in the gold pound sterling, viz.: 113.001 grains by the grains of pure gold contained in the United States gold dollar, viz.: 23.22 grains, the quotient being the value in United States gold coin of the English gold pound sterling.

It is a great pity that the United States does not repeal the Legal Tender act and make the ounce or pound of gold the unit of value, recognized as it is by the whole commercial world. FRANCIS GOTTSBERGER.

Mischief in Comic Pictures.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A small boy of my acquaintance became highly interested not long ago in the adventures of a naughty youth, presented in the comic supplement of a well-known newspaper. The youth in the newspaper shampooed his sister's hair, and anointed the poodle with a mixture of ink, glue, and the family hair tonic, leaving the remainder of the compound in the bottle for the use of his father and mother. The results as pictorially set forth were so intensely amusing that the small observer immediately took steps to repeat them in real life. Much mischief is suggested in such ways as this, and the suggestions come from artists who have little sympathy with children.

Employment Up State.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have noticed the growing lists of the unemployed in the city, while at this place you could not hire a laborer for love or money, and plenty of work to do. I have no doubt there are lots of places so situated. There should be a bureau or commission to distribute the laborers to places where wanted and relieve the city—that is, if the talk is not all buncombe. J. H. MARTIN.

BARGAINS IN OLD TEXTILES.

Rare Antique Tapestries Bring Low Prices at Vitali Benguiat Sale.

The sale of the Vitali Benguiat collection of antique textiles, Gothic and Renaissance laces, fine old tapestries, &c., began yesterday afternoon at the American Art Galleries. The first 250 pieces were disposed of at low prices, the total for the afternoon's sale being $6,028.50.

One of the highest prices of the day was paid by Mrs. John E. Parsons for a pair of beautiful portières of Genoese jardinière cut and uncut velvet, with a floral design in medallions, characteristic of the Louis XIII. period, which brought $100 each. George Crocker paid $105 for an ecclesiastical banner of French convent needlework of the Louis Quatorze period, done in gold and silver bullion.

A Flanders tapestry, showing a monarch in flowing robes in the foreground and the City and Colossus of Rhodes in the background, a signed piece, went to James Parmelee for $135. R. J. Collier bought, among other purchases, a pair of royal brocade curtains, silk lined, of the Louis XVI. period, for $210; a Portuguese Renaissance portière of a rare shade of pink velvet, for $105; two Spanish Renaissance embroidered cloth of gold portières for $105 each, and a valance to match for $40.

Mrs. C. B. Alexander made many purchases, buying among them a French rococo sofa panel, cream satin embroidered and edged with gold lace, for $25, and a Spanish Renaissance lace border for $20. Mrs. Arthur Scribner, Erskine Hewitt, Alexander Morton, W. A. W. Stewart, and C. S. Crocker were other buyers. Edson Bradley paid $75 for a Hispano-Moresque velvet portière done in heavy gold passementerie embroidery.

Speaking of the rarity of the old embroideries and tapestries, one of yesterday's purchasers, who has recently returned from abroad, said:

"It is not a question of what one would have to pay for these things on the other side; they cannot be found there now. They have been gathered up and brought to America."

One large purchaser said he would have been satisfied to have paid as much for one article as he had paid for all he bought yesterday.

The sale continues this afternoon and to-morrow.

Tavshanjian's Rugs Bring $41,213.

The finest lot of the Tavshanjian collection of rugs will be sold to-day at the Fifth Avenue Art Galleries. The returns yesterday were $24,455, making, with the sales of the day before, a total for the two days of $41,213. A Meshed carpet went to P. Collier for $770, another to A. B. Stillwell for $980. M. Blackmar of the Hotel Renaissance paid $850 for a Persian silk palace carpet. The sale will be concluded Saturday afternoon.

DE PACHMANN'S ENCORES.

Pianist Will Give All That Are Demanded at Hebrew Charities Benefit.

Vladimir de Pachmann, the pianist, who long ago was dubbed the "Chopinzee," because he makes faces and talks to his audiences at his Chopin recitals, has issued a novel challenge to take effect when he plays at the benefit of the United Hebrew Charities next Sunday evening at the Metropolitan Opera House. He has agreed to give as many encores at the close of the programme as the audience demands.

"I'll have it out with the encore fiends Sunday night," he said yesterday. "At the close of the programme I shall announce that I am ready to give as many encores as I am requested to, and we shall see who will get tired first, the audience or I."

Mme. Gadski, Maud Powell, violinist; May Mukle, 'cellist; Estelle Liebling, soprano, and Mabel Taliaferro and her company will also appear at this benefit.

ROOF GARDEN BETWEEN ACTS.

Popular Opera Throws in a Little Vaudeville All for One Price.

It is announced by the Italian Opera Company that during its season at the American Theatre, opening May 4, an arrangement has been made by which patrons of the opera will be admitted to the roof garden between acts. It will thus be possible to sandwich a vaudeville act between each two acts of opera.

The répertoire for the first week of the company is: Monday and Saturday nights, "Aïda"; Tuesday night and Saturday afternoon, "Lucia"; Wednesday night, "Il Trovatore"; Thursday night, "Rigoletto"; Friday night, "Faust." "Traviata" will be sung on Wednesday afternoon at special matinée prices.

SALOME DELIGHTED HER.

Clara Louise Kellogg Thinks Mary Garden Will Make a Success.

Clara Louise Kellogg, once famous as an operatic soprano, arrived in New York yesterday on the Cunard liner Slavonia. She is now Mrs. Carl Strakosch, and was accompanied by her husband. Mrs. Strakosch spoke to the reporters on the pier of "Salome," which she had heard in Rome.

"I learned this morning," she said, "that Oscar Hammerstein is to present the opera here again next year. Gemma Bellincioni was the singer I heard in the Rome production. I was so delighted that I went five times. There is much in the book that might be regarded as morally objectionable, but the music makes one oblivious of this. And Mme. Bellincioni was wonderful in the part. I should think that Miss Garden would be successful in it."

What John Jay Would Have Thought.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is rather sad, to one who remembers the ancestry of Col. Jay, to notice in your quotations of his remarks in yesterday morning's Times the attitude which he takes toward Gov. Hughes's efforts to uphold the Constitution and the law of the State of New York. The writer doubts if his famous grandfather, Judge Jay, would have agreed with him in considering Gov. Hughes's opposition to race-track betting, and his valiant effort to uphold the law, as "narrow and bigoted." AN OLD NEW YORKER.

THE EVENING STARS.

JUPITER TO VENUS.

O, Fair and Sweet! How far across the sky
Trail the wan pennons of the dying Sun!
Soon they will fade—yea, soon—and thou and I
In the deserted vastness reign alone.

For a brief space, or ere the attending hosts
Follow, quick gathering in the purple mist,
Thou and I only, from Heaven's utmost coasts,
Serene and splendid, keep majestic tryst.

The god and goddess of a cosmic story,
One moment is our own, and then the curse!
O Fair! O Sweet! Would from our dual glory
We could shut out the intruding universe!

SIRIUS SPEAKS.

Wonder if They know that I
Linger near Them in the sky?
They would think of me, I'll wager,
Simply as a Canis Major—
Just a stellar watchdog keeping
Guard upon Their lovers' meeting;
So the Others may not spy,
I'm permitted in Their sky!
They don't know that I've awaited
Little Procyon belated;
Very sorry to intrude
On Their lovers' solitude!
Sorry They intrude on mine,
Just as pleasant, though canine,
(And, I venture, as divine!)
What a Götterdämmerung
I have broken in upon!

MR. CLEVELAND ILL, BUT NOT IN DANGER

Suffering from Both Indigestion and Gout at the Lakewood Hotel.

WIFE ISSUES A BULLETIN

Dr. Bryant in Daily Attendance on the ex-President, Who Rarely Leaves His Bed.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 23.—The facts about the illness of Grover Cleveland came out to-day, when Mrs. Cleveland issued a statement concerning the state of her husband's health. Although Mr. Cleveland has been reported as dangerously ill, it is now believed that he is in no immediate danger, although under the care of a physician and a trained nurse.

Mrs. Cleveland, in response to an inquiry, sent out the following statement:

"Mr. Cleveland is getting along nicely. There is no occasion for alarm. I may issue a statement to The Associated Press to-morrow."

It was learned at the Lakewood Hotel, where Mr. Cleveland has been ill since March 16, that the former President is suffering from a stomach disorder and rheumatic gout, and that he has been troubled with both for several months. James N. Barry, manager of the hotel, said that Mr. Cleveland was improving and will be able to return to Princeton in a short time. He said that Mrs. Cleveland gave most of her time to her husband, but goes to Princeton now and then to see her children.

"Mr. Cleveland, who came here for rest and quiet among the pines, decided to remain a few days longer, and we will keep the necessary force of servants here until he leaves for Princeton, which may be to-morrow or may not be for a week," said Mr. Barry." "There are a few guests remaining, although the house is closed to newcomers.

"Mr. Cleveland occupies a suite of rooms which face the east, where he can get the morning sun. There is nothing alarming in his condition at present. His physician, Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York, visits him at intervals, and was here yesterday. He returned to New York this morning. He may see Mr. Cleveland to-morrow, but at present there is no physician with the patient."

Owing to the secrecy maintained concerning Mr. Cleveland's condition prior to to-day, the ex-President's friends had thought that he was in a serious condition.

When Mr. Cleveland came here on March 16 he was accompanied by his wife and children. Two days after his arrival the ex-President celebrated his seventy-first birthday. His children then returned to the home at Princeton, and have been there ever since.

About two weeks ago Mr. Cleveland is said to have had a sinking spell, but is supposed to have rallied.

The Lakewood Hotel was closed to new arrivals on Tuesday. No one is admitted to see Mr. Cleveland and visitors are denied admittance even to the hotel.

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of 32 West Forty-eighth Street, a close personal friend of ex-President Cleveland, is in attendance upon the invalid. He usually goes to Lakewood in the morning and remains until afternoon. Sometimes he spends the night there. It was upon his advice that Mr. Cleveland remained at the Lakewood Hoetl when the hostelry was closed last Tuesday.

This fact, coupled with the fact that Mrs. Cleveland owns a comfortable cottage at Lakewood near the Lakewood Hotel, known as the "Little White House," but that her husband was not removed to it on Tuesday when the other guests at the Lakewood Hotel departed, leads Mr. Cleveland's friends to believe that he is in a more serious condition than the reports from the sick room indicate.

While refusing to discuss the condition of his patient, Dr. Bryant gave out the following statement for publication yesterday:

"Mr. Cleveland is recovering from an attack of his old trouble, hence his continued stay at the Lakewood Hotel; and an excellent place it is for restoration."

Dr. Bryant was in Lakewood yesterday morning. He said that the "old trouble" referred to in his statement was indigestion, from which Mr. Cleveland has been a sufferer for several years. Dr. Bryant denied the report from Lakewood that guards were on duty about the hotel keeping every one away from the hostelry for fear they might annoy the sick man. He said the story was ridiculous. He also denied that Mrs. Cleveland was recalled to Lakewood by a telephone message from Princeton on Wednesday.

One published report had it that Mrs. Cleveland, who has been constantly with her husband during his illness, left early Wednesday morning and went to Princeton to see her children, and that shortly after she left Mr. Cleveland had a sinking spell. According to the report she was hastily communicated with and summoned back to Lakewood; that she had an express train stopped for her at Princeton and hastened back to the bedside of her husband.

It was true that Mrs. Cleveland did go to Princeton, and that she did have an express train stopped for her, but the fact that she was telephoned to return at once is denied by Dr. Bryant.

Mr. Cleveland occupies a suite in the southeast wing of the hotel on the second floor. He spends most of his time in bed near one of the windows, where the light streams in. Sometimes he is allowed to sit in an invalid chair and is wheeled about the verandas. But this is only on mild days.

BIG FINE NOT EXCESSIVE.

Government's Answer to Standard Oil's Appeal from $29,240,000 Order.

CHICAGO, April 23.—The reply brief of the Government to the appeal by the Standard Oil Company of Indiana from the fine of $29,240,000 imposed by Judge K. M. Landis was filed to-day in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here. The principal argument in the document is directed against the contention of the company that the penalty is excessive. On this point District Attorney Edwin W. Sims argues as follows:

"It was demonstrated that the omission to file the 6-cent order while the Chicago & Alton was holding out to the Inter-State Commerce Commission and the public that 18 cents was the lawful rate, was part of a deliberate conspiracy by the Standard Oil Company and the Alton.

"And can it be said that a punishment is excessive which, according to the statement of the oil company as it appears in the record of this case in this court, takes away from this company, on the basis of its own net earnings for the year in which the indictment was returned, not its liberty, not even its earning capacity, but the profits of its business for less than three years?"

CHILD ACTORS WARM TO THEIR MARK TWAIN

An Eye at Every Peek Hole and an Ear at Every Crack as He Speaks.

HE TELLS GOOD NEWS, TOO

Bigger Theatre and New Directors for the Children's Educational Play-Acting—Society Gives Aid.

"Say, didn't youse ever see an automobile before?"

This in most scornful tones last night from the larger boys in the crowd outside the Children's Theatre of the Educational Alliance, at Jefferson Street and East Broadway. It was announced that "Mark Twain" was to speak at the evening's performance, and society, with its motor cars descended upon the Children's Theatre, so naturally all the curious small boys in the neighborhood swarmed around.

To be sure, society didn't arrive till the first play, "Editha's Burglar," was well under way, and the regular patrons of the theatre who save their few pennies desperately to go there, were thrilling with admiration for the tiny Editha.

"Say! ain't she the cute one? Oh! she'll have that boiglar fooled," they murmured to each other as Society walked down the aisles.

The curtain fell on the first play, and they "got busy" behind, according to stage managerial directions. The child-actors retired to the dressing rooms, while the youthful stage hands did their work. The assistant property man stowed away safely the auto horn with which he had announced the arrival of Editha's papa, and took a hand at the lashing. As the scenery was rushed hither and thither, just like the "real behind the scenes," except for the conspicuous absence of profanity, there were many officious calls of "Sh-sh! Silence, there!" for the children's orchestra was playing Mozart's "Magic Flute" music between acts, and the artists behind respected their fellow-workers in front. All of a sudden a small girl at one side of the curtain called out:

"That's him, there he comes."

"Him" was Mark Twain, taking his place before the curtain to make his speech.

At the call, the stage hands stopped shifting, the property men came running out with a vase in each hand, and out swarmed the actors from the dressing rooms. Those from the first play had their make-up only half off, and those who were to be in the coming play had not yet developed sufficient "temperament" to object to being disturbed before going on to play their rôles. One and all, the entire staff of the Children's Theatre, ranged itself behind the curtains, with an eye at every possible peep hole, and an ear at every crack. At the furthest left-hand edge sat "Mrs. Whitmore" taking down the speech.

"I'm going to have every word he says, every word," she declared.

Meanwhile, quite unaware of this enthusiastic devotion behind the curtain, Mark Twain was making his speech to the audience in front. In opening, Mr. Clemens called attention to the playing by the children's orchestra.

"We have all home talent here," he said.

"We," sniffed a girl flippantly.

"Silence, Becky!" answered the dressing room mistress severely. However he is regarded elsewhere, the children at the Educational Alliance take Mark Twain seriously.

Mr. Clemens made only a short address, pointing out the need for a children's theatre to supply the demand for amusement, and to give amusement of the right kind. He asserted that the work was entirely educational, and that the boys and girls training for the plays knew their Shakespeare far better than many Broadway audiences. [Sotto voce applause from the actors, with their ears against the curtain.] Of the hundreds of children in the classes of "Speech and Action" only three, Mr. Clemens said, had developed any desire to take up acting as a profession.

Then Mr. Clemens announced the news of the evening. After July 1 the Educational Theatre for Children will enter upon an independent existence, under a different Board of Directors. The Honorary President of the board is Mr. Clemens himself, and he said he took great pride in the choice as he understood that the children themselves had some voice in that election. [Emphatic nods of approval from all the assembled theatre staff.] The other Directors are Robert Collier of Collier's Weekly, the Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, and President Stanley Hall of Clarke University. Under this new direction a larger building will be erected to give more seating room at the theatre and to provide schoolrooms for the accompanying class work.

The speech was over, with great applause in front, but that was nothing compared with the joyous war dance behind, in which all joined to the chant: "Oh, we're to have the new theatre." Then the stage manager called: "Hey, there! All ready!" The actors fled, the scene shifters stood at attention, the light man gathered up his blue bulbs, and all was order once more. But they crowded around the girl in the corner, who had been taking notes.

"Did you get it all down—every word he said?" they demanded as the curtain went up on "'Op-o'-me-Thumb," the second play of the evening.

SOCIETY IN COMIC OPERA.

Students of Miss Spence's School Present "La Belle Chasseuse" To-day.

At the Berkeley Lyceum this afternoon the curtain will rise for the first time on "La Belle Chasseuse," or "Hearts and Hounds," a comic opera in two acts, which will be presented by well-known young women of Miss Spence's school in aid of a class for crippled children. The music and lyrics are by Miss Grace Hollingsworth, and the book is by Miss Grace R. Henry.

Founded on a legend of Brittany, where the scenes of the operetta are laid in 1760, the story of "La Belle Chasseuse" centres around the love affairs of Julie, daughter of Comtesse de Berlier, played by Miss Constance Pratt, and an English officer, Jack Murray.

Running through the opera is another love story in which Philippe, the Duke of Castognay, played by Miss Olive Hitchcock, and Marguerite, an English girl, played by Miss Marion Stevenson, are the principals. All of the costumes have been fashioned after designs selected by Miss Henry, librettist of the play. The opera has been staged by R. O. Jenkins, and Miss Margaret Roosevelt will be prompter and Miss Anne Crane property manager.

The members of the cast and the order in which they appear are: The Misses Jacqueline Kelley, Grace R. Henry, Molly Bangs, Alma Adams, Constance Pratt, Katharine Bushnell, Eleanor Townsend, Frances Lamont, Edith Landon, Marion Stevenson, Olive Hitchcock, Gertrude Bovee, and Cornelia Montgomery. Those in the chorus are Misses Douglas Bosworth, Isabelle Corbiere, Evelina Deyo, Eleanor Fowler, Helen Glover, Mrs. Gardiner H. Miller, and Misses Dorothy Read, Edna Reynolds, Dorothy Ruxton, Mary Vanderhoef, Clara Fleitman, Corinne Gelshenen, Mathilde Leverich, Gertrude Leverich, Natalie Morrison, H. Robinson-Smith, Beatrice Pratt, Pauline Wells, Jeanette Wilson, Rosamond Burr, Lucia Burton, Janet House, Allen Lawson, Dorothy Raymond, Ruth Wales, Hilaire Sooysmith, and Louise Trowbridge. Hollingsworth, Evelyn Poor, Janet Blackwell, Harriet Alexander, and Elizabeth Bertron.

Tickets may be obtained from Miss Christine Roosevelt, 804 Fifth Avenue. A second performance will be given to-night, and the third and last to-morrow evening.

NEW YORK TO SEE "DOLLAR PRINCESS"

Charles Frohman Gets American Rights and Expects to Make a Hit.

WANTS MAY DE SOUSA IN IT

She Is Now Playing Engagement in Berlin Offered Her Just as She Was Sailing for This Country.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 23.—May De Sousa has not mysteriously disappeared, as reported in America. She is now appearing in a musical review at the Berlin Winter Garden. The story that she had disappeared originated no doubt in her failure to arrive in America on the ship sailing from Cherbourg March 29 on which she had engaged passage.

Miss De Sousa confidently expected to sail on the date named, but while she was packing her trunks she received a tempting offer from the managers of the Berlin Winter Garden for a season there beginning last Monday. Instead of sailing from Cherbourg Miss De Sousa took the first train for Berlin, where she will remain several weeks.

Charles Frohman hopes to arrange with Miss De Sousa for an appearance in New York in the "Dollar Princess," which he has secured for American production. He is going to Berlin next Wednesday for the purpose of seeing a performance of the play, and while there he will see Miss De Sousa and endeavor to make an arrangement with her.

"Miss De Sousa made such a hit at the Moulin Rouge and the Comédie Française that German managers were glad to get her," said Mr. Frohman. "I think the 'Dollar Princess' is another 'Merry Widow' and 'Waltz Dream,' and that Miss De Sousa will appear to great advantage in it in America."

LONDON COLD TO RURAL PLAY.

Reception of "Way Down East" in Aldwych Theatre Not Gratifying.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, April 24.—The reception accorded to "Way Down East" at the Aldwych Theatre last night cannot be described as gratifying.

Though the audience showed interest in some of the quaint New England characters, and seemed inclined to recognize the earnest efforts of members of the caste to make the play a success the primitive pathos and humor which insured its success in America did not seem on the whole to be appreciated here.

The attitude of the critics in this morning's papers will be understood when it is stated that they pay more attention to the snowstorm in the third act than to the plot and the acting.

TO MANAGE MISS ANGLIN.

Louis Nethersole Undertakes the Mission for a Term of Five Years.

Louis Nethersole announced last night that he had arranged with Margaret Anglin to appear under his management for a term of five years, beginning with the season of 1908-9. Miss Anglin's last New York appearances were with Henry Miller in "The Great Divide."

Miss Anglin will sail from Victoria, B. C., on May 22 for a short starring tour in Australia under the management of J. C. Williamson, appearing in a repertoire that will include "Zira," "The Thief," "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," and a new play by Percy Mackaye. When she returns from Australia early in the new season she will produce "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," and Mr. Mackaye's new piece in New York.

Mr. Nethersole will accompany Miss Anglin to Australia.

Miss Taliaferro Not to Retire Yet.

Mabel Taliaferro has temporarily reconsidered her announced determination to retire from the stage at the end of the current season. Miss Taliaferro in private life is Mrs. Frederic Thompson, and her husband's position as a manager affords her every opportunity to exercise her talents. Next season Miss Taliaferro will probably play "Polly of the Circus" on tour in one or two of the leading cities. She will then be succeeded in the cast by her younger sister, Edith, and will return to New York to appear in a new production.

Indians Never Smiled for Lew Fields.

Chief Iron-Tail and six of his Sioux Indians took a night off from the Wild West Show last night by permission of Col. Cody and went to see Lew Fields in "The Girl Behind the Counter" at the Herald Square Theatre. In a moment of recklessness Chief Fields had told the Wild West management that he would make any Indian laugh who dared go to his show. The joke was on Chief Fields, though, for throughout the entire entertainment Iron-Tail and his comrades never blinked an eye or showed a symptom of smiling.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Loise Randolph and Charles Lane will present for the first time in this country a new one-act drama, "The Pass Word," on the occasion of the Brookside Home benefit at the Garden Theatre on Sunday evening. Lewis Waller recently produced this little play in London.

Onaip, the Hindoo Mystery, whose appearance at the Hippodrome was postponed on account of an injury to his wrist, has almost recovered, and will make his first appearance next Monday.

Two performances with different bills will be given on Sunday night at the New York and Liberty Theatres, for the annual charity benefit of the White Rats of America, the organization of vaudeville performers.

Beginning on Monday the policy of the Fourteenth Street Theatre will be changed. In place of booking "combination" attractions, the house will hereafter be devoted to ten-cent vaudeville and motion picture exhibitions.

The auction sale of seats for the firemen's benefit, to take place at the Metropolitan Opera House a week from to-day, will be held at the opera house at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Jacques Cohen will be assisted by Joe Weber, Peter Dailey, Charles J. Ross, W. H. Crane, Marie Dressler, and other players.

An elaborate musical programme was given by the boy choir of Grace Church, with cello and harp accompaniment, the latter by Miss Maud Morgan. Upon the entrance of the bridal party the choir sang the "Pilgrim's Chorus," from Tannhäuser, and for the processional, "Love Divine." Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered for the recessional.

The reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, 8 East Forty-eighth Street, where the drawing room was decorated with roses and Spring flowers. Among the guests invited were ex-Secretary Ethan A. Hitchcock and Mrs. Hitchcock, Commander William Sims, U. S. N., and Mrs. Sims; Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill, the former a cousin of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. George A. Adee, Miss Adee, Mrs. Ernest Adee, Philip Henry Adee, Mrs. Richard Starr Dana, Mrs. David T. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Turner, Mrs. H. C. Chamblin, Helen D. RUSSIAN ACTRESS CALLS US ARTLESS

Mme. Komisarzhevsky Says Americans Seem to Lack True Stage Sentiment.

SHE THINKS NEW YORK UGLY

Public Unaffected by Genuine Simplicity in the Drama, but Ready to Applaud Vulgarity.

Mme. Vera Komisarzhevsky leaves New York next Tuesday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Her company, after a tearful parting with the Countess at the Everett House, sailed yesterday on the French liner Touraine. The Countess, who remains to visit Niagara Falls, spoke of the unfavorable impressions she had received of this country, but said that she might possibly return some time, though not again under Russian management.

Mme. Komisarzhevsky, it was said, had some unpleasant experiences while here. One of these was the prevention of the production of "Sister Beatrice," by Maeterlinck, which she had set her heart upon playing. While in Brooklyn one of her performances was stopped by the police because the owner of the theatre had no license. Finally, while giving a last recital in the interest of charity, two valuable jewels, one a present to her father from the Queen of Greece, and another a present to herself from the Czar, were stolen from her dressing room.

As she answered numerous questions, smilingly and graciously, Mme. Komisarzhevsky seemed in nowise concerned about what is generally considered the failure of her trip, and, while she had some uncomplimentary opinions of American art, it was evident they were not given in a spirit of pique.

"You may consider in a way," she said, "that our appearance was a failure, but what sort of a failure? It was not a financial success, as any one may have seen, but I did not come here in search of American gold, as some persons were kind enough to say of me.

"It was a failure in the sense that your public did not seem anxious to see what we Russians could do in the way of acting. That is a failure that should be on your conscience. From an artistic standpoint, my conscience is clear. I know that my company never impersonated their parts better than they did at Daly's, for they were on their mettle, and as for myself, I played according to my light.

"I am most disappointed that I was not able to play Maeterlinck's 'Sister Beatrice.' I had set my heart on it, and I felt just like playing it. I would have played it if there had not been a single person in the house, and when I learned it was legally impossible, I was almost tempted to play it anyhow and be arrested afterward. That was the most disheartening incident of my trip.

"There is an impression abroad that Americans are unappreciative of the best in art, particularly in the drama. I was warned about that on every side, but I did not believe it. I find now that to a great extent, it is true, although there appears to me to be a small class of persons who can appreciate what is good and what is bad in the drama just as well as the Europeans.

"In my own experience, the obstacle of the language was one of the most difficult things to overcome. I understand the difficulties now better than ever before. All the minor, delicate points in the delivery of the dialogue, into which an artist must put almost all the meaning, are hopelessly lost. The performance becomes one of pantomime and the interest can only be caught by the tone of the voice, through facial play and gesture and general demeanor. And while that only helped to make us work the harder, I can understand that ignorance of the language might make a play a little tiresome.

"But I do not regard the ignorance of the language as the cause of the lack of interest in our playing. In Europe, artists playing in unknown tongues do not lack attention. I consider the chief cause of the lack of interest in our company to have been the fact that Americans have not yet reached the stage where they can appreciate simplicity in art. What is simple appeals to them as uninspired.

"I do not say this solely from my own experience. On several occasions I went to see some of your American plays. I am sorry that I was unable to see those who, I was told, were your best artists. Some of your actors and actresses seem to be gifted. It was the audience, however, that was the most interesting and amusing to me. On one occasion, where the acting was very appealing because of its simplicity, they seemed not the least affected; the acting that was obviously more or less vulgar they applauded.

"On another occasion, in a pathetic piece, the audience was very much affected, but did not seem to notice that the acting was ridiculous. It seemed to me from that that your audiences are not at all critical of the acting; in fact, care little about it."

Mme. Komisarzhevsky was asked what she thought of New York.

"It is a monster city," she answered. "When I arrived, it was almost frightening. I noticed at once, however, that there was very little art in your architecture or pride in the appearance of the city. I do not understand why your millionaires do not attempt to beautify the cities. In Europe, the wealthy are not only the patrons of all forms of art, but assist in educating the public in appreciating them."

To Present "Cap'n Kidd" To-night.

With the strike of the private chorus of the New York University 'Varsity show settled, "Cap'n Kidd & Co." will be played to-night at Carnegie Lyceum. Two more performances will be given to-morrow at 2:15 and 8:15.

Mrs. William Faversham was among the guests at the dress rehearsal, and expressed herself as greatly pleased with the work of the cast and chorus. The play is a satire on modern business "piracy" and a few other things.

JOSEPH LEITER WILL WED ARMY BRIDE

His Engagement to Daughter of Col. J. R. Williams Is Announced.

WOOED ON AN AUTO TRIP

No Date Fixed, but Marriage Will Probably Take Place in June—Ceremony Will Be Simple.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Col. John R. Williams, U. S. A., and Mrs. Williams today announced the engagement of their eldest daughter, Miss Juliette Williams, to Joseph Leiter, only son of the late Levi Z. Leiter of Chicago and Washington.

Col. Williams, who is on duty at Fort Du Pont, Del., came to Washington to-day to give his sanction to the engagement, which is said to have come about during an automobile trip to Richmond from which Miss Williams returned under the chaperonage of Mrs. George Summerlin. The wedding is expected to take place in June, although the mother of the bride-to-be declared to-day that no date had been fixed and no details decided upon, saying it was all too new even to have been discussed in family council.

Miss Williams made her début two years ago at a large dinner party at the Chevy Chase Club. She has been educated entirely in American schools, having spent most of her childhood at the Visitation Convent in Georgetown, but later passed a year with her parents in Manila and several Summers in Europe.

Mr. Leiter is exactly twice the age of his future wife, having been born in Chicago in 1868. He was graduated from Harvard in the class of '91, is a member of the Metropolitan and Chevy Chase Clubs of Washington, and the University Club of Chicago. It was in Chicago that Mr. Leiter carried on his unsuccessful stock market venture. Until the past year Mr. Leiter has spent little time in Washington, and not until recently identified himself with society at the capital. He now makes his home with his mother at the latter's Du Pont Circle residence.

The marriage will be a very simple ceremony owing to the difference in faith of the contracting parties, Miss Williams being a Catholic and Mr. Leiter an Episcopalian.

The engagement ring is a large sapphire in platinum, and mounted on a slender hoop of gold. This favorite stone of the bride-to-be is the first of a number of jewels which she will receive on her marriage.

Miss Williams is a special protégée of Mrs. Henry C. Corbin. The friendship had its beginning in Manila, where Mrs. Corbin was charmed with the beautiful young American, who was then little more than a schoolgirl.

The Williamses' Washington home is at the Connecticut, a fashionable apartment house where Mrs. Williams and her daughters have lived for two seasons. The second daughter of the family, Miss Dorothy Williams, will be graduated from Georgetown Convent in June and be presented to society next Winter.

Miss Nell Clay Evans Engaged.

Special to The New York Times.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 23.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Clay Evans announce the engagement of their daughter, Nell Clay Evans, to Dr. Joseph W. Johnson, a young physician of this city. Miss Evans is well known in New York and Washington, particularly in the latter city, where Mr. Evans served as Pension Commissioner and Assistant Postmaster General in London. Miss Evans was greatly admired in England. Mr. and Mrs. Evans's other daughter is the wife of Lieut. Sellers of the Navy.

INVESTMENT MARKET GOOD

Pennsylvania's Success Encourages Roads Needing Funds—Time Money Down.

For the third successive day the circumstances surrounding the Pennsylvania's bond offer dominated financial markets and sentiment in the financial community. It is a significant fact that, although the issue of $40,000,000 is hardly in the hands of the bankers, the home portion of it has already been oversubscribed several times, while in the open market a price 3 points above the figure at which the bonds are to be offered to the public has been bid for them "when issued." The participation in the purchase of the two foremost banking houses of Europe has naturally led to the hope that American investments will from this time on find growing favor in European eyes. The immediate effect of such considerations has been a stirring of the bond market as a whole. The many short-term notes of undoubted worth, which have been a drug upon the market for months, have been eagerly sought by banks through private investors, with the result that they have been to all intents and purposes swept off the market. From this class of security the demand has run on to bonds of one kind and another, and even to the standard shares dealt in on the Stock Exchange, a fact illustrated by the exceptional activity yesterday of such issues as Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, and receipts for Northern Pacific part-paid stock. Corporations which have been wistfully eyeing the money market for a year have been quick to take advantage of the situation, and are daily announcing new issues of securities. Yesterday the Chesapeake & Ohio formally authorized an issue of $2,000,000 of 5 per cent. bonds, and these were entirely taken before the close of the day. The Norfolk & Western sold to a trust company $7,500,000 of 5 per cent. notes, and the same sharp demand will undoubtedly lead to their early disposal. It is a somewhat noteworthy fact that in connection with this sale by the Norfolk & Western the company announced a reduction in its dividend rate from a 5 per cent. annual basis to 4 per cent. without effect either on the price of the stock or on its note offering. Within a short time the Pennsylvania Directors are to meet, and the possibility of a reduction in the Pennsylvania rate is also discussed, but if this is made it will be so obviously in the direction of conservatism and the strengthening of the road's position that it will cause no apprehensions. Trading in stocks ran to some 600,000 shares, or more than half of the total business of the Exchange in the four days of last week, and the advance spread to many sections of the list which have long been dormant. At the close prices were at practically the high figures of the day.

No gold engagements were announced for the day, largely owing to the fact that shipping facilities for the Paris destination were not favorable. Demand sterling rates weakened a trifle, but discounts at Paris rose, and interest rates at all important European centres are now well above our own. Time money here declined again. The banks lost to the Sub-Treasury for the first time in a fortnight, owing to gold withdrawals. The two matters which are still to be cleared up from the money market point of view are the policy which the Government will adopt with respect to United States deposits and the effect of Pennsylvania bond takings by foreign bankers upon the gold movement. The Bank of England's weekly return showed a further small gain in the percentage of reserves to deposits, while the Bank of France also made a favorable report for the same period.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—Weather and crop conditions were ideal yesterday over the whole country, but prices rose on strong cables, small Northwest receipts, rapidly declining American stocks, and an active European demand. Liverpool closed ⅞ to 1⅛d, and Berlin 1⅛c up. Exporters took 50 loads, and in the morning it was rumored that they had taken 80 loads, including 100,000 bushels new crop for September and October shipment. Cash wheat in New York closed firm. No. 2 red, $1.06, elevator, and $1.07, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern Duluth, $1.17, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.18¾, free on board, afloat.

CORN.—In the face of a full country movement there was a firm close. No sales for export. Cash corn in New York closed steady, with No. 2 at 75½c, in elevator, and 74c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 75c nominal, free on board, afloat.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Converting the Bears.

There were many converts in the speculative markets yesterday, and some of the most persistent bears changed their abiding faith in the certainty of a material break in prices and became enthusiasts on the other side of the question. Without doubt the market leader was Union Pacific. The movement in that stock shaped sentiment, and had an abiding influence on traders. Incidentally, many short accounts were eliminated for the very good reason that stop-loss orders were plentiful in Union Pacific in the neighborhood of 130, and in Reading, Amalgamated Copper, Steel common, and other active stocks at prices one or two points above the figures until recently prevailing. Whether the short account was a substantial factor in the advance was a moot question with many brokers. The continued strength and apparent ease with which it was maintained would seem to indicate that there was a fundamental condition which inspired it. Whether that fundamental condition was concentrated professional effort or activity of more important interests remains a question, but in any event a better basis for the distribution of accumulated stock has been reached.

⁂

Doubts of Professionals.

Before the opening yesterday morning one of the best-known professionals on the floor was asked at his office what he thought of the market. This is what he said: "I made it a point yesterday to watch the trading in two or three stocks. They were important stocks, and to my mind ought to furnish the key to the market trend. So far as I could see the buying could not be characterized as at all good, while the selling was of the very best. Ordinarily, that would be conclusive evidence for me that the market would react. But I am very much in doubt. I am naturally bearish, and I see nothing in any recent development, not even the Pennsylvania loan, to warrant the marking up of stocks at this time. But I am not going short of them, and it is more than probable that when I go over on the board this morning I shall buy a few hundred. I am doing it against my will, but I am afraid of the other side temporarily."

⁂

Offering Steel Privileges.

Privilege dealers have been more or less in evidence of late, and some confess to more or less uniform success in disposing of their wares. There are some traders who are always fortified with a put or call when they take a position on the market. If the stock be a comparatively active one and the position of the trader not very confident, the purchase of a privilege is more or less of an insurance helping to limit the losses. One of these privilege dealers has been in evidence in the lobby of the Exchange for some time. On Wednesday he was offering calls on Steel common at 35¾ for $70, good for a period of fifteen days. Furthermore, he was offering to guarantee that the stock would sell at the call price within a limited time. Of course the purchaser of a call on 100 shares of Steel common would have to see the stock advance approximately to 36½ before there would be any profit in it for him. The strength of Steel in yesterday's market made some regret that they had not purchased the calls, not because they expected to realize on them, but because if they sold the stock short they would have limited their loss to about half a point in the event of an advance, and any material decline would have meant profit.

Pennsylvania and Other Bonds.

Bond men are not all agreed that the apparent ease with which Pennsylvania sold its $40,000,000 of first mortgage bonds is indicative of such a condition in the investment market that other roads will have no difficulty in taking care of their necessary financing. They point out that the Pennsylvania situation is practically unique. No other road can present quite so strong an inducement to the holders of surplus money, which facilitates the distribution of the bonds by the bankers. Another question raised is as to the influence the price of these bonds will have on other bonds in their class. Aside from the issue of $40,000,000 of additional securities, the fact remains that a Pennsylvania first mortgage 4 per cent. bond which sold at 96 will not make attractive other first mortgage 4 per cent. bonds in the neighborhood of par. It is too early to judge, but dealers in bonds will experience the comparison without doubt.

Commission Business Small.

Activity in the market has not induced any improvements in commission business. Most of the brokers complain that they are not reaping any benefits from the betterment in the market, but they admit that if the advance is sustained long enough, traders who have been out of the market on account of the apathy, will reappear. There is not likely to be the same ready response to a manipulated advance that there used to be in other years, but the speculative fever is infectious, and nothing inspires it so quickly as an upward movement in the market. Practically all the outside traders are purchasers of stocks, and many of them have no conception of possible profits on the short side. Experience counts for little if the market shows sufficient enthusiasm, but one thing that will count, and does count, in limiting the return to activity is the fact that many good traders went broke last year.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

Trading on European Bourses Dull, with Stocks Somewhat Heavy.

LONDON, April 23.—Money was in good demand and fair supply on the market to-day and discounts were firm. Trading on the Stock Exchange continued dull and uninteresting. Gilt-edged securities and home rails made further declines in the absence of investment buying, while the approach of the settlement checked speculation. Foreigners were irregular and Japanese shares were weak.

The dealings in American securities were moderate in the forenoon, the market awaiting the result of the Pennsylvania issue. Values stood around parity, the Continent supporting the low-priced securities. Later New York bought Southern Pacific and Steel. This strengthened the rest of the list and the market closed steady.

Bar silver was quiet at 25 1-16d per ounce.

Money, 2¼@2¾ per cent.

PARIS, April 23.—Trading on the Bourse to-day was quiet and prices were heavy.

BERLIN, April 23.—Prices on the Boerse to-day opened firmer, but became depressed later in the day upon The Iron Age's résumé of trade conditions.

SECURITY ISSUES STRENGTHEN MARKET

Movement of Railways Looked Upon as a Favorable Turn Among Investors.

PENNSYLVANIA BONDS UP

They Reach 99½ and Bankers Report That the Issue Will Be Far Oversubscribed.

Announcements of security issues by several railroads, with added details of the Pennsylvania Railroad bond issue and the Interborough Rapid Transit note issue, impressed upon Wall Street yesterday that the market has entered upon a new period of financing in which a number of corporations will seek to raise funds. It is regarded as significant of the recent favorable turn in the investment market that the railroads are now finding it possible to obtain capital on reasonable terms.

The issues announced yesterday included a $7,500,000 note issue by the Norfolk & Western and the sale of the bonds and notes of the Chesapeake & Ohio, regarding which arrangements were made earlier in the week, but which were not formally authorized by the Directors until a meeting held yesterday.

The new Pennsylvania bonds which are to be offered for public subscription today at 96 sold yesterday as high as 99½, and the subscriptions which poured in to the bankers were reported at the close of the day to have exceeded several times the amount which will be placed in this market. Subscriptions received at any time before closing the lists will receive the same consideration as those already received by the bankers.

The Norfolk & Western notes are to run for two years from May 1, are to be secured by $10,000,000 divisional first and lien and general mortgage 4 per cent. bonds, and will be offered for subscription at 99 and interest. The proceeds of this note issue, it is stated, will be used to recoup the company's treasury for expenditures for improvements in addition to those which have been provided for out of the annual appropriations from income.

The $2,000,000 of consolidated 5 per cent. bonds and the $1,500,000 of 6 per cent. two-year notes, the sale of which was formally authorized by the Chesapeake & Ohio Directors yesterday, have been sold to Kuhn, Loeb & Co. J. P. Morgan & Co. and Blair & Co. have taken an interest in the issues. The proceeds of both issues are to be used mostly for caring for maturing bonds and notes. The notes are to be dated July 1 next and will mature July 1, 1910.

In connection with the offering of the Pennsylvania bonds at a price several points below that already bid for them in the open market, it was said by one of the bankers interested in the issue that the desire is to float securities of such high standing upon such terms that the purchasers are morally certain to see their investment enhance in value from the beginning. This is a reversal of conditions which have so often attended public offerings of securities, which soon have sold below the subscription price.

THE COFFEE MARKET.

Coffee opened steady yesterday at unchanged prices, and closed steady net unchanged to 5 points lower. Sales were reported of 62,750 bags. European markets closed net unchanged. Rio was 25 reis higher. Santos was unchanged. Receipts at primary points were reported as 22,000 bags, against 27,000 last year, and 22,000 in 1906. Jundiahy receipts were 8,000 bags, against 28,000 last year, and 8,000 in 1906. Spot coffee was quiet; 6c for Rio No. 7.

The range of contract prices was as follows:

WANTS HIS GIFT HOUSE BACK.

Roth Goes to Court to Compel Return of Property Deeded to Fiancee.

A rule to show cause, obtained for George A. Roth of Englewood in Jersey City yesterday, was his first legal step in a proceeding to get back a house he gave to Miss Amanda Leister of Englewood about two months ago, soon after the announcement of their engagement.

Roth is 60 years old. The house is a two-story and basement building at Sunrise Park. The rule was granted by Vice Chancellor Garrison, and directs Miss Leister and her brother-in-law, John A. Rauschert, and his wife, of Englewood, to show why an injunction should not be issued to restrain them from disposing of the house.

Roth's petition, submitted by Adolf L. Engelke of Jersey City, relates that Roth was introduced to Miss Leister in August last by Rauschert; that they became engaged to marry, and on Feb. 25 the engagement was made public. Late in February Roth transferred the title of the Sunrise Park House to Miss Leister.

On March 3 Miss Leister transferred the property to Rauschert and his wife, and Rauschert began remodeling the house, putting a hole in a wall of the room Roth wanted for himself. The petition says that Roth has not been able to see his betrothed since he gave her the house.

The rule is returnable next Monday.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Dogs of High Pedigree Must Have Official Certificates.

The Board of United States General Appraisers overruled yesterday a claim filed by J. S. Cattanach of New York for the free entry of dogs having high pedigrees. When the animals were entered at the Custom House they were assessed for duty at the rate of 20 per cent. ad valorem under the provision in the tariff for "live animals not specially provided for." The importer objected to this tax and went before the board contending that the dogs were imported for breeding purposes, and therefore should receive the benefit of exemption from duty as provided for in the Dingley tariff. The importer, however, at the expiration of six months failed to produce the necessary official certificates of pedigrees, and on account of the non-production of the papers the board affirms the imposition of the duty by the Collector.

Another protest involving the classification of dogs was filed by G. H. S. Todd of Detroit, who averred that pet dogs belonging to the protestant, an American citizen, were taken to Canada and were sent back to the United States when their owner returned. According to the board, the owner of the animals failed to comply fully with the regulations of the Treasury Department governing the entry of animals. For this reason the protest is overruled.

BALLOTS FOR MAYOR FOUND ON THE FLOOR

Election Board President Testifies at Recount Hearing That Boxes Were Tampered With.

HAD PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN

Policeman Says He Found Seals Broken, While Many of the Boxes Were Left Unguarded.

John T. Dooling, President of the Board of Elections, a witness in the McClellan-Hearst recount case, yesterday swore that in January last he had gone to the loft in Mott Street where many of the ballot boxes used in the Mayoralty election of 1905 were stored and had seen many mutilated ballots. Boxes containing unvoted ballots and stubs were unguarded, he said.

John W. Noble, a clerk in the Manhattan Bureau of the Board of Elections, said that all of the ballot boxes in Manhattan that were stored at the Manhattan Warehouse in Seventh Avenue were placed there under his supervision and were in good condition when they were transferred from Forty-first, Mott, and Sixty-first Streets, where they were stored two days after the election.

"Mr. Noble," said Mr. Richards, of counsel for the Mayor, "what was the condition of the seals on those ballot boxes when they were received at the Manhattan Warehouse?"

"For the most part they were in good condition, but some of them were torn or broken," the witness answered.

Speaking of the ballot box that was dropped off the wagon, Mr. Noble said that box had been badly mutilated and was tied up with a rope.

"You told me yesterday that none of the ballot boxes was broken, did you not?" asked Mr. Dolson of counsel for the Attorney General.

The witness did not remember making any such statement. In answer to another question he said he had seen Mr. Richards, the Mayor's lawyer, about a month ago, and that he had made an affidavit for him in reference to the ballot boxes. He denied that he had refused to make an affidavit for Attorney General Jackson.

Policeman H. K. Hughes testified that he had found several of the seals on the boxes loose and had pasted them on tighter. He said that at no time were the Hearst watchers alone in the warehouses where the boxes were stored. Policeman Felix A. Quinn also testified as to the condition of the boxes and of the precautions that had been taken to safeguard them.

Mortimer F. Morris, a clerk in the Board of Elections, said that several packages of unvoted ballots had been turned over to the board in a damaged condition. When Mr. Morris left the stand Mr. Dooling, the President of the Board of Elections, was called.

"Who appointed you to your present position?" asked Mr. Dolson.

"His Honor the Mayor of New York," replied the witness.

"The ballots voted in 1905 are still in the possession of your board, are they not?"

"They are in storage."

"What was found in the Mott Street loft, where some of the ballot boxes were stored?"

"I think that about two months ago there were somes boxes containing unvoted ballots and stubs in that place unguarded."

A photograph of the Mott Street loft was then placed in evidence, which showed tier upon tier of ballot boxes with rubbish and bits of paper in the background.

"Tell us about a ballot that you found under the steam pipes in that loft."

"It was a ballot and was marked in the Democratic column."

Mr. Richards indicated a particular box that was shown in the picture and asked Mr. Dooling if there was anything unusual about it.

"I found that box," he replied, "at one side of the room. It was not closed and appeared to have been pushed around."

"What did that box contain?"

"It contained stubs and ballots, some of them marked in the Democratic and others in the Republican column. There were also defective ballots in the box."

"Was there a fire escape leading to the Mott Street loft?"

"There was."

"Any bars or grating on the windows?"

"There was not."

"What did you see scattered about on the floor of that Mott Street loft?"

"I saw stubs and ballots, both used and unused."

"Before you were appointed President of the Board of Elections were you not counsel for the Mayor in these very proceedings?" asked Mr. Dolson.

"I was associated with counsel in the case. Judge Parker represented the Mayor."

"Who asked you to go to that Mott Street loft?"

"Mr. Richards said he would like to go with me."

"Who else went along?"

"I do not recollect any others. We arranged it by telephone."

"How long was it before the photographer got there?"

"About half an hour."

Mr. Dooling, under further examination, said he saw ten or fifteen ballots on the Mott Street loft floor, and that of this number he had taken note of three, two of them Democratic and one a Republican ballot.

"You will swear that you had nothing to do with placing those ballots there?"

"I certainly will."

The case will be resumed at 10:30 o'clock this morning.
